School Overview

The Urban Assembly School for the Performing Arts (UASPA) engages students in college-preparatory curricula that infuses the performing arts into all aspects of the academic experience. By using the arts as a teaching tool and providing students with means to express themselves, UASPA breathes creativity into all subjects and builds confidence in all students. At UASPA, we believe that all students deserve access to a rigorous academic and artistic high school experience; we do not audition our students and we attract students from all five boroughs who may not have had previous access to artistic study. We have partnerships with key organizations, such as Tony Bennett Foundation/Exploring the Arts, Martha Graham Dance Company, EPIC Theatre Ensemble, and The Collegiate Chorale that support our teachers with improving instruction by integrating the arts into their classrooms and providing students with exceptional art and career-based learning experiences. ...
