This Annual Arts in Schools Report provides data for:

School: 10 X439

2007-2008 Principal: Gail Joyner-White

INSIDE THIS REPORT

The Annual Arts in Schools Report is a tool for school leaders to understand their delivery of arts education to every child in their school. Each Annual Arts in Schools Report measures two areas:

Student Access to and Participation in Arts Education

Uses surveys and information from DOE databases to understand if students are meeting the New York State Instructional Requirements for the Arts as well as the activities, resources and facilities used to support arts learning in each school. In addition, this section reports on questions asked in the Learning Environment Surveys about arts education.

Resources to Support Arts Education

Uses information from DOE databases and surveys to understand the resources that schools are allocating for arts education. This section includes information on certified arts teachers, arts and cultural organization services, space for arts learning, arts fundraising and professional development opportunities for teachers.

Dear School Community,

This report provides a view of the arts education opportunities you are providing for your students based on your responses to the Annual Arts Education Survey in June 2008 and includes information from the New York City Department of Education's databases.

The Annual Arts in Schools Report is an important part of the New York City Department of Education's effort to ensure that schools are providing students with the high-quality arts education they need and deserve. The report has been created to help school leaders, parents, and teachers understand how they can improve student learning in the arts, building on the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts which provides detailed PreK-12 curricula aligned with State standards: <http://schools.nyc.gov/offices/teachlearn/arts/blueprint.html>

New York State Requirements for Arts Education

At the elementary level, in grades 1-6, the New York State Education Department (NYSED) requires that students receive instruction in dance, music, theater and visual arts in every grade. In addition, NYSED recommends that students spend a specific allocation of hours learning in the arts.ⁱ

At the middle school level, in grades 7 and 8, the NYSED expects that students achieve, by the end of grade 8, one half-unit of study in visual arts and one half-unit of study in music. NYSED has allowed New York City schools to offer any two of the art forms to meet the requirements.

At the high school level, the New York State Education Department requires that all students graduate having taken one unit or two credits in the arts (dance, music, theater and/or visual arts). High schools have the option of offering a three or five year sequence in any one of the four art forms. Students who complete five units in a single art form and successfully complete the exit exam in that art form are eligible to receive a Regents diploma with advanced designation in the arts.

The table below shows the percent of students participating in arts classes by grade and by arts discipline in 2007-2008:

GRADE	DANCE	MUSIC	THEATER	VISUAL ARTS

This school has submitted the following information about its arts program:

Our school faces challenges in providing education through the arts in that the dedicated and equipped spaces for music and recording are affected by diminishing space within the campus dedicated to our school. We share space with six other schools, and the arts school in our building claims the space dedicated to theatre, visual arts, photography, and instrumental/vocal music. Our budget cannot sustain the hiring of both a full-time certified music/dance instructor and a full-time certified visual arts instructor. Nonetheless, our visual arts program offers all students exposure to media and visual literacy including stop motion animation, fine arts, such as painting, sculpture, and printmaking, as well as silk-screening and digital photography. Our music program includes instruction in sampling, producing, and mixing as well as playing the keyboard. The music program also includes a music history and appreciation component to align with the blueprint for the arts. In addition to these courses, the school offers after school clubs that foster interest in the arts including an anime club that teaches character development and storyboarding, a documentary film club which uses pro-tools to create a student generated documentary film, and a yearbook class which teaches web-based layout and design as well as photojournalism. Our goals for 2008-2009 are to expand the involvement of the school in authentic arts instruction provided through cultural organizations, to refine the visual arts program to include technology and interdisciplinary applications of the arts, and to provide our students with enrichment opportunities in music and dance through after school workshops, performances, and on-site instruction by arts professionals.

Notes

- Throughout this report, N/A signifies that data were not applicable.
- Learning Environment Survey data are based on responses from schools where students provided responses to the 2007/8 Learning Environment Survey and are based on the perception of students about the arts in this school. For more information on how well this school supports student learning in the arts, please visit the 2007 - 2008 Learning Environment Survey which is located on the Statistics section of this school's website.
- Schools may have more than six arts and cultural service providers, but due to space constraints we were unable to list all of the arts or cultural organizations with which they work.
- All data are based on arts instruction offered during the school day. This Annual Arts in Schools Report does not report on after school, weekend, and summer arts education.
- Percentages of the Learning Environment Survey data may not add up to 100 percent due to rounding. The percentages are not based on a student response rate of 100%.
