Mission and History/Organization Description:

For the past 12 years, 144 Music and Arts has been active in music, art, dance, and drama education. Our Teaching Artists are all friendly, experienced professionals who are dedicated to instilling a love of the Arts in all the students and teachers they work with. We believe the Arts are an integral part of every students' education.

Arts Education Programming Description:

144 Music and Arts brings professionals into the classrooms to conduct a series of hands-on workshops, giving students an opportunity to interact with a sector of the community most would not otherwise have a chance to meet. Our immediate goal is to expose PreK to 12th grade students to an audio, kinetic, and emotional experience of music, that, in time, allows them to develop a knowledge and appreciation for music's different aspects. In longer terms, we hope students can build on the success they achieve in our workshops and use this experience as a foundation to build self-confidence in other challenging areas.

www.92y.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded more than a century ago to serve the Jewish people, the 92nd Street Y promotes individual and family development and participation in civic life within the context of Jewish values and American pluralism.

At once a community and cultural center, the YM-YWHA seeks to create, provide and disseminate programs of distinction that foster the physical and mental health of human beings throughout their lives, their educational and spiritual growth, and their enjoyment.

The 92nd Street Y reaches out beyond its core constituency of American Jews to serve people of diverse, racial, religious ethnic and economic backgrounds, seeking partnerships that leaven our programs and broaden our influence.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The 92nd Street Y Educational Outreach Program empowers young people by making student involvement in the arts its primary goal. The Musical Introduction Series, Schools Partnership Program, Dance Educational Laboratory and Afterschool Scholarship Program bring music, dance, theater and visual arts education to 8,000 school children all over New York City.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Abraham Lincoln Brigade Archives (ALBA) is a non-profit educational organization dedicated to promoting public awareness, research, and discussion about the Spanish Civil War (1936-39) and the American volunteers who risked their lives to fight fascism in Spain. Using the continually expanding ALB archival collections at New York University's Tamiment Library, ALBA presents exhibitions, publications, performances, and educational programs related to the war and its historical, political, artistic, and biographical significance. With these activities, ALBA preserves the legacy of progressive activism of the Abraham Lincoln Brigade as an inspiration for present and future generations.

Arts Education Programming Description:

ALBA provides professional development for middle and high school teachers presenting the artistic contribution in historical context of the Spanish Civil War. Resources and investigations include propaganda posters, front line and children's drawings, photography, musical scores, original films, and literary works. Additionally we have exhibitions with curricular guides available.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Abrons Arts Center supports the presentation of innovative, multi-disciplinary work; cultivates artists in all stages of their creative development through educational programs and residencies; and serves as an intersection of cultural engagement for local, national, and international audiences and art-workers.

Arts Education Programming Description:

StudioLab is the Abrons' pioneering approach to school-based arts education providing students from pre-kindergarten through college innovative learning experiences in the performing, visual, literary, and media arts. With decades of experience cultivating young artists in classroom environments, StudioLab programs offer unique learning models for students to acquire fundamental arts skills and reflect critically on the hows and whys of their creative process. Our approach enhances classroom learning, engages students through the exploration of contemporary art forms, and connects them to global issues that affect their daily lives. StudioLab's nationally recognized staff and resident artists develop teaching residencies in NYC schools that support and enhance Common Core curricula, align with the NY State Learning Standards for the Arts, and NYC Department of Education's Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts.

 E: AFBG_Park_Ranger@nps.gov
www.nps.gov/afbg

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The African Burial Ground cemetery is the nation's earliest known African cemetery, in use from the 1690's until the mid 1790s. In 1991, the burial ground was rediscovered during pre-construction work for a Federal office building in New York City, and the remains of 419 enslaved and free Africans who lived during the 17th and 18th century were excavated from the cemetery. The findings deeply impacted descendants and the broader community, while renewing awareness in the cultural significance and historic preservation. The African Burial Ground was designated a National Monument by Presidential Proclamation on February 27, 2006.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Programs are available Tuesday-Friday at 10:00 a.m. and 2:30 p.m. Large groups are required to make reservations for programs to ensure adequate preparation and staff availability. Presentations at the Visitor Center can accommodate groups of 36 people or less and the program lasts 1 ½ hours. The on-site program includes the 20 minute film, a self guided tour of the exhibit with a short gallery talk and a memorial talk.

The African Burial Ground National Monument offers a 90-minute walking tour of Lower Manhattan. Reservations are required. Participants meet on the steps of Federal Hall National Memorial, 26 Wall Street, and end at the African Burial Ground National Monument. This tour is not offered during the winter months.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The African Cultural Center (ACC) is a 501 (c) (3) nonprofit organization that was established in 2000 with a unique mission to educate diverse groups and empower youth and their families by utilizing multiculturalism in the arts. Supported by donations and assistance from the public, ACC serves to:

- Preserve, promote and present African art, history and culture through comprehensive and innovative educational programming for the enlightenment of all;
- Create a community identity that accommodates cultural African traditions;
- Restore and establish relations with Africans of the Diaspora and other peoples living in NYC with African countries;
- Ease the pain of adjusting to a new environment.

ACC's programs provide people with an opportunity to gain an understanding about the vast cultures of Africa in New York through the arts. Multicultural performances are a vessel to break down barriers and increase a sense of cultural pride while improving a sense of self worth.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The African Cultural Center has been bombarded with requests from artists, performance companies and multiservice organizations to provide essential resources and a link for them to provide multicultural and folkloric educational services for scholars. This year, the African Cultural Center partnered up with Siren Protectors of the Rainforest, to deliver dance and drama services as part of an after-school program for students in NYC. They plan on presenting together, "How to Cry at an African Funeral", a comedic dance drama set in Cameroon, West Africa.

The workshop is an 18 week, 2 hours a day, four days a week after school workshop, students will be introduced to dances, music, visual arts, and drama from Sub Saharan Africa. Students will be active in helping to create dances, music and a stage that enables the audience to envision life in sub-Saharan Africa. Teaching artist will be able to help students understand the cultural aspects of dance and how it relates to costuming.

Afro Latin Jazz Alliance

1713 Eighth Avenue
Brooklyn, NY 11215
T: 646-723-4276

www.afrolatinjazz.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Afro Latin Jazz Alliance (ALJA) is dedicated to preserving the music and heritage of big band Latin jazz, supporting its performance for new audiences, and educating young people in the understanding and performance of this important cultural treasure. The Alliance maintains a world-class collection of Latin jazz musical scores and recordings, provides institutional support for the Afro Latin Jazz Orchestra, and provides education programs for young musicians and new audiences. The Afro Latin Jazz Orchestra (ALJO) was founded in 2002 by artistic director Arturo O'Farrill to perform compositions of masters such as Machito, Tito Puente, Chico O'Farrill, Astor Piazzola, Antonio Carlos Jobim, Hermeto Pascoal, and others, and to keep this culturally rich tradition alive by continuing to commission new works. In 2007, the ALJO left Lincoln Center to pursue the twin goals of developing new audiences for big band Latin jazz and of creating a robust educational program for young performers. O'Farrill launched the Afro Latin Jazz Alliance (ALJA) in early 2007 to serve as a non-profit organization that can advance both the performance and educational aspects of this uniquely pan-American art form.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Now in its fifth academic year, the Afro Latin Jazz Academy of Music (ALJAM) is an in-school residency program dedicated to providing instrument and ensemble instruction to middle and high school students throughout New York City. ALJAM gives students the tools to develop their musicianship and express themselves through music. Members of the Afro Latin Jazz Orchestra and other master teaching artists form a core teaching team that works with students twice a week for the full academic year. Students are given instruments to practice and they perform for their peers, families, and communities at annual concerts throughout the academic year.

Fat Afro Latin Jazz Cats

Beginning in Fall 2010, the Afro Latin Jazz Alliance launched the Fat Afro Latin Jazz Cats, a New York City all-star youth big band, under the direction of Arturo O'Farrill and Jim Seeley, at the famed Greenwich Village jazz club Fat Cat. The ensemble includes some of the city's finest young musicians who hail from all over the five boroughs. This ensemble performs classic works from the Latin jazz repertory as well as new works by members of the group. The Fat Afro Latin Jazz Cats rehearse weekly on Sunday afternoons and perform at Fat Cat and other venues around New York City.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

I am an independent proprietor that is an accredited vendor and a retired teacher for the DOE. I produce my award winning 'Save the Earth' assembly outreach program at your school involving students and alumni volunteers from the Department of Education.

As a retired special education teacher I worked with other teachers and students performing this award winning program that includes a play, musical performance and Q & A session. I have also won the Chancellor's Teachers honor Roll for creating outstanding student music programs in 1993 and the Very Special Arts Mayor's Award in 1993 & 1995.

I also produce other theme assemblies as well as holiday concerts. My staff professional development workshops coordinate with these assemblies.

1. Music: A Tool for Learning
2. The 3 R's in the Classroom: Reduce, Reuse & Recycle

Arts Education Programming Description:

Through the production of my "Save the Earth" assembly program, students will learn how and what to recycle, increase their literacy through reading song sheets and know alternative ways of communicating such as sign language and picture symbols.

I will perform this assembly in any setting available around the city to raise awareness about this important issue. Students will achieve a sense for self worth and achievement for what they are doing for the community as well as for our future on this planet!

As for my workshops, they're all turn key utilizing hands on activities. Lesson plans will be provided that are teacher and student friendly and are easy to implement in all academic areas and can be adapted to all functioning levels. Each workshop will be specifically designed to your population/functioning level.

Alice Austen House Museum

2 Hylan Boulevard
(at Edgewater Street)
Staten Island, NY 10305
T: 718-816-4506
www.aliceausten.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Alice Austen House Museum is a National Historic Landmark located at the home of early photographer, Alice Austen overlooking the beautiful New York Narrows in Rosebank, Staten Island. Photographer, Alice Austen was born in 1866 and took photographs of her life on Staten Island as well as immigrants and workers on the streets of New York City. She lived by her own rules and dared to defy conventions during an age when society limited a woman's role. Her 86 year life spanned many historic events that she captured through her photographs. Although she died in 1952, her story has many important lessons that resonate today.

The Alice Austen House Museum is also dedicated to contemporary photography with two temporary exhibition spaces. We enthusiastically share her photographs and her unique story, as well as offer photography exhibitions, tours, lectures, special events and school programs.

Arts Education Programming Description:

A school trip to the Alice Austen House Museum is always a memorable event! Students tour Alice Austen's Victorian cottage as well as see a contemporary photography exhibition in our galleries. They see early cameras and learn about the history of photography. Students learn about composition by looking at Alice Austen's photographs. Each student composes their own photograph in groups and takes a photograph using our digital cameras. Students will receive their own photograph to take home. ($6.00 per student) Programs include The Young Alice Austen and Through Alice's Eyes.

We also offer in-school programs in both literacy through photography and social etiquette. In our Social Etiquette program, students learn about Alice Austen, etiquette during the Victorian period and why it is important today. The program includes good posture, the history of the handshake, and how to introduce yourself and others. We also offer Common Courtesies and Communication Skills. ($150 per class)

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Alpha Omega Theatrical Dance Company was founded in 1972 with the primary mission of expanding opportunities for multi-cultural choreographers and dance artists. We pride ourselves on delivering programs and performances that are energetic, uplifting, cultural, passionate and all around entertaining experiences.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Alpha Omega brings 40 years of experience in running Arts Education programs in New York City schools.

The Alpha Omega Arts Education program uses the art of dance to initiate change and enhance the quality of life for children; building their self-esteem, self-confidence, and benefitting students' physical and intellectual development.

The program consists of Master Classes with a Performance by the Company, Workshops, Lecture Demonstrations, Collaborations and Special Events.

Performance options include a 45-minute program featuring the Company's current and other age appropriate works that conclude with audience participation and a Q&A component.

All activities work within the school environment to provide:

- opportunities for active group participation
- cooperation and creative problem solving
- activities and opportunities for children to know a sense of achievement, ability, and accomplishment
- exposure to a richer understanding of the language and art of dance

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Amas Musical Theatre, founded in 1968 by veteran actress Rosetta Le Noire, is one of New York City’s leading non-profit professional theatre companies. Amas or “you love” (in Latin) is devoted to the creation, development and professional production of new American musicals, the celebration of diversity and minority perspectives, the emergence of new artistic talent, and the training and encouragement of underserved, urban youth.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Amas Musical Theatre Education Programs are available at both In-School and After-School sites. Our signature programs can be used as templates as we partner with schools and agencies to develop unique programming that meets their exact needs. Our programs give students the opportunity to explore and develop their creativity, while providing a means to build essential life and academic skills, address social issues, generate empathy for others, and artistically collaborate with their peers.

