School Mission Statement

The Excelsior Preparatory High School is a college preparatory school in which a rigorous academic, multicultural program and a collaborative and caring learning community are the keys to the school's structure. We are a small high school that was created in partnership with the Institute for Student Achievement (ISA). We are also supported by the Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation.

Principal's Statement

Excelsior Preparatory High School is designed in accordance with the Institute for Student Achievement's seven principles for creating successful, intellectually demanding small learning communities. Excelsior Prep is driven by the basic premise that it should provide students with a rigorous, intellectually challenging and supportive environment designed to prepare students for high school graduation, college, and full citizenship in a dynamic and changing world. In addition to academic rigor, students have an infrastructure for support that includes counseling, close and sustained relationships with teachers for the purpose of academic development.

Special Academic Programs

Excelsior Prep utilizes an inquiry approach to teaching and learning. Our classes are project based and include classes in computer technology, web design, video technology, African/Caribbean history, peer mediation and conflict resolution, extended day arts and enrichment classes in all subjects.

Extracurricular Activities

Leadership and support, student council, peer tutoring, after school enrichment, debate team, arista, step classes, chess, drama, hip hop dance, gospel chorus.

Community Support

The Institute for Student Achievement, The Bill and Melinda Gates Foundation, York College, Columbia University, SUNY Stony Brook, Queens Mediation Center, United Black Men of Queens.

Parent/School Support

Parent volunteer program. Parent workshops.
