

What Works In Urban Schools

A Professional Development Day for New York City Educators

January 5, 2013

The New York Hilton
Learn more and RSVP at whatworksined.org

Join Us for a Full Day of Professional Development and Collaboration!

What Works is the place for New York City educators to learn, to share, and to grow their career. Build community and concrete skills with colleagues from public schools, charter schools, and independent schools — all eager to elevate their craft and achieve their teaching and learning goals.

Hear our line-up of experienced and diverse experts discuss ELL, special education, rigor, standards and assessments, and diversity. You'll also get expert insights on boosting engagement in STEM education, fostering critical thinking, and using social media in the classroom

Over 25 workshops to choose from! Highlight presenters include:

- Dennis Walcott, Chancellor, NYC Department of Education
- Dave Levin, Co-Founder of KIPP
- Ruth Culham, author of 6+1 Traits of Writing
- Jeff Duncan-Andrade, Director of the Educational Equity Initiative at the Institute for Sustainable Economic, Educational, and Environmental Design (ISEED)
- Christopher Emdin, professor of math, science, and technology at Teachers College

Visit WhatWorksInEd.org to learn more and to sign up for What Works. Register by November 25th and save 20% off the full price!

SPONSORS