Our programs include:

- The Immigration Experience (Grades: Middle and High School)
- Our America: Civil Rights Through Song and Story (Grades: 4th - Middle School)
- Passport Around the World (Grades: 2-6)
- Lens on Live Theatre (All Grades - depending upon the Amas Mainstage Production)
- Amas Musical Theatre Academy (All grades)

Amas uses a collaborative model with the classroom teacher for our in-school residencies.

Amazement Society

603 W. 115th St. Suite 167
 (at Broadway)
 New York, NY 10025
 T: 212-470-0678

www.amazementsociety.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Our mission at the Amazement Society is to teach the professional communication skills, or "soft skills," required for success in the workplace to middle school and high school students through magic instruction. Magic not only thrills people universally, but is also uniquely suited to teaching interpersonal skills. A magic performance frequently requires a dialog between the performer and an audience member whose responses to the performance are as unpredictable as those of a school or job interviewer! We focus on six primary elements of professional skills including verbal and non-verbal communication, enthusiasm, problem solving, and teamwork. Our classes also cultivate many other essential life skills such as an increased sense of urgency, increased focus, and great sense of accomplishment after each class. In short, our classes lead to brighter futures!

Arts Education Programming Description:

Taught by professional magic instructors, the Amazement Society's course offerings range from workshops to semester-long courses. Our primary offering is a 20-class course that allows for in-depth instruction in the six elements of professional communication skills, eight different areas of magic instruction, plus rehearsals and final presentations. This course can be done as a 10-week course meeting twice per week or as a once a week semester-long program, during or after school.

In addition to learning about professional skills, students will be learning magic effects and amazing their friends in every class. Nothing thrills so immediately quite like magic! This leads to a huge boost in students' self-motivation. However, if you prefer to simply give your students an appreciation of magic, we offer magic performances as well.

(between Vermont Ave NW and L St)
Washington, DC 20005
T: 202-898-0089

www.aaf.org/adcamp

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The American Advertising Federation (AAF) protects and promotes the well-being of advertising. We accomplish this through a unique, nationally coordinated grassroots network of advertisers, agencies, media companies, local advertising clubs and college chapters. The AAF is the nation's oldest national advertising trade association, and the only association representing all facets of the advertising industry. Headquartered in Washington, D.C., it acts as the 'Unifying Voice for Advertising.' Its membership is comprised of nearly 100 blue chip corporate members comprising the nation's leading advertisers, advertising agencies, and media companies; a national network of nearly 200 local federations, representing 40,000 advertising professionals, located in ad communities across the country; and over 6,500 student members.

Arts Education Programming Description:

AdCamp NYC is a summer enrichment program that will teach high school students about an advertising college major, careers in advertising and what it takes to market different products and services to consumers. Faculty from top advertising programs in the nation and esteemed advertising professionals will be teaching students about the many facets of advertising and brand communications, giving students the knowledge and tools to complete their own marketing campaign project. Seldom do high schools offer advertising courses or encourage students to study advertising so this is the opportunity for those young adults who possess a creative inner-self to explore unique ways to channel this energy and potentially make a profession out of it. Not only will students learn to create advertisements, TV commercial storyboards, social media messaging and more, they will foster relationships with advertising executives they wouldn't ordinarily get access to.

T: 212-977-8495 x252 | F: 212-977-8995

www.americancomposers.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

For 35 years the American Composers Orchestra (ACO) has been the only orchestra in the world dedicated to the creation, performance, preservation and promotion of music by American composers. Since its founding, the orchestra has commissioned and premiered more new works by American composers than any other orchestra. ACO serves as an incubator of ideas, research and talent, as a catalyst for growth and change among orchestras, and as an advocate for American composers and their music.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Music Factory programs of the American Composers Orchestra (ACO) are designed to promote student achievement, inspire creativity, and develop baseline transferable skills through close engagement with some of the worlds finest composers and musicians.

Taking unique advantage of one of the city's most underutilized resources - New York is home to more accomplished composers than any other place in the world - ACO Music Factory programs are hands-on, minds-on, performance-based activities structured for students in 4th to 12th grade and are appropriate for in-school or after-school settings.

Our programs provide high-impact learning opportunities for music students of any level, and many are appropriate for schools and students without musical experience. For most ACO Music Factory programs the length and number of artist visits is adaptable to the needs of the school, from a single event to a full semester or year.

Music Factory programs include:

- Composer and ensemble residencies
- Technology based workshops in film scoring and/or music production
- Guest ensemble appearances
- Private and/or sectional lessons for your band/orchestra musicians
- ACO open rehearsals at venues such as Carnegie Hall, Aaron Davis Hall and Miller Theater

www.americanglobe.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Established in 1989, the American Globe Theatre's purpose is two-fold: first, to present innovative productions of classical and original plays; and, second, to teach actors and directors its particular style of play production based on the First Folio method, which is believed to have been used by Shakespeare's own company. In addition to virtually all of Shakespeare's plays, company productions have included Ibsen's "Hedda Gabler," Chekhov's "The Seagull," Wilde's "The Importance of Being Earnest," Molière's "Tartuffe," and Sophocles' "Antigone."

Arts Education Programming Description:

Through its Shakespeare for the Schools Program, the company offers condensed 75-minute matinee productions performed by professional actors either in-school or at the company's Midtown theater. These performances include post-performance talk back sessions with cast members. In-school performances require a large, open space, preferably an auditorium or cafeteria. Study guides are distributed to students at each performance. Also offered is a series of in-school workshops for grades 6 to 12 taught by the company's teaching artists. The company also offers customized workshops to suit any special needs or requests.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The American Place Theatre is committed to producing high quality new work by diverse American writers and to pursuing pluralism and diversity in all its endeavors. We strive to respond to the needs of our time with work that is relevant and cuts deeply into the fabric of American society. Literature to Life® is a performance-based literacy program that presents professionally staged verbatim adaptations of significant American literary works. The program gives students a new form of access to literature by bringing to life the world of the book with performances that create an atmosphere of discovery and spark the imagination.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Program 1: For audiences...

A Literature to Life Stage Presentation is a verbatim theatrical adaptation of significant American literature brought to life by a professional actor. Stage Presentations take place HERE or THERE, at our Black Box Theatre or in your auditorium or classroom. Ages 7 to Adult.

Program 2: For classrooms...

A Literature to Life Living Library is a 90-minute educational experience in the classroom. Drawing from classic American literature frequently taught in schools, these workshops take place for class size groups at our Black Box Theatre or in your classroom. Ages 11 to Adult.

Program 3: For schools...

A Literature to Life Residency is a series of in-school workshops customized to meet the needs of your classroom. Led by Master Teaching Artist and professional Teaching Actors, sessions use high quality theatre, drama-in-education, and significant American literature to foster students' personal connections to cross-curricular, standards-based units of study.

Program 4: For educators...

A Literature to Life Professional Development workshop provides interactive training through innovative drama-in-education strategies customized to fit the needs of your staff.

The American Tap Dance Foundation (ATDF) is a non-profit organization committed to establishing and legitimizing Tap Dance as a vital component of American Dance through creation, presentation, education and preservation.

Formerly the American Tap Dance Orchestra, ATDF was founded in 1986 by master tap dancers Brenda Bufalino, Tony Waag, and the late Charles ‘Honi’ Coles.

ATDF programs include:

- Tap City, the annual New York City Tap Festival
- the Tap City Youth Ensemble
- Concert Performances & National Tours
- the Gregory Hines Youth Scholarship Fund
- the International Tap Dance Hall of Fame
- Annual Hooper & Tap Preservation Awards
- the Gregory Hines Collection of American Tap Dance archives at the Lincoln Center Library

Arts Education Programming Description:

Youth Training Program

ATDF year-round youth programs, for children and teens (ages 3 ½ – 19), teach students about America’s own indigenous art form – Tap. Our distinguished faculty shares their knowledge of the artistry and history of tap with each student in a fun, safe and supportive environment. On-going classes in technique, improvisation and tap dance history are held daily.

Each year the ATDF serves close to 500 students thanks to its Tap Dance Conservatory which includes ongoing Training Programs for kids, teens and adults; the Tap City Youth Ensemble; seasonal Master Tap Intensives, Choreography Workshops for professionals and numerous public performances, lectures, jams and film presentations. The Foundation’s classes offer students a chance to become immersed in tap culture. The Tap Dance Conservatory is a year-round school of tap dance with a comprehensive curriculum for kids, teens and adults.

New York, NY 10018

T: 212-765-0606

www.americantheatrewing.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

For nearly a century, the mission of the Wing has been to serve and support the theatre by celebrating excellence, nurturing the public's appreciation of theatre, and providing unique educational and access opportunities for both practitioners and audiences. Traditionally, ATW has done this by encouraging members of the theatre community to share their off-stage time and talent directly with the theatre audience at large--whether it was singing for the troops in the Stage Door Canteen of the 1940's, or sharing their stories on a podcast today. Best known for creating The Antoinette Perry 'Tony' Awards®, now presented with The Broadway League, ATW has developed the best-known national platform for the recognition of theatrical achievement on Broadway. Yet ATW's reach extends beyond Broadway and beyond New York, with educational and media work that offers the very best in theatre to artists and students around the world.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Working in the Theatre: This television program offers an unprecedented forum for the meeting of theatrical minds and presents a rare opportunity for students and audiences to get a glimpse inside theatre.

Downstage Center: this podcast spotlights the creative talents from the theatre community with in-depth conversations between a rotating cast of interviewers carefully matched with each guest, creating intimate conversations between artists that are not available elsewhere.

The American Theatre Wing Archive: Features more than 800 hours of and more than 30 years of archived theatre media available for free online. It includes all ATW's programming including special feature series like our 'Career Guides' that help chart a path for those wishing to work in the field, and 'In The Wings' that goes behind the scenes to examine how theatre works.

 (at Church Street & West Broadway)
 New York, NY 10007
 T: 212-431-7993 | F: 212-431-8375
www.annefrank.com

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Anne Frank Center USA, a partner to the Anne Frank House, was founded in 1959 by Anne's father, Otto Frank. Through a variety of innovative programs and exhibitions, the Center uses the diary and spirit of Anne Frank as unique tools to advance her legacy, to educate young people and communities about the dangers of intolerance, anti-Semitism, racism and discrimination, and to inspire the next generation to build a world based on equal rights and mutual respect.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Our arts-based in-school programs use visual art, writing, and drama to explore how Anne Frank's legacy can aid students with issues that affect their lives today. From one-day workshops to semester-long residencies, our programs challenge students to identify prejudice and consider choices they can make to effect positive change. In-school programs include staff development opportunities, adhere to the Common Core, and are custom designed to meet academic, social, and artistic goals.

Our two live performance programs, CONVERSATIONS WITH ANNE and LETTERS FROM ANNE AND MARTIN, offer students an interactive engagement with primary source texts. In the former, students ask Anne about anything from World War II to her feelings on honesty. In the latter, Anne Frank and Martin Luther King, Jr. come alive to talk about equality and activism.

All classes can visit The Anne Frank Center USA to learn about Anne's life and meet a Holocaust survivor. FREE field trips for Title I schools.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded 1952 by a group of artist, writers and curators as a “common ground for Photography” Aperture today is a multiplatform publisher and center that unites the photography community in print, on-line and in person.

Publishing: four issues each year of Aperture magazine; twenty new photobooks and books about photography annually; a growing digital publishing program, including e-books, apps, a daily blog, and online features; two issues of The PhotoBook Review ; and approximately twenty-five print and other limited editions each year; Aperture’s public programs: exhibitions at our gallery in New York and at partner venues, which tour to museums and other photography centers nationally and internationally; an annual international Portfolio Prize and members exhibition; workshops, signings, and education events each week at our New York gallery and in collaboration with museums, universities and community organizations.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Visual literacy, or the ability to construct meaning from visual images, has become a vital skill, central to the successful navigation of modern life. Aperture’s program provides the visual literacy training and tools that young people need to navigate the ocean of images from television, advertising, and across all media platforms. Designed to cultivate visual literacy through photography and photobook creation, all of Aperture’s youth programs support the development of observational, reasoning, language arts, and image-creation competencies. These programs foster an appreciation for the photographic medium as a vehicle for self-expression and an understanding of photography’s role in documenting history and culture. Aperture offers both in-class and after-school twenty week curricula for 5th-9th grade taught by professional teaching artists tailored to the needs of our educational partners and their students.

www.aquilatheatre.com

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Aquila Theatre was founded in London in 1991 by Peter Meineck and has been based in New York City since 1999. Aquila's mission is to bring the greatest theatrical works to the greatest number of people. Aquila presents a regular season of plays in New York, at international festivals, and tours to approximately seventy American towns and cities each year.

