School Overview

As a new school, our students love the 'small school' feel. Our goal is to continue to create small learning communities where every adult knows your name. This allows our student body to understand that their teachers are tuning in and making decisions based on their individual needs as learners. In addition, by the time our students graduate, they will have been exposed to multiple arts disciplines. Parents and families of our students appreciate the open communication and constant reciprocal dialogue with our staff regarding the needs and next steps of their children. In addition, we identify the individual needs of all students and instructional decisions are made with those needs as a focus. Because of our small size, parents and families are able to participate in many student activities and performances. ...
