Fall School Library Conference November 4, 2008

Registration is now open at <http://pd.nycoit.org/>. Join library colleagues on November 4, 2008 for a day of stimulating workshops, inspirational speakers and collegial networking, all with the goal of empowering NYC students to realize their full potential through effective school library programs. The theme of this year's conference is Media Literacy: Preparing Students for the 21st Century and our keynote presenter will be Cyndy Scheibe, founder and Executive Director of Project Look Sharp at Ithaca College. Attend concurrent sessions within the strands of literacy, inquiry, technology and professional issues. Review materials from over 50 vendors and cultural institutions to build collections that meet the needs of your students and staff. For the first time ever, this event will be organized with all secondary and elementary level librarians invited to attend on the same day.