Arts Education Programming Description:

AQUILA FOR YOUNG AUDIENCES offers specially tailored programs in Shakespeare and Greek Drama to suit the needs of New York City public schools. Aquila's comprehensive workshops utilize theater making to introduce students to the reading, understanding and performing of classical plays. Aquila's performances and post show discussions aid in making connections and exploring careers as we familiarize students with the collaborative skills of working in the theatre.

SHAKESPEARE PERORMANCE AND WORKSHOP: An in-school, one-hour production of Shakespeare's "A Midsummer Night's Dream" followed by a post show discussion and three preparatory in-school workshops with Aquila's teaching artists. (Aquila arrives at school with everything needed to stage the play)

SHAKESPEARE WORKSHOP: In-school workshops on how to perform and interpret Shakespeare's plays. Focus will be on "A Midsummer Night's Dream."

GREEK DRAMA WORKSHOP: In-school workshops on how to perform and interpret Greek drama. Focus will be on Sophocles' "Antigone."

Aquila's workshops focus on performance skills, understanding dramatic texts, theatre history, and also provide the experience for students to learn how to watch, appreciate and participate as an audience member. Schools are available to book workshops and class visits in blocks of five, tailored to the individual needs of the school.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Through ArchForKids school residencies, young designers investigate, explore, measure, estimate, design, draw, calculate and construct. They go on neighborhood investigations, design parks and dream houses, build model skyscrapers and bridges, propose uses for vacant lots, and much more. Along the way, they apply academic concepts to real world situations, sharpening their math and physical science skills. They will also gain a deeper understanding - and appreciation - of their own communities.

Co-founders Janny Gédéon and Karen Orloff are skilled educators who have brought architecture and engineering programs to New York City schools, community centers and cultural institutions for a combined total of 20 years.

Arts Education Programming Description:

ArchForKids offerings are rich in design thinking, problem-solving and real-world applications of academic content. Our rigorous, multi-disciplinary approach is aligned to the Common Core standards and tailored so that our projects extend/enrich a school's ongoing curricula. Programming includes: Design Challenge, a concentrated one-day program using the design process; Design Studio

A 2- to 10-session residency for which schools select a thematic focus; Afterschool Studio; and Professional Development.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Since 1978, Arts Horizons has reached over 8 million students, teachers and parents with exciting, innovative, arts-in-education programs for grades PreK-12 by top professional artists from Broadway, Lincoln Center and around the world. Our interactive live performances, artist-in-residence programs and professional development for teachers help to transform children into engaged, creative learners who are excited to come to school. Today, as education in the arts becomes ever more crucial, we are reaching into the community through the LeRoy Neiman Art Center in Harlem and with programs for children and adults in community centers and hospitals.

Arts Education Programming Description:

ARTIST-IN-RESIDENCE PROGRAMS in Music, Visual Art, Drama, Dance, Theatre, Film and Literary Arts are taught by professional artists, with educational experience and expertise. Workshops that implement and reinforce Common Core Standards, State Learning Standards, and the New York City Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts can be tailored to fit your school's schedule, budget and individual needs. ASSEMBLY PROGRAMS are interactive, unique presentations that capture the students' imaginations and stimulate learning through a fresh, fun-loving approach and plenty of audience participation. Topics include Global Awareness, Music, Theatre, Dance and Character Education. Many of our residencies and assemblies can be arranged outside school hours and scheduled in conjunction with Family and Community Programs. PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT in all art forms provides teachers with challenging and inspiring workshops. They help make connections between various art forms and curriculum areas, and can be customized to fit your school schedule.

The LEROY NEIMAN ART CENTER in Harlem has a wide range of exciting programs in their state of the art spacious classrooms. Daytime, after-school and weekend programs are available for all ages. School field trips and exhibition space for your class is also available.

(corner of Broadway)
New York , NY 10023
T: 212.600.0018 | F: 212.600.0018
www.balletambassadors.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The mission of Ballet Ambassadors is to give children and teens in schools, afterschool programs, and homeless shelters the chance to share the stage with professional dancers in costumed adaptations of the ballet classics, original ballets, and world dance productions. Since 2001, over 20,000 children and teens in New York City's five boroughs, on Long Island, and in Westchester have taken the stage in Ballet Ambassadors' productions. Hector Aponte, the Bronx Borough Commissioner of the New York City Department of Parks & Recreation, addressed a citywide meeting of Parks personnel following our 'Nutcracker' with the children of the Hunts Point Afterschool Program by saying, "Ballet Ambassadors brought Lincoln Center to the South Bronx."

Arts Education Programming Description:

The jewel in the Ballet Ambassadors crown is our Ballet-in-a-Day program. We start with workshops at the beginning of the school day, progress to a full run-through, and take a lunch break. Then that same afternoon, up to 250 children confidently strut their stuff with us on stage in costume to the music of great composers including Tchaikovsky, Prokofiev, and Stravinsky. We also offer longer residencies tailored to each school's needs. Our repertoire includes 'The Nutcracker,' 'Swan Lake,' 'Firebird' for elementary schools, 'Firebird' for middle and high schools, 'The Unicorn's Secret,' 'Dance Around the World,' 'Othello,' 'The Great Gatsby,' and 'Romeo & Juliet.' All of our programs fulfill the New York State Learning Standards for the Arts and the NYC Department of Education Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The innovative Education & Outreach program at Ballet Hispanico pairs highly trained dancers, choreographers, and teaching artists with students, educators, dance audiences, and the general public, in the guided exploration of a diverse and inspiring series of education activities. We believe all people have a right to participate in learning experiences that respect their individuality while enhancing their creativity, physical health, and cultural awareness. We are committed to exploring the Hispanic Diaspora through dance. Based on the New York City Department of Education Blueprint for Dance, the program supports student achievement in the classroom and inspires a passion for learning and discovery that will last a lifetime.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Ballet Hispanico company members and teaching artists are trained to meet the developmental needs of children and to meet all participants, including adults, where they are at in terms of skill level in dance. All residencies include a series of dance workshops, a planning meeting, and at least one reflection meeting with classroom teachers. Workshops typically occur 12 to 25 times per group, and include weekly 45-minute lessons with a Ballet Hispanico teaching artist. Additional residency components, like: Professional development and Parent Engagement sessions, site visit to Ballet Hispanico, and/or attendance at a performance by the company, can be added depending on the needs and interests of each school, organization or community group.

890 Broadway
(at 19th St.)

New York, NY 10003

T: 212-777-7710

www.ballettechschool.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Ballet Tech has as its purpose the furtherance and evolution of classical dance, and with that, the investigation of choreography and dancing aimed towards creating a richer and more authentic American ballet mode. Complementing this, Ballet Tech is committed to introducing tens of thousands of New York City public school children to the beauty and rigor of classical dance and providing those most talented with the dance training necessary to fulfill their natural gifts, tuition-free. Ballet Tech pledges itself to the development of succeeding generations of ballet dancers, whose diversity reflects the full spectrum of the American community.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Auditions

Each year, Ballet Tech auditions approximately 30,000 children at 200 public elementary schools across New York City. No experience is required. In fact, the auditions provide most children with an introduction to movement as an art form. During the auditions, children learn a simple series of movements, including pliés and relevés, seated forward bends, skipping, marching and leaping. While evaluating each child's potential to excel in classical dance, Ballet Tech audition staff look for an innate joy for movement as well as such essential attributes as flexibility, musicality, and coordination.

Beginner Program

Approximately 400 of the 30,000 children who audition enroll in Ballet Tech's 6-week Beginner Program. Beginners are bused from their local elementary schools to Ballet Tech one morning each week. Select students return for a second session. The following fall, 40 graduates will enroll as full-time students at the New York City Public School for Dance.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

BALLROOM BASIX is a non-competitive, arts-in-education initiative committed to the transformation of students' social and fitness skills through the fun-filled ballroom and Latin dance experience. By consistently reinforcing the etiquette and manners inherent in partner dancing, our program instills self-worth, physical well-being and cooperation among the children it serves, while simultaneously instructing them in the diverse origins of the dances: historically, geographically and multi-culturally.

Arts Education Programming Description:

BALLROOM BASIX is an eight week, sixteen session program in which students learn ballroom and Latin dances including FOX TROT, MERENGUE, TANGO, RUMBA, SWING, and WALTZ. The residency is conducted twice a week (either during gym or academic class time) for two months, followed by an in-school and after-school culminating activity, for a total of eighteen classes.

New York, NY 10024

T: 212.501.3000 | F: 212.501.3097

www.bgc.bard.edu

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 1993, Bard Graduate Center: Decorative Arts, Design History, Material Culture is a gallery and graduate institute affiliated with Bard College. In addition, BGC offers exhibitions and programs for schools and educators that explore works of art that have a particular function, including ceramics, textiles, furniture, jewelry, graphic design and architecture, as well as the ordinary objects of daily life. We foster an understanding and appreciation of the visual arts, history, science and language arts through a study of the decorative arts and design across all cultures and time periods.

Arts Education Programming Description:

School Tours:

Guided exhibition tours at the BGC enhance students' knowledge in the arts, history, and sciences as they encounter material culture from around the world. Our tours emphasize careful observation and thoughtful conversation among students and BGC educators. On view during the winter and spring of 2011, exhibitions include Cloisonné: Chinese Enamels from the Yuan, Ming, and Qing Dynasties and Objects of Exchange: Social and Material Transformation on the Late Nineteenth-Century Northwest Coast.

Suitcase Exhibitions:

Outreach programs that visit your classroom are available for the 2011- 2012 school year. BGC educators will travel to New York City schools to present one of two topics options: The Radiance of China, or Gifts from Our Ancestors: Native American Treasures. During the classroom visit, students will learn about each theme through a hands-on study of replica objects, inquiry-based discussion, and an art-making experience. Each presentation lasts approximately an hour, and is tailored to complement the teacher's goals and interests. Scheduling preference is offered to schools that also plan a follow-up visit to the BGC.

Programs for Teachers:

We offer specially designed, professional-development sessions for educators who seek to enrich their teaching repertoire in the arts, language arts and history. Each session includes a dialogue with BGC educators, standards-based lesson plan development, an art-making experience, and assessment tools.

Bash the Trash Environmental Arts

11 Wilson Place

T: 914-478-1103 | F: 914-478-1103

E: bashthetrash@mac.com

<http://www.bashthetrash.com>

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Bash the Trash Environmental Arts combines science, music and environmental awareness through performances, educational programs and social initiatives. Whether performing with musical instruments built from trash, building artworks from found objects, or consulting on environmental arts education, BTT always focuses on how the arts and science work together. Founded by John Bertles in 1988, BTT now reaches around 50,000 students, teachers, and parents a year in performances, residencies and professional development programs.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Bash the Trash provides residencies, performances and family events that combine science, the arts, and the environment. Our core program is a residency which begins with an exciting, audience-participatory musical auditorium performance that demonstrates the science of sound and how instruments work. In follow-up classroom workshops, students will build musical instruments from recycled and reused materials that they collect themselves, giving a tangible example of the 3 Rs - Reduce, Reuse, and Recycle. Students then write musical stories inspired by the sounds of their invented musical instruments, and then perform those stories. Bash the Trash performances, residencies, and events always connect to your curriculum, and we can tailor our programs to your school's specific needs.

 Brooklyn, NY 11215
 T: 718-832-0018 | F: 718-832-9189
 E: marya@bax.org
www.bax.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

BAX/Brooklyn Arts Exchange is a community based performing arts center dedicated to developing artists of all ages, from children to professionals. The organization offers community access to arts and culture, supporting the creation of new work by emerging artists, engaging diverse audiences and providing arts education to low-income youth and families. BAX has intentionally constructed an environment where children study and professional artists create under the same roof. Students are mentored by professional directors and choreographers. The organization's distinct focus on developmental process makes it a nurturing incubator for experimental dance and theater artists and an important advocate for under-represented voices in the New York City performing arts community.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Public School Programs

BAX's public school programs serve over 4,000 students, integrating theater and dance into language, social studies, geography and other curriculum while providing professional development to public school teachers.

