

HOLLYHOCK FELLOWSHIP PROGRAM

This competitive fellowship program is designed to support talented early-career high school teachers by providing them with world-class opportunities to develop expertise in teaching their content area and leadership skills.

FEATURES OF FELLOWSHIP

- 2 year program of cutting edge professional development
 - 2 summers at Stanford in workshops focused on teaching your core content area
 - School year follow-up, including online coaching and a networked professional community
- Stipend for participation
- All travel, room, and board during summer program
- Continuing education credits
- Certificate of teacher leadership

CRITERIA FOR SELECTION

Highly qualified applicants will have

- Between 2 and 7 years of teaching experience in science, mathematics, history, or English
- A record of high-quality teaching
- Leadership potential
- Support from school leadership
- Commitment to classroom teaching and professional growth
- A teaching position in a high poverty, hard-to-staff high school
- At least 1 school colleague who also applies

To receive more information, register at cset.stanford.edu/fellowship/hollyhock.

