School Overview

Through close partnerships with the Borough of Manhattan Community College (BMCC) and with the advertising and media industry, Manhattan Early College School for Advertising (MECA) provides all students with a strong education that prepares them for college and careers. Students have the option to remain at MECA for up to six years and can earn an Associate Degree – at no cost – in addition to their CTE-endorsed high school Regents diploma. In the first four years, students participate in a range of work-based learning experiences including job shadowing, field trips, special training seminars, and summer internships. At MECA, we hold all community members accountable for our five pillars: Scholarship, Creativity, Character, Responsibility, and Empathy. We take pride in our nurturing environment where all students are respected and supported as they develop intellectually, socially, and emotionally. ...