Public School arts-in-education programs take place at The Academy of Talented Scholars, The Brooklyn School of Inquiry, The Brooklyn New School (BNS), The Brooklyn School for Collaborative Studies (BCS), Brooklyn International School, P.S. 24 in Sunset Park, and P.S. 115 in Canarsie.

Brooklyn pre-schools and day care centers

BAX's movement/theater programs in Brooklyn pre-schools and day care centers are designed to match each site's unique needs and accommodate any age group, size or curriculum requirements. These community-based partnerships take place at The Rivendell School, Young Minds Day Care Center, and the International School of Brooklyn. These schools have found our programs to be an essential part of their programming and a special highlight for their students.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 1974 by Jonathan Hollander, the Battery Dance Company performs a repertory of 50 pieces in its home space in Lower Manhattan and in venues throughout New York and the world. It promotes dance education in schools through its Dance in Schools program and offers rehearsal and performance space to aspiring dancers and choreographers. Since 1981, it has hosted the Downtown Dance Festival featuring local and international dance companies on the Great Lawn in Battery Park. BDC's Dance in Schools programs provide opportunities for the whole school population to experience a live dance performance, as well as receive hands-on training, coaching and mentoring. It often partners with schools to develop programs tailored to the needs of students. Long-term interactive arts-in-education residency projects can be implemented in many cases.

E: contactus@bigapplecircus.org

www.bigapplecircus.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The mission of the Big Apple Circus is to invigorate audiences with the joy and wonder of classical circus. An acclaimed showcase for performance traditions from cultures around the world, the Big Apple Circus is a distinctly New York institution, embraced by generations since it first sprang from the streets of lower Manhattan in 1977 and launched an American revival of the classical circus. The Circus's location in New York is precisely the reason it has flourished for over three decades, perpetuating an international art form in one of the world's key urban centers. Five outreach programs, Clown Care, Vaudeville Caravan, Circus of the Senses, Circus for All, and Circus After School, continue to bring the artistry of the circus to special audiences, under the Big Top and in hospitals, schools, and community centers throughout New York City.

Arts Education Programming Description:

While more than 500,000 children and adults enjoy the magic and joy of the Big Apple Circus's intimate one-ring extravaganza each year, the institution has a constant presence in the community, reaching additional hundreds of thousands of people through its outreach programs. Circus of the Senses enables children with vision or hearing impairments with the opportunity to experience the magic and joy of the Circus through Braille and large-type programs, American Sign Language interpreters, and a live play-by-play description of the action in the ring. Circus For All provides complimentary and subsidized performance tickets to public schools and other not-for-profit organizations dedicated to children facing physical challenges and economic adversity. Circus After School is a youth enrichment program where students ages 9-16 learn and perform the circus arts in a supportive, constructive environment.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Bridge for Dance, Inc. provides unique and exciting experiences for dancers of all ages. Students learn in fun and non-competitive environment from a strong faculty and through a diverse schedule of classes. Our bright and beautiful studios attract student and professional dancers, families and event planners. Over the past ten years on the Upper West Side, we have built a strong connection with our community. The Bridge for Dance offers a wide variety of classes for children from two years of age through the teen years including creative movement, pre-ballet, ballet, tap, modern/jazz, aerial circus, hip hop, karate and more. The Bridge for Dance classes are perfect for the student who desires challenging classical pre-professional training, or the student who is hoping to have fun in a healthy and encouraging environment. We provide a balanced and emotionally supportive environment in which each student feels important, safe, and inspired to flourish in his/his/her own way.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Bridge for Dance, Inc. offers educational outreach for public and private school students, teachers and dance educators as well as other organizations. When joining us for our outreach, you have the choice of coming to our studio for class, or having one of our wonderful instructors come to you either during the school day or during after school hours. A few facts about our philosophy here at

We believe that dance, as a kinesthetic practice, can have a valuable influence on dancers of all ages by stimulating our mind/body connection with a unique and exciting movement experience. Our programs help develop awareness and support of dance and artists by promoting connections between dance, our community and educational system. In many cases, our work with students ties in directly to class curriculum and we encourage our experienced, educated instructors to work closely to the school coordinators and teachers to create the most efficient and relevant curriculum.

(between 9th and 10th Ave)
New York, NY 10011
T: 917-334-7793
www.BroadwayKidsAuditions.com

Mission and History/Organization Description:

BROADWAY KIDS AUDITIONS is founded with the goal to guide young performing artists in the development and maintenance of a strong audition technique and skill set. BKA helps actors hone their audition technique, build the confidence required to shine in their auditions, and gain the proficiency of a professional artist, without sacrificing their raw, unique talent, all the while, teaching them to adapt healthy and strong performance techniques. We teach kids to embrace who they are and let their personalities lead their work. The confidence allows our students to take risks, be spontaneous, develop artistry, and share their passion. At BKA, we believe that helping to develop confident and extraordinary kids will change the world in extraordinary ways... and that belief goes WAY beyond the audition room!

Arts Education Programming Description:

At Broadway Kids Auditions, we believe that success comes when 'preparation meets opportunity.' BKA provides superior audition preparation, training kids in audition technique, song interpretation, monologue and scene study, on-camera auditions, ballet, tap, jazz, and musical theatre dance through private coaching and intensive workshops. At BKA, we stress the importance of choosing exceptional audition material that will showcase each young actor's individual strengths and talents. Our training emphasizes healthy singing, breath support, grounded physical work and clear intention. BKA coaches are working theatre professionals who are actively involved with all aspects of the constantly changing audition process. Students can work privately with specific coaches to prepare their audition material, as well as in our intensive workshops and classes.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Bronx Museum of the Arts is a contemporary art museum that connects diverse audiences to the urban experience through its permanent collection, special exhibitions, and education programs. Reflecting the borough’s dynamic communities, the Museum is the crossroad where artists, local residents, national and international visitors meet.

The Bronx Museum Permanent Collection is composed of over 600 artworks encompassing all media, and assembled under a policy that reflects the institution’s commitment to its surrounding communities and audiences.

Our collection focused on works by contemporary artists of African, Asian, and Latin American descent of all media including works by artists with a direct connection with the Bronx.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Education Department at the Bronx Museum of the Arts is a catalyst for ideas and dialogue by providing an open forum for discussion and experimentation. We promote engaging and transformational art experiences with the goal of connecting the viewer’s personal experience to relevant areas in contemporary culture.

The Education Department works closely with teachers and students grades K through 12 to provide quality art based programs that enhance core curriculum. The student’s experience is the epicenter of our programs whether at the Museum with guided tours, at the schools with our partnerships or with our extracurricular teen programs.

All curriculums support Common Core Learning Standards, the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts, and State Learning Standards for the Arts.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Bronx River Art Center (BRAC) is a culturally diverse, multi-arts, non-profit organization that provides a forum for community, artists, and youth to transform creativity into vision. Our Education, Exhibitions, and Presenting Programs cultivate leadership in an urban environment and stewardship of our natural resource, the Bronx River. For the past 25 years, BRAC has maintained a commitment to providing quality visual arts and digital media instruction. As of Fall 2010, we began a 2-year renovation of our facility. During this time, BRAC will increase our integration into the community by taking our afterschool and Saturday classes into Bronx public schools and community-based organizations as part of our "BRAC on the Block" initiative. BRAC will maintain temporary headquarters and a Digital Media Lab in the West Farms Square area from where we will continue recruitment and registration as well as offer our Digital Media classes.

Arts Education Programming Description:

We offer youth programs after school and on Saturdays. The classes are taught by professional artists, and they include Painting, Drawing, Cartooning, Ceramics, and more. Please refer to our website (see above) for fees, fee waivers, and scholarships. We sometimes offer a free Teen Institute as well. Fee-based classes for adults are also available, as well as workshops for schools and community-based organizations, which can include in-school, afterschool, or Saturday programs.

Brooklyn Arts Council (BAC)

Office Address: 55 Washington Street

Brooklyn, NY 11201

T: 718-625-0080

www.brooklynartscouncil.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 1966, the Brooklyn Arts Council is an educational and cultural service organization that works to foster and promote the understanding, appreciation and practice of all artistic disciplines.

Arts Education Programming Description:

School Groups:

BAC employs professional artists to provide classroom instruction in music, dance, theater, puppetry, museum studies, creative writing, media, visual and folk arts in public schools in all five boroughs. All programs, which integrate both the NYS Learning Standards for the Arts and the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts, are designed to enhance the school curriculum.

Assembly Programs: BAC assembly programs include performances of traditional, classical, and jazz music and dance, along with theatrical presentations and folk tales and stories. Folk arts performances display the wide range of talent from Brooklyn's diverse ethnic community, including Russian folk dance and ballet; Chinese Opera; South Indian dance; Irish step dancing; African, Haitian, and Afro-Cuban drumming, song and dance; Native American dance; American Square dance; Contemporary Urban dance; and many more.

Programs for Teachers:

BAC offers professional development workshops for teachers, arts specialists, and administrators, as well as workshops that give parents the skills to create curriculum-based arts projects at home with their children. In addition to incorporating the state and city standards and goals into our workshops, we also design our curricula to: increase youth exposure to the arts; improve youth attitudes towards arts engagement and participation; help youth expand verbal and nonverbal communication skills; and provide opportunities for youth to apply and strengthen critical thinking and problem-solving skills.

www.brooklyncenteronline.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The mission of Brooklyn Center for the Performing Arts is to present outstanding performing arts and arts education programs—reflective of Brooklyn’s diverse communities—at affordable prices. Founded in 1954, each season, BCBC welcomes over 70,000 people to the 2,400 seat Walt Whitman Theatre. Included in this attendance figure are 46,000 school children from over 300 schools, who attend its SchoolTime series, one of the largest arts education programs in the borough.

Each season offers a wide variety of performances from different disciplines. Dance programming ranges from classical ballet and traditional folkloric companies to the most innovative and contemporary groups. Musical offerings include classical, pop, jazz, and world music artists. Theatrical presentations include Broadway musicals, dramas, comedies, revues, and spectacles. BCBC’s Target FamilyFun series provides affordable, multi-disciplinary programming for families. Tickets range from $6 to $45. Annual free events at BCBC include the Folk Feet Dance Festival, presented in partnership with the Brooklyn Arts Council, and a military band to honor Brooklyn’s large community of veterans.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Brooklyn Center’s SchoolTime series, created over 32 years ago in response to drastic reductions in public school arts programs, particularly in economically disadvantaged neighborhoods, fulfills a vital need in Brooklyn to introduce and expose young students, ages 4-13, to educational performing arts programs — many for the first time. SchoolTime directly supports Brooklyn Center’s mission by providing Brooklyn’s young audiences affordable access to educational and internationally renowned music, theater, and dance artists directly in their local community. The SchoolTime series also supports the Center’s mission by exposing schoolchildren to both culturally relevant and educationally engaging material, much of it literary-based, while offering exposure to new cultures and forms of expression.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

American Dance Guild Award recipient Buglisi Dance Theatre is celebrated for stunning theatricality, lyrical repertoire, and cinematic imagery "full of invention and emotion" -New York Times. Founded by Artistic Director Jacquelyn Buglisi, Capucilli, Dakin and Foreman, former principal dancers of the Martha Graham Dance Co., the multi-cultural BDT presented its 20th anniversary at The Joyce Theater, NYC and tours on 5 continents from Melbourne Festival to Kennedy Center and Jacob's Pillow. Its int'l public tribute Table of Silence Project 9/11 reaches over 25,000 in 74 countries via live stream. Core to its mission is bringing community together through socially relevant programs integrating history, the natural environment, and archetypes that illuminate the human condition. Its 100+ repertoire is archived in the Jerome Robbins Dance Division/NYPL, and is licensed/performed by dance companies/universities worldwide. BDT is funded in part by DCA, NEA, NYSCA, Arnhold & Shubert Fdns.

