The Proposed Closure of J.H.S. 22 Jordan L. Mott (09X022) and Opening and Co-Location of a New Middle School with Bronx Writing Academy (09X323) in Building X022 Beginning in 2012-2013

I. Description of the subject and purpose of the proposed item under consideration.

On February 27, 2012, the New York City Department of Education (“DOE”) published an Educational Impact Statement (“EIS”) describing a proposal to close J.H.S. 22 Jordan L. Mott (09X022, “J.H.S. 22”), an existing district middle school in building X022 (“X022”), located at 270 East 167 Street, Bronx, NY, 10456, in Community School District 9. It currently serves students in grades six through eight. The DOE proposed to immediately replace J.H.S. 22 with New School (09X571, “New School”), a new district middle school serving students in grades six through eight, in building X022. On March 29, 2012, the DOE published an amended EIS which corrected the bilingual programming offerings at J.H.S. 22, omitted references to the Speech and Language Clinic which was incorrectly noted as being located in the building, contained corrected typographical errors, and included updates concerning developments with respect to another DOE proposal. This Second Amended Notice is being issued to conform to the changes made in the amended EIS published on March 29, 2012.

If this proposal is approved, J.H.S. 22 will close at the conclusion of the 2011-2012 school year. All current students who have not completed eighth grade before the start of the 2012-2013 school year will be guaranteed seats and automatically enrolled in New School.

J.H.S. 22 is co-located with Bronx Writing Academy (09X323, “Bronx Writing Academy”), an existing district middle school that currently serves students in grades six through eight. A “co-location” means that two or more school organizations are located in the same building and may share common spaces like auditoriums, gymnasiums, and cafeterias. This proposal is not expected to impact this Community Based Organization (“CBO”).

Both J.H.S. 22 and Bronx Writing Academy admit students through the Middle School Choice Process, with priority to students residing in each school’s respective zone and then to students and residents of Districts 9 and 10.

The DOE strives to ensure that all students in New York City have access to a high-quality school at every stage of their education. By closing J.H.S. 22 and replacing it with New School, the DOE is seeking to expeditiously improve educational quality in the X022 building. If this proposal is approved, New School will develop rigorous, school-specific competencies to measure and screen prospective staff – including J.H.S. 22 staff who apply to work at New School. Based on these criteria, and in accordance with the staffing requirements in Article 18-D of the DOE’s existing contract with the United Federation of Teachers (“UFT”), New School will put in place a process aimed at hiring the best possible staff, thus immediately improving teacher quality and, by extension, improving the quality of learning. New School plans to develop new programs and school supports that are intended to improve student outcomes. Doing this important work to improve the quality of teaching and learning in the school, DOE also will maximize New School’s chance of receiving up to $900,000 in supplemental federal funding under the federal School Improvement Grant (“SIG”) program. New School will build on the strongest elements of J.H.S. 22 and incorporate new elements, including new talent, designed to better meet student needs. Thus, the immediate closure and replacement of J.H.S. 22 with New School should give students access to a higher-quality educational option while they continue to attend school in the same building.