Arts Education Programming Description:

BDT's education programs are designed to engage the imagination while stimulating the development of creative problem solving and cognitive skills, teamwork, and self-discovery. All BDT curricula align with the NYC DoE Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts as well as state, national arts standards and Common Core Learning Standards. Artistic Director Jacquelyn Buglisi attends the Dance Education Lab course taught by founder Jody Arnhold, and incorporates the DEL Laban analysis in her lesson planning. Buglisi is chair of The Ailey School Modern Dept. for 25 years, and is featured in Dance Teacher magazine in 2014, 2003, 2004. BDT's K-12 in-school arts-centered activities encourage students to discover their own voice through the exploration of space, rhythm and movement in a safe and collaborative learning environment. Mission and History / Organization Description

Casplash a.k.a. Caribbean Splash is a unique and eclectic band which has entertained thousands of people since its creation in 2000. We combine the beautiful sounds of the steelpan, soulful singing and hot tropical rhythms. Casplash is founded by Steelpanist Rudy Crichlow, a man whose roots are in Trinidad and Tobago. Throughout the years the members of Casplash have taken thousands of audience members on a fantastic musical escapade via live performances.

Arts Education Programming Description

Casplash plays styles made for dancing ranging from Calypso, Soca, and Reggae to Pop, Funk, R&B and more. According to the type of performance you desire we can lead familiar dances such as the Electric Slide, Cha Cha Slide, Hokey Pokey, Conga Line, and Limbo. Additionally, we can teach a traditional West Indian follow-the-leader style dance called Brown Girl in the Ring. This dance is very popular among our audiences.

(at Broadway and 138th Street)
New York, NY 10031
T: 646-330-4858

www.capoeiracenterny.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

In March 2005, Tiberio Vieira and Michelle Rae Pinzon founded the Capoeira Center of New York, Inc. and brought together over fifteen years of experience in teaching and training Capoeira and dance. The Center's mission is to promote, foster, and develop an understanding and appreciation of Afro-Brazilian culture. The Center primarily focuses on the Afro-Brazilian martial art and dance of Capoeira through community workshops, classes, presentations, cultural exchange programs, educational seminars, and retreats. The Capoeira Center is a 501(c)(3) not-for-profit organization and has been incorporated in New York.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Capoeira Center has three basic youth and teen programs: (1) Flushing YMCA youth program in Queens, (2) the Capoeira Credit Recovery Project at New Design High School in Lower Manhattan, and (3) the Literacy in Capoeira project. The Capoeira Center has served over 40 youth in Queens and has helped over 80 teens obtain their high school diplomas on the Lower East Side. The Capoeira Center recently released a children's book, which sparked the Center's latest project, "Literacy Through Capoeira". The Center also performs at schools and introduces children to Afro-Brazilian culture through Capoeira.

Capoeira Foundation

Office Address: 246 West 38th Street

New York, NY 10018

T: 212-382-0555

www.dancebrazil.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Capoeira is a form of martial arts developed surreptitiously by Brazilian slaves in the 1700s. At that time, practitioners, in order to train, had to pretend they were dancing in order to practice their kicks and blows. Thus there is a mature style of capoeira music that grew along with the martial arts culture. The Capoeira Foundation was founded to promote Afro-Brazilian cultural forms—particularly dance and music—through its educational, presenting and producing activities. The foundation supports DanceBrazil, a professional company of contemporary and traditional dancers and musicians. It also commissions new work, sponsors residencies and documents Afro-Brazilian cultural life.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The foundation offers a range of outreach activities to public school students, including workshops, lecture-demonstrations in capoeira and Afro- Brazilian dance.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Carnegie Hall believes that everyone should have access to the power of great music. Serving more than 170,000 children, students, teachers, parents, young music professionals, and adults each year, the Weill Music Institute's education and community programs are designed to inspire the next generation of music lovers, nurture tomorrow's talent, and contribute to the advancement of music education in the New York metropolitan area, across the US, and around the world.

School program offerings include:

- The McGraw-Hill Companies CarnegieKids (recommended for children ages 3-6) invites children to explore:
- basic musical concepts through free interactive concerts that feature songs, movement, and instrument demonstrations in community venues throughout New York City.
- Musical Explorers (kindergarten-grade 2) introduces students to musical concepts through explorations of the different cultures and traditions from neighborhoods across New York City.
- Link Up (grades 3-5) enables students to develop performing and listening skills through a standards-based curriculum, online resources, and participatory concerts at Carnegie Hall.
- Perelman American Roots (grades 6-8) combines sequential lessons, teaching artist visits, and concerts, providing a historical and cultural context for various styles of African American song.
- Carnegie Hall Musical Exchange (ages 13-19) uses technology to connect students and teachers in the New York City area with peers around the world through an online global community.
- Family Concerts (recommended for children 5-12) offers families an introduction to classical, jazz and world music through a variety of concerts at Carnegie Hall by world-class performers with tickets starting at just $9.

cultural heritages as the foundation of self-empowerment. In direct response to the historic marginalization and systemic discriminatory policies that have rendered many of our communities vulnerable, CCCADI's work creates self-determined models for culturally relevant education, cultural equity strategies and action, economic sustainability, and holistic wellness.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Based on over 35 years of expert cultural research and arts leadership, CCCADI is one of New York City's preeminent institutions focused on the arts and social history of the African Diaspora. Based on our understanding of the great need for culturally responsive learning opportunities for youth, CCCADI has designed an array of arts education programs for PreK – 12 students, Touching Living Culture to supplement successful learning in or out of the classroom. The Center for Kinesthetic Education professional team seek to enhance body-mind-emotional expression with children using movement to support academics, dance, fitness, and physical education. CKE consultants use exercise, movement, dance and kinesthetic awareness as an integrated approach to learning and wellness. Martha Eddy has designed programs of international repute. At the heart of all of CKE's programs is movement. Movement is the kinesthetic pathway to physical health, cognitive learning, emotional expression, and neuro-developmental growth, an inherently integrative approach. CKE programs use dance, creative expression, and cooperation to bring out the joy and positive social-emotional aspects of movement activity and therapeutic exercise. Our wellness approaches to exercise can serve to reduce stress and enhance test-taking. Our creative interactions and neuro-developmental strategies support improved cognitive and motor functioning.

Arts Education Programming Description:

CKE Dances! offers programs for classroom and dance educators interested in using movement and dance to develop students' movement skills, coordination, health, and fitness, as well as artistic expression. Our workshops are also designed to support academic learning, stress reduction and overall health and well-being. The mission of CKE is to share with youth and adults the importance of body awareness in understanding oneself and in interpersonal relationships. CKE Dances! fulfills this mission through offering dance-making workshops tailored to meet your schools approach to the curricula. Workshops include: Moving Dialogues: Exploring Choreography; Moving Math: Dance-Making using Mathematical Concepts; Dancing Peace: Including the Bully for socio-emotional development; and Dancing with the Brain in Mind during which students learn and practice movement sequences that develop better concentration and handling of challenging situations including relaxation strategies for test-taking.

The Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center

70 Lincoln Center Plaza
(at Amsterdam Avenue and W 65th Street)
New York, NY 10023
T: 212-875-5793

www.chambermusicsociety.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 1969, The Chamber Music Society of Lincoln Center was created to draw people to the intimate art form of chamber music. CMS presents an annual series of concerts and educational events for listeners ranging from connoisseurs to chamber music newcomers of all ages.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Chamber Music Beginnings (grades 3-5):

Music and culture come to life in this series of entertaining, interactive chamber music concerts. Students learn about the elements of music – melody, rhythm, form – first hand from our musicians on stage and from teaching artists in the classroom.

Young Musicians/Ensembles:(grades 7-12)

For over twenty years, the Young Musicians Program has provided young chamber musicians an opportunity to work with renowned musicians and master teachers, in preparation for a professional performance experience that is unique to the program. Participating ensembles receive coachings with a Chamber Music Society artist and perform at Lincoln Center.

Music Up Close (grades 9-12):

Ever wonder how professional musicians prepare for a concert? What does a Chamber Music Society rehearsal look and feel like? We invite you and your students to attend a real working rehearsal as our artists get ready for one of our concerts. Each rehearsal lasts approximately one hour and is preceded by a 30-minute introduction to familiarize students with the repertoire they are about to hear.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Children's Galleries for Jewish Culture is a non-religious organization that engages school children and families in an active, hands-on exploration of history and culture in non-threatening and inclusive ways to benefit the diverse Jewish community and the community at large.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Children's Galleries for Jewish Culture is home to two fully interactive and hands-on exhibitions for schools serving children between grades 2-6. Open for organized field trips on Sunday (9 am-12:30 pm), Tuesday, Wednesday and Thursday (9 am-5 pm) by appointment. School field trips: $3 or $4 per student (minimum of $50 or $65).

From Home to Home: Jewish Immigration to America

The exhibition enhances the study of immigration, American history and diversity through child-oriented entry points and captivating problem-solving activities. It uses Jewish immigration to exemplify those issues of the immigrant experience that are common to all immigrants, from wherever they come.

From Tent to Temple: Life in the Ancient Near East

All children will benefit from a visit to this vibrant exhibition that integrates science, geography, art and archaeology with social, ethical and psychological issues. The exhibition animates and complements the study of ancient cultures, basic needs, natural resources, technologies and comparative religions and communities around the world through experiential and hands-on problem solving activities. The 55 interactive stations engage children in an active exploration of four major topics: food, shelter, clothing and adornment and archaeology. Children view, manipulate and describe in detail artifacts to strengthen their observational and deductive skills.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Children's Museum of the Arts (CMA), a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, celebrates the visual and performing artist in every child through teaching, collecting, creating and exhibiting children's art. Founded in October 1988 by Kathleen Schneider, the Children's Museum of the Arts is one of the oldest children's art museums in the world. The Museum has been located in the Manhattan neighborhood of SoHo since its inception. The Museum employs an artist-in-residence format whereby teaching artists work directly with children and their families.

Arts Education Programming Description:

CMA gives children of all abilities access to the arts. CMA offers a wide range of age appropriate workshops for children in PreK through Eighth Grade in schools, hospitals and community centers. CMA also offers school group visits to the Museum throughout the year, where students create art with CMA Teaching Artists and tour the gallery. Students look at artwork made by other children from around the world, and gain insight into the purpose and function of a public art gallery and how to talk about art. Additionally, during CMA's general hours, visitors are invited to explore painting, collage, and sculpture in our Open Art Studio or work in small groups with Teaching Artists on Guided Workshops.

CMOM inspires children and families to learn about themselves and our culturally diverse world through a unique environment of interactive exhibitions and programs. Since opening in a neighborhood storefront in 1973, we’ve grown into a unique 38,000 square-foot learning facility with outreach programs at nearly 50 sites throughout New York City. CMOM focuses on four priority areas to impact children in ways that will last a lifetime: Early childhood education prepares children for success in school. Creativity in the arts and sciences inspires creative and analytic thinking skills for lifelong learning. Healthy lifestyles programs provide a blueprint for a family’s physical, emotional and environmental well-being. Exploration of world cultures gives children awareness, understanding and context for the diverse society in which we all live.

Arts Education Programming Description:

CMOM’s award-winning exhibitions have been created and built by a team of education specialists and designers based on the idea that students learn by doing. Interactive components and larger-than-life environments encourage students to explore in new ways, making learning come alive! Bring your class to one of our theme-based 90-minute tours which are led by a museum educator and include a guided tour of an interactive exhibition and a hands-on art workshop. All tours conform to National and New York State Common Core Standards and are individually adapted to each grade level.

China Institute
FOUNDED 1926

Mission and History/Organization Description:

China Institute advances a deeper understanding of China through programs in education, culture, business, and art in the belief that cross-cultural understanding strengthens our global community. Founded in 1926 by a group of American and Chinese educators, China Institute in America is the oldest bi-cultural non-profit organization in the U.S. to focus exclusively on China. The organization promotes the appreciation of Chinese heritage and provides the historical context for understanding contemporary China. Programs, activities, courses, and seminars are offered on the visual and performing arts, culture, history, music, philosophy, language, and literature for the general public, children, and teachers, as well as for business.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Gallery Group Tours

Discover China Through Art (DCTA) is an innovative art education program that China Institute Gallery offers to schools and the general public. Through a docent-led gallery tour, a video presentation and a hands-on workshop, participants can experience Chinese art up close while learning about fundamental techniques.

Programs for Children

The 'We All Live in the Forbidden City' program offers thematic workshops about Chinese art, culture, history, and architecture. Designed for students in grades 3-5, these free outreach workshops are available to schools, museums, and libraries throughout the year.

Programs for Teachers

The 'We All Live in the Forbidden City' program offers professional development sessions several times each year. Teachers of all subject areas and grade levels are invited to attend. Educational resources for teachers are also available at www.walfc.org.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Circle in the Square Theatre School started offering acting classes in 1961 and has trained more than 5,000 actors since that time. The School is accredited by NAST (The National Association of Schools of Theater). In 1993 the School was incorporated as a 501(c)(3) non-profit organization.

The School prepares up to 100 young adult actors and musical theater performers annually with two-year Professional Workshops and a seven-week Summer Workshop. Our faculty offers an eclectic mix of techniques that have proven effective in developing the potential within each student.

The School's mission is two-fold: first, to provide training that enables our students to pursue professional careers in theater, film and television; and second, to provide engaging and entertaining learning opportunities for youth, seniors and adults that enable them to experience theater, and to recognize its relevance to their lives.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Corresponding with the second part of its mission, the School utilizes the talent it develops through an Outreach Program that serves schools and senior citizens from throughout the city. The School offers 'Plays for Grades K-6', 'Play Series for Adults', and a 'Playmaking Residency' at PS 11.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 1986, City Lore's mission is to foster New York City's – and America's – living cultural heritage through education and public programs. We document, present, and advocate for New York City's grassroots cultures to ensure their living legacy in stories and histories, places and traditions. We work in four cultural domains: urban folklore and history; preservation; arts in education; and grassroots poetry traditions. In each of these realms, we see ourselves as furthering cultural equity and modeling a better world with projects as dynamic and diverse as New York City itself.

Arts Education Programming Description:

City Lore provides high quality arts learning experiences in dance, drama, music, visual arts, creative writing, new media and film to students in grades K-12. We specialize in placing traditional and folk artists in schools. We also collaborate with contemporary artists whose own work explores the themes of community, identity, and history. Our artists collaborate with teachers to design unique educational experiences for students that integrate the arts with social studies and ELA. Our students acquire tools and skills for investigating neighborhood, family, cultural traditions and history, and learn to draw on research to express ideas about their communities and the world through the arts. We align our programs to the New York State Learning Standards for the Arts, the New York City Blueprint for the Arts, and the Common Core State Standards.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Classic Stage Company (CSC) is the award-winning Off-Broadway theatre committed to re-imagining the classical repertory for contemporary audiences. Founded in 1967, CSC uses works of the past as a way to engage in the issues of today. Highly respected and widely regarded as a major force in American theatre, it has become the home to New York's finest established and emerging artists, the place where they gather to grapple with the great works of the world's repertory.

Arts Education Programming Description:

CSC's Young Company program is a unique partnership between Classic Stage Company and the graduate Theatre Arts Program at Columbia University's School of the Arts. We make Shakespeare alive and accessible to students all over New York City and beyond through in-school workshops and performances at our theatre. The diverse company of young, talented actors in our shows also serve as our in-school teaching artists. This means that students have the opportunity to learn from actors they can relate to, and to experience firsthand how powerful – and how much fun – Shakespeare can be. Participating schools also have the option of competing in the Shakespeare Smackdown (SHAKE SMACK!), a no-fee event that offers the chance for students to perform on CSC's stage.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 1997, Community~Word Project (CWP) is a not-for-profit arts-in-education organization that provides collaborative arts residencies for public school youth and their teachers. It is Community~Word Project's mission to inspire New York City youth in underserved communities to read, interpret and respond to their world, and to become active citizens through collaborative arts residencies and teacher training programs.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Community~Word Project (CWP) offers arts residencies tailored to address the needs of both students and teachers as well as the mission of each school. Every week, a team of two trained teaching artists leads standards-based lessons that incorporate poetry/creative writing with theater, visual arts/photography, and/or music. Our artists collaborate with classroom teachers to identify goals for each residency and to plan lessons that integrate into school curriculum, utilizing materials and methods that are age and developmentally appropriate. Weekly planning/reflection meetings with teachers encourage the most effective instruction and allow for any necessary adjustments during the residency. All of our teaching artists have graduated from our rigorous, year-long Teaching Artist Training and Internship Program (TATIP). Also, one to three TATIP trainees shadow and assist our teaching artists in each classroom residency from November through May. This creates a 6:1 student-teacher ratio that allows all students to receive the individualized attention they need.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Cool Culture brings together families, schools and New York City's world-renowned museums, gardens, and zoos to create learning-rich, culturally vibrant communities that prepare children for future success.

Cool Culture partners with 90 premiere museums and cultural institutions and works with 400 Universal Pre-Kindergarten, Kindergarten, Child Care and Head Start programs in NYC to serve 50,000 low income families. Last year alone, Cool Culture families made 200,000 visits to our cultural institution partners.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Cool Culture's Literacy Without Walls is a professional development and family involvement program for Title I elementary schools. The program enables Pre-Kindergarten and Kindergarten families to support children's language development and early learning through NYC's cultural institutions. Schools receive:

- 1) A 5-part professional development workshop series, which occurs in museums throughout the city, designed for 1 staff person from your school to receive training about early learning in museums and how to implement Cool Culture at your site for Pre-K and K families, especially for families who are new to museum-going.
- 2) A personalized Cool Culture Family Pass, for each Pre-kindergarten and Kindergarten family, which provides free, unlimited general admission for up to 5 people to our 90 partner museums, botanic gardens, and zoos during out-of-school time (no field trips).

Mission and History/Organization Description:

CBTB was founded in 1987 by director/choreographer Marla Hirokawa, a dancer and former New York City Ballet Education Department teaching artist. Incorporated into a non-profit in 2007, Covenant Ballet Theatre (formerly Covenant Dance Theatre) is committed to providing professional standard performances, educational programs and dance instruction. CBTB reaches out to all, spreading the love of dance in Brooklyn and beyond.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Live Dance Performances

CBTB offers Live Dance Performances that expose young students to the world of dance. Prior to the performance Student Movement Workshops are given to experience dance technique and choreography as well as the story behind the ballets. After the performances, a Meet-The-Artists session is available.

Dance Residencies

Teaching artists travel to schools to introduce dance styles; guide students in creating their own dances based on a classroom subject, and assist them in creating their own performance.

Dance Field Trip

A workshop at CBT Dance Academy introduces students to ballet and modern and guides them in creating their own dances. Or a workshop in ballet or modern followed by a studio performance by CBT professional dancers.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Theatre cultivates a unique skill set indispensable for the 21st Century – primarily communication, collaboration, critical thinking and creativity. Creative Arts Team (CAT) enriches the lives of our participants through a pedagogy which combines educational drama strategies with research-based educational theories and practices to create participant-centered, interactive drama experiences. The needs, strengths and learning styles of participants inform the actual content of workshops. CAT offers a diverse array of programs for traditional and non-traditional populations.

CAT, founded in 1974, is an educational outreach program at The City University of New York (CUNY). With four decades of school and community partnerships, youth and professional development programs, and our award-winning Youth Theatre, CAT has reached over a million students, educators, parents and teaching artists in NYC, across the nation and around the world.

Arts Education Programming Description:

CAT provides interactive, drama-based in- and after-school programming for Pre-K-12th grade and college students on a variety of issues, including: literacy, bullying prevention, health & wellness, and college & workplace readiness. CAT's NYC Student Shakespeare Festival celebrates Shakespeare through professional development, in-school residencies and a culminating festival. CAT's Youth Theatre is our award-winning, free, after-school program for middle and high school youth. Young people work with professional theatre practitioners to create original theatre. Professional development on using drama to address a range of social and academic topics is also available for educators and youth development professionals. "I was thoroughly impressed by CAT's training, the support from the teaching artists, and the way my students grew as a result of their experience." –NYC Teacher

T: 212-690-2800

www.dancetheatreofharlem.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Dance Theatre of Harlem (DTH) is a leading dance institution of unparalleled global acclaim, encompassing a performing Ensemble, a leading arts education center and Dancing Through Barriers®, a national and international education and community outreach program. Each component of DTH carries a solid commitment towards enriching the lives of young people and adults around the world through the arts.

Founded in 1969 by Arthur Mitchell and Karel Shook, DTH was considered “one of ballet’s most exciting undertakings” (The New York Times, 1971). Shortly after the assassination of The Reverend Dr. Martin Luther King, Jr., Mitchell was inspired to start a school that would offer children — especially those in Harlem, the community in which he was born — the opportunity to learn about dance and the allied arts.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Dance Theatre of Harlem is dedicated to reaching young people with powerful programs, which provide tools that foster self-actualization, a holistic world view, and empowerment through creative literacy, critical thinking and reflection.

Dancing Through Barriers® comprehensive arts education programs offer a range of activities that include, in-class study, school-time performances, site tours and after school programs.

As a comprehensive “traveling dance classroom”, we facilitate varied standards-based student-centered experiences for grades K-12 with a goal of developing visionaries, leaders and citizen artists who are equipped to make important contributions to our society.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The mission of Dancing Classrooms is to cultivate essential life skills in students through the practice of social dance. Through standards-based, in-school residencies, we use the vocabulary of ballroom dance to cultivate the positive feelings that are inherent in every child. The maturity necessary to dance together fosters respect, teamwork, discipline, confidence and a sense of joy and accomplishment. It is our ultimate vision to establish schools and communities where every child is connected, respected, and provided a safe environment in which to thrive. Dancing Classrooms was founded in 1994 by Pierre Dulaine, and was originally known as American Ballroom Theater Co. In the Spring of 2010 we officially changed our name to Dancing Classrooms.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Dancing Classrooms is a twice a week for 10 weeks in-school residency program. Over the course of 10 weeks, students will be provided an environment to foster essential life skills while also learning a variety of contemporary social dances in a classroom setting. Most importantly, our program can help increase student attendance rates at school; boost academic performance through improved attention spans; raise parental involvement at the school; provide physical activity; and teach good sportsmanship.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Dancing Crane, Inc. has operated in NY State since 1996. Our mission is to perform research in and educate the general public about traditional dance and music from cultures around the world, with an emphasis on the traditions of Georgia; and to support and expand the work of traditional artists. We have presented hundreds of concerts, workshops and residencies in Georgian dance, music and theater.

With the establishment of our Georgian Cultural Center our program has evolved to provide an environment to combine professional level performance in Georgian traditional arts with an all around education for children through the study and practice of these arts and to provide opportunities for the growing Georgian immigrant community to establish healthy roots within New York City and American society

Arts Education Programming Description:

Dancing Crane, Inc. employs professional artists to provide classroom instruction in traditional Georgian Dance and culture. Our programs integrate the NYS Learning Standards for the Arts and the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts and are designed to enhance the school curriculum. The program includes a performance for the school by our children's dance ensemble followed by a series of in-depth classes learning the details of arm, leg and body movement, dance music and rhythms and choreographic patterns for these dances as well as the cultural context in which they are danced. The program concludes with a student recital for the school and a traditional Georgian feast.

Assembly Programs: The Dancing Crane assembly programs include performances and lecture demonstrations of Georgian dances and songs.

www.doingarttogether.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Doing Art Together (DAT) is a non-profit arts education organization that provides hands-on programs to under-served and under-resourced audiences. DAT's programs build skills that enhance the ability to learn and are easily transferred from the classroom to life. DAT's interactive workshops develop art literacy and sensory awareness; build self-confidence and self-expression; encourage problem-solving, critical-thinking, observation, imagination, and reflection; enhance academic lessons; expose participants to a wide variety of artistic disciplines that enhance and encourage job skills; and reach PreK to high school students, teachers, parents, and social service agency clients throughout New York City.

Arts Education Programming Description:

All lessons are aligned with the New York City Department of Education's Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Visual Arts and New York State Learning Standards. The content and duration of Doing Art Together workshops are designed for the students' grade level. Doing Art Together embraces a non-judgmental approach to art-making. In this supportive environment, everyone succeeds.

Art for Children and Youth (PreK to grade 12): Children experiment with materials and processes, utilizing drawing, painting, collage, clay, puppets, masks, music, photography, architecture, book-making, and recycled and found materials.

Parent/Child Workshop (PreK to grade 8): Children and adults experiment with materials and tools, expressing their ideas and feelings through various art media, including painting, collage, puppet-making, and clay.

Creative Careers and Arts-Based Learning Exploration (CreativeCABLE) (ages 11-21): The workshops are designed to enhance visual literacy skills, knowledge, and life skills to help students improve their academic performance and learn actual applications of math, science, social studies, and language arts. Arts professionals collaborate with teachers to design these skill-based, hands-on workshops that integrate subject matter and introduce students to various career opportunities.

Creative Educational Growth Experiences (CreativeEDGE) (all ages): Through field trips and hands-on workshops on art and architecture, students gain life skills in map reading, measuring, drawing, planning, observing, and concentrating. They develop verbal and artistic communication skills and gain self-confidence.

Professional Development: Teachers and administrators learn how the arts can be used to foster skills in other academic areas.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 1993, Drumsongs Productions, Inc. is a not-for-profit cultural arts organization that seeks to provide to general audiences the experiences of Africans and of Africans in the Diaspora. These experiences are focused on the exposure of family and school audiences to multi-disciplinary creative and interpretive art forms that relate to the cultural heritage of African Peoples. The goal is to develop forums of exchange, discussion, and aesthetic appreciation of the traditional cultures of Africa and its related Diaspora cultures throughout the world. Drumsongs currently features four programs: "The Asase Yaa Dance Theater"; "Talking Drums"; the "The African Craftsman" - the art of traditional drum carving; and the broadcast airings of "Cultural Caravan TV".

Arts Education Programming Description:

Drawing inspiration from the rich cultural heritage of Africa, Talking Drums is an intimate performance based on the traditional instruments of Africa. This presentation uses a wide variety of traditional African instruments such as the Gome, a bass drum played with both the hands and feet from the Ga people of Ghana, West Africa; the Djimbe, a virtuoso drum from the Sene-Gambia region of West Africa; the Akyene, a hand carved conga shaped drums from the Akan people; and the mbira, a hand-held thumb piano made out of a calabash. Talking Drums provides a mechanism where young audiences participate directly in the music process of traditional African music. It does this by establishing a sense of empowerment among participants that encourages risks taking in a non-threatening environment.

Presented as a group activity, young audiences count, spell and jump, all to the beat of the drum. This brings an exotic part of the world to new audiences in a direct and hands-on way.

(between Fifth and Sixth Avenues)

New York, NY 10011

T: (212) 242-1744 | F: (212) 242-6117

www.earlystages.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Early Stages' mission is to foster literacy through the arts, improve classroom learning, and inspire children to explore their own voices in order to reach their full potential. Each student learns performance, language arts and life skills. We believe that arts education transforms the lives of students and should be available to all children. Our vision is to cultivate literate, ethical and articulate young men and women who will be fully prepared to participate in the arts and achieve in our society.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Early Stages is a citywide arts-in-education organization serving over 10,000 children each year through in-school storytelling residencies, workshops, and attendance at performances of live theater. Most of the schools in which we work have significant numbers of English Language Learners and special education students, high and increasing poverty rates, and significant oral language and literacy challenges. Our students are predominantly minorities from a wide array of ethnic backgrounds.

Our Storytelling Program reaches 5,000 students. Our Live Theater Program brings, on average, 6,000 children from more than 60 schools to performances of world-class theater, dance, and music.

Early Stages' Storytelling residencies are the perfect form of theater for the classroom. Storytelling and its underlying narrative structures serve as the root of the ability to formulate thoughts and explore them in a coherent way; help a child make sense of complex concepts; and encourage the curiosity and wonder that arts education infuses into learning. Whether it is the story of one's own experiences, the story of other cultures, or the story of history itself, understanding stories is vital to the expression of one's self and a comprehension of the world around us.

Our Live Theater Program allows students to experience theater in "real-world" situations and find a sense of comfort in the cultural institutions that form one of the pillars of their city's life—but which they often view as unfamiliar and intimidating. These experiences are preceded and succeeded by workshops which include writing, discussion, and reflection.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

We are a music and movement program for children ages Birth till first grade as well as special needs children ages Pre-K to Day Habilitation. Our program has proven itself to be very successful with typically developing children as well as special needs children and adults.

What makes our program different is that we combine aspects of Physical Therapy, Occupational Therapy and Speech Therapy all in one. Besides using music as a tool to help the children develop, our program has a very positive effect on the emotional well being of the children and teachers that participate in our classes.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Edu Music Program is designed to fit the individuals needs of each class, depending on age and levels of physical and emotional development. Our program is bilingual to fit the needs of todays education. We start with a variety of warm up exercises using all parts of our bodies. Using our voices playing with tonality and rhythms practicing speech and participation. The first and very important welcoming song identifying oneself is a great tool used in integrating the social emotional. This welcome song gives all children the opportunity to say their own names,

We engage the participants through mimic movements and rhyming songs to help the children focus and develop memory skills. (recognizes and recalls) developing their musical concepts and musical expression.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Education Through Music (ETM®) was formed in 1991 with a mission to promote the use of music and other arts in schools in the inner-city and in disadvantaged areas, as a means of enhancing students' academic performance and general development.

Arts Education Programming Description:

ETM is an organization of educators and music teachers committed to advancing students' academic and personal development, by ensuring that all children have access to high-quality music education.

Partner School Program

ETM forms long-term partnerships with elementary and middle schools that lack sufficient resources for school-wide music education. We work closely with each principal to design an individualized program for each school, addressing the school's needs, and incorporating the following activities: weekly, year-long music instruction for every child, following a skills-based, comprehensive and sequential curriculum that meets National and New York State standards; instrumental ensembles and other enrichment to supplement music instruction; training and professional development for music and academic teachers; management guidance for principals; and outreach to parents and the community. ETM involves the whole school community in the programs, and supports principals in their efforts to provide a well-rounded education to all students.

Music Teacher Professional Development

Beyond our partner school network, ETM also offers a wide range of professional development for music teachers on a fee per service basis. We provide one-on-one coaching and mentoring for music teachers, consisting of classroom observation, evaluation, and follow-up discussions. We also offer music faculty workshops, to enhance teaching skills and address such topics as music methodologies, use of technology, and strategies to collaborate with academic teachers to coordinate instruction in music and academics and support learning in other areas. Coaching and workshops can be tailored based on the needs of the school and music teacher(s).

When ETM partners with a school, we collaborate with the principal to incorporate all components mentioned in the Partner School Program description. Services are not available on a piecemeal basis, except for the music teacher coaching and training.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Educational Theater of New York is committed to presenting original, unusual, and though provoking theater with the highest level of acting and directing to English Language Learners.

Arts Education Programming Description:

ETNY developed a unique form of presenting theater to ELLs in the year 2000 with the theater's first original plays, a double bill called "No Answer" and "Mr. Edward's Appointment". After each scene the actors freeze, the Presenter enters the stage and engages the student audience in conversation about the play's characters and themes. Based on their understanding of the scene, the student audience can ask the actors to repeat the previous scene or continue to the following scene. The play is then performed in its entirety, allowing the audience to enjoy a full theatrical experience. After the play is completed the students have the opportunity to talk to the actors about the play. This interactive, innovative and unique format is used in all of our plays in repertory.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Since 1987, ENACT has been teaching social, emotional and behavioral skills through a unique, interactive combination of theatre, drama therapy, group counseling and inquiry-based learning techniques. During ENACT workshops, classrooms morph into "learning laboratories" where proprietary methods help students handle issues like violence and bullying. Projected outcomes include improved attendance and class participation, reduced bullying, better communication, increased self-esteem and enhanced decision-making skills.

Arts Education Programming Description:

ENACT offers schools several options: long-term school partnerships, shorter residencies, after school, parent workshops, professional development, and auditorium performances. ENACT's professional actors and drama therapists are uniquely trained to assess the needs of each school and adjust programming accordingly. They address topics such as bullying, peer pressure, diversity, prejudice, and family relationships to equip students with the ability to make positive choices in everyday life. ENACT creates programs that match each school's mission, helping to positively transform both students and entire school communities. ENACT workshops offer the opportunity to increase self-awareness, dramatically shift perspectives, and learn skills needed to be empowered and ready to face the world.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Envision Theater opened its doors 2 years ago to bring our motto of 'Imagine, Create, Perform!' to students in NJ and NY. Theater by its nature addresses 21st Century Learning through Critical Thinking, Communication, Collaboration and Creativity. Our workshops, classes and programs are designed in harmony with "the four Cs". Envision Theater is an Educational Theater Company whose goal is to provide quality, original and interactive theater workshops and productions for children of all ages. We are dedicated to fostering self-esteem, individuality, and teamwork in a fun, safe and nurturing environment. We believe that hands on experiential learning is the key to greater understanding. We are committed to keeping our pulse on the latest in educational practices and infusing that knowledge into our curriculum. We welcome diversity and contribute to the community by reinforcing the values of responsibility, commitment, integrity and respect.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Drama Across the Curriculum (PK-12): This residency investigates how theater practice can enhance core curriculum content. Our Teaching Artists will partner with you to create dynamic learning opportunities for your students.

StandUp/SpeakUp (Gr 1-6): Bullying prevention/conflict resolution through theater. Using hands on, interactive drama activities & creative writing combined with open ended storytelling. Students learn how to best approach situations by trying out various solutions and problem solving as a team. Students collaborate to create an original play.

Ensemble Project (PK-12) focuses on the value of collaboration and unique contributions every student has to offer. The work links to the curriculum.

Parent/Child Workshops allow families to experience the Arts together. Drama, Music, Dance Clubs and School Productions: Theater games, improv, scene work, choreo and music come together in an after school production. TAs work with children to mount a fully staged show.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Flushing Council on Culture and the Arts (FCCA), located at historic Flushing Town Hall, was founded in 1979 to be a revitalizing force for its community, and a creative force for developing and promoting the visual and performing arts throughout Queens. FCCA fulfills its mission by presenting an array of high quality multi-arts programs; educational opportunities for schools and community residents of all ages; and services to local artists and arts organizations. FCCA is a designated member of New York City's 33-member Cultural Institutions Group (CIG) and is a Smithsonian Institution affiliate member.

Arts Education Programming Description:

School Groups:

We offer arts workshops and/or residencies in visual arts, music, dance, theater, and puppetry into the classroom. Student groups can come to historic Flushing Town Hall to experience an interactive gallery workshop or a hands-on arts workshop in our on-site classroom. We specialize in offering arts workshops that highlight East Asian culture. FCCA also offers a student matinee performance series of award-winning artists in music, dance, puppetry, and theater. The purpose of the series is to introduce students to artistic excellence in a variety of cultural art forms that support New York State Learning Standards in Arts and other core subject areas.

Programs for Teachers:

FCCA also offers professional development training workshops for teachers with a particular focus on providing strategies and activities for integrating the arts into their classrooms. Ticket and program request forms available on our website.

442 Sterling Place, #10. Brooklyn, NY 11238

T: 631-312-2324

www.freespiritsmusic.com

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Free Spirits Music is a mobile rock music school providing songwriting and performance programs across New York City. Equipped with a full staff of touring rock musicians, FSM is a hands-on experience that builds teamwork, confidence, and critical thinking skills by forming bands and learning how to write original songs in a safe environment. The core mission behind Free Spirits Music is a single fact: by understanding your own creative process, you hold the power to inspire, change, and unite the world through music.

Free Spirits Music's methodology is proven to provide students with a critical musical foundation alongside peers and mentors. The shared experience of creation builds an emotional bond that cuts through cultural differences and socio-economic barriers, sparking a deep confidence in one's own abilities and emotional power.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Free Spirits Music offers 1-hour workshops, full-day workshops, and after-school programs for students ages 4-17.

Students learn to play guitar and develop vocal technique, write original songs, learn music theory, form bands, record demos, and/or perform a rock concert of original music.

Whether or not students consider themselves "musical", the one-hour workshops will end with a polished, original song based on a musical skill. In longer workshops, students' understanding of rhythm, pitch, harmony, and arranging will deepen.

In after-school programs, students have the option to play guitar or piano, culminating with a final performance at a rock music venue. A more in-depth analysis of songwriting, audio engineering, and stage performance will be addressed. Weekly themes include: "Avoiding Unnatural Rhythms In Rhymes," "The Juggling Songwriter," and "Memorable Melodies and Catchy Hooks."

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Frick Collection was founded by Henry Clay Frick (1849-1919), the Pittsburgh coke and steel industrialist. At his death, Mr. Frick bequeathed his New York residence and the most outstanding of his many art works to establish a public gallery for the purpose of "encouraging and developing the study of the fine arts." Chief among his bequests, which also included sculpture, drawings, prints, decorative arts such as furniture, porcelains, enamels, rugs and silver, were one hundred thirty-one paintings. The Frick Collection houses a permanent collection of more than 1,100 works of art from the Renaissance to the late nineteenth century and includes superb examples of Old Masters, English eighteenth-century portraits, Dutch seventeenth-century works of art, Italian Renaissance paintings, Renaissance bronzes, Limoge enamels, Chinese porcelains, and French eighteenth-century furniture.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Frick Collection welcomes students from grades 5–12, as well as college and graduate students. School visits introduce students to the museum's extraordinary collection in the setting of Mr. Frick's home. Students will study works of art through careful observation and focused small group discussions with our museum educators. Friends of Argentine Tango

(b/w Madison and Park Avenues)

New York, NY 10029

T: 212-362-2441

www.friendsofargentinetango.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Friends of Argentine Tango, incorporated as a non-profit in NYS in July 2013, was granted fiscal sponsorship by the New York Foundation of the Arts in February 2014. Our broad mission is to bring about awareness that tango is more than just a dance. Specifically, as it relates to children: To help students gain confidence, increase body awareness, work cooperatively, develop a sense of musicality and creativity, and to appreciate the important world-wide contributions Argentine tango has made to dance, music, poetry and literature.

Executive Director Walter Perez has 20 years experience as a teacher, performer and choreographer. Current attendance of the tango class he started at the Brooklyn Public Library 3 years ago is 40-50 students per week; he has prepared students to perform at school-wide festivals; and his dance company, Malevaje, performs worldwide.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Argentine tango, recognized by the United Nations as an international cultural asset, is a natural teaching tool for National Spanish Heritage Month and other school-wide festivals and events. Our programming for such events includes preparing students at various grade levels to perform tango choreography and/or performances by professional tango dancers, musicians, and singers. It is adaptable for non-school events such as street festivals.

Our other programs, teaching tango to students K-12, can take place any time of the year. The programs are 10 weeks long and supervised by our Program Director. Each class is 45-60 minutes long and taught by a senior teacher. Our flexible approach to programming recognizes differences in ages, abilities and attitudes and enables us to tailor our programs to fit specific needs.

Girl Be Heard

(at Plymouth St and John St)

Brooklyn, NY 11201

T: 718-222-4475 | F: 212-699-3746

www.girlbeheard.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Girl Be Heard is a non-profit theatre company that brings global issues affecting girls center stage by empowering young women to tell their stories.

The company was founded in 2008 under the name Project Girl Performance Collective, with twelve young women from diverse racial and socioeconomic backgrounds. Director Ashley Marinaccio was asked to write a play for the Estrogenius Theatre Festival, and gave birth to the first Girl Be Heard workshop by teaching the cast to write their own show and tell their own stories.

The result was transformative. This collective soon formalized a girl-empowerment workshop and curriculum to deliver a unique mentoring experience. Since its inception, the theatre company has grown from twelve to 175 members who tour the country and raise the visibility of issues affecting girls. The collective is based in New York City and serves thousands of youth via school performances, workshops and nonprofit partnerships around the world.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Girl Be Heard's educational program is designed for middle and high school students and taught by our Girl Be Heard Teaching Artists, senior collective members who have been through our program and received special training in Girl Be Heard pedagogy. The curriculum encourages young women to explore gender, race and class issues through theatre and performance.

Our curriculum develops writing, speaking, critical thinking and analytic skills as participants are encouraged to think about issues close to them and place them in a broader context. This approach makes learning more accessible and leads to better self-esteem and stronger performance in school.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Gotham Chamber Opera is the nation's leading opera company dedicated to vibrant, fully staged productions of works intended for intimate venues. Its high quality presentations of small-scale rarities from the Baroque era to the present have earned Gotham an international reputation and unanimous critical praise.

Arts Education Programming Description:

This December, Gotham Chamber Opera will present two student matinees of the charming chamber opera Puss in Boots (El gato con botas) by Spanish composer Xavier Montsalvatge. Praised as 'A dazzling visual feast from start to finish' by TheaterMania, this production features 28 puppets including a Bunraku cat, a colony of mischievous rabbits and a terrifying 10-foot high ogre operated by five puppeteers. The opera is appropriate for grades 3-12 and will be performed in English.

Participation in the program will include a professional development workshop for teachers introducing grade-specific lesson plans, classroom activities and a workshop on puppet-making.

The Grenier Educational Theater Group, Inc

505 East 84th Street, #5RE

(at York Avenue)

New York, New York 10028

T: 212-920-1575

www.GrenierEducationalTheaterGroup.com

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Grenier Educational Theater Group, (GET Group) is a not-for-profit incorporated organization dedicated to bringing awareness of Shakespeare's works to the community through all aspects of performance.

Operating throughout the five boroughs of New York City, GET Group brings live performances as well as collaborative study of Shakespeare's plays into schools, retirement communities, nursing facilities and hospital units. Emphasis is placed on presenting his work in the original language and style of the times. Through these performances, GET Group hopes to facilitate understanding of and evoke interest in Shakespeare's works.

The mission of the Grenier Educational Theater Group is to foster student interest and appreciation of Shakespeare's works by bringing live performances of his plays into schools

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Grenier Educational Theater Group is a nonprofit organization. We work with administration and faculty members in order to assist them in choosing the appropriate Shakespeare play to study in the classroom. From there, we suggest the best educational format of the text (eg: Barrons, Pelican, Arden, and even various publishings of folio for the more advanced course of study). If requested by the teacher, we do offer a study guide. We then bring a troupe of actors to the school to perform the play. Afterward, we provide a question and answer session in which the students are invited to ask actors/directors questions about the production, the play, the characters, and any questions that would further aid the student in his or her understanding of the work.

 Brooklyn, NY 11215
 T: 7182549782 | F: 7182549783
 E: director@groundswellmural.org groundswellmural.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Groundswell Community Mural Project is a NYC-based, 501(c)(3) founded in 1996 to bring together youth, professional artists, and communities. We use art as a tool for social change by creating high quality works of public art in under-represented neighborhoods. Youth in our programs have worked with professional artists and community organizations to transform more than 200 public spaces, enhancing the quality of life for thousands of New Yorkers everyday.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Youth in Groundswell programs develop and hone their skills in four key areas: Creativity; Collaboration; Critical Thinking and Compassion. They master skills in art making to communicate ideas, work effectively with others, make informed decisions, and to build awareness of and empathy for others.

- Summer Leadership Institute (SLI): A summer job-training program for 75-85 youth. Six teams of youth work with artists and community-based organizations to learn job skills and create public art.
- Teen Empowerment Mural Apprenticeship (TEMA): An after-school program, modeled on a traditional apprenticeship, in which teens create public art for community-based organizations.

For Court-Involved Youth:

- TurnStyle: In partnership with the Red Hook Community Court and the Brooklyn District Attorney's Office, youth arrested for minor offences fulfill their community service requirements working with Groundswell artists.
- Segue: Youth who have graduated from the TurnStyle program learn the skills that are necessary for participation in Groundswell's after-school and summer public art-making programs.

In the Community and Schools:

- Community Mural Action Program (CMAP). Schools and community groups contract with Groundswell to develop public art projects that reflect their mission. CMAP projects often meet at a partner organization's site and are sometimes part of the school day.
- Arts in Education. Groundswell partners with local public schools to implement visual arts projects into the academic curriculum.

Barnstead, NH 3225

T: 1-800-619-5302 | F: 603-776-6151

www.hampsteadstage.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

This year marks the 29th season of The Hampstead Stage Company! We are a nationally touring children's theatre that brings high quality, professional theatre to schools, libraries, and communities all over the 48 contiguous states (everywhere but Hawaii and Alaska!). Our mission is to bring great books to life through live theatre; sparking an interest in reading, and creating a new way for all ages to use their imagination.

The Hampstead Stage Company got its name from our founders who came to America from Hampstead, England to pursue their dreams. Since its inception, our company has grown into one of the largest educational touring companies in the nation. Performing over 200,000 shows a year, we have performed for over twenty million audience members!

Arts Education Programming Description:

Our interactive, educational tours run year-round; and are performed by two professional actors, each playing multiple roles. Our scripts are original adaptations, based directly on literary classics, and include children and adults from the audience. The plays last one hour, with a question and answer session following the performance.

We travel to your space, and bring our own realistic sets and costumes; designed using extensive historical research. Our minimal set up allows us to perform in venues of any size. Our programs are geared to the American Library Association's reading themes, and are fit for audiences K and up. We do not require a stage or electrical equipment.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 1964 by the internationally acclaimed soprano Dorothy Maynor, Harlem School of the Arts' mission is to enrich the lives of students and their families, from the Harlem Community and beyond, through the arts. The school provides instruction in dance, music, theater and the visual arts to students. A schedule of performances, concerts, lectures and exhibitions is offered to the general public either free of charge or for a low admission fee.

Arts Education Programming Description:

ARTS in Education

The Harlem School of the Arts' tuition-free ARTS in Education program (formerly Opportunities for Learning in the Arts) was established in 1977 as a response to drastic cutbacks in local government funding for arts education during the 1970's. The challenge of limited arts training in New York City public school continues today, particularly in impoverished communities. HSA's ARTS in Education program currently serves 15 public schools in Harlem, Upper Manhattan and the Bronx.

The ARTS in Education program embodies HSA's historic commitment to nurturing and stimulating a lifelong interest in the arts by offering PreK through 12th grade students interactive exposure to multicultural, flexible programming that integrates music, dance, theater and visual arts education with a core academic curriculum. This partnership between the arts and academics broadens students' world view, motivates their quest for knowledge, improves their self-esteem and provides an opportunity to experience first-hand the natural, life-affirming relationship between art and everyday life.

Curriculum & Philosophy

HSA's ARTS in Education programming is aligned with the New York State public school art education plan and includes teacher training opportunities and performance offerings. HSA recognizes that an important aspect of education reform is the identification of methodologies that build bridges connecting disciplines. Because the arts focus on the creative process, they offer unique possibilities for encouraging collaboration among teachers. Interdisciplinary teaching and learning are based upon a philosophy of education that emphasizes the exploration and discovery of analogies, relationships and metaphors.

HSA's approach requires students and teachers to apply the process of inquiry and integrate specific disciplinary skills and knowledge into a broader context. Innovative interdisciplinary teaching begins with questions, unites teachers and students as learners and investigators, and makes innovative use of community resources.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Daniel Gwartzman Dance Company, a New York-based nonprofit performing and teaching organization, has demonstrated a commitment to education since its inception in 1998. Operating with the philosophy that everyone can join the dance, the multigenerational interactive programming, known for its infectious energy and accessibility, seeks to captivate the greatest common denominator among a diverse population and share the art of dance in a meaningful way. With a large repertory noted for its entertaining flair, musicality, and innovation DGDC consistently delivers critically-acclaimed performances. Collaborations with a variety of organizations throughout and outside of New York City have resulted in a history of residencies and community events throughout the country and abroad. Contracted with the Department of Education since 1999, the Company has taught dance to over 15,000 students, parents, and teachers.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Company's programming is a mixture of teaching fun folk dances from around the world that anyone can learn, exploring individual creativity, learning the craft of choreography, and teaching how to view and speak about dance. The heart of the philosophy is that anyone can learn to dance, given the interest and discipline. DGDC strives to teach people how dance can play a meaningful part of their physical and overall well-being. We have worked with a range of populations, from PreK through high school, college, professional, special ed, and older adults. Since its inception, DGDC has been transforming diverse populations of all abilities and ages into dancers. The Company provides innovative and accessible performance and teaching programs as well as community-building projects. We are known for being "family friendly."

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Hetrick-Martin Institute believes all young people, regardless of sexual orientation or identity, deserve a safe and supportive environment in which to achieve their full potential. Hetrick-Martin creates this environment for lesbian, gay, bisexual, transgender and questioning (LGBTQ) youth between the ages of 13 and 24 and their families. We're proud to be the oldest and largest organization supporting LGBTQ youth. Like many leaders, we were trailblazers. In 1979, life partners and educators on gay and lesbian issues, Dr. Emery Hetrick and Dr. Damien Martin gathered a group of concerned adults and created what was then called the Institute for the Protection of Lesbian and Gay Youth (IPLGY) to assist a group of young people who needed support. In 1988, the organization was renamed The Hetrick-Martin Institute in honor of its founders and their lifelong commitment to service.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Hetrick-Martin Institute's Arts and Culture programs provide a space for youth to explore visual, creative, and performing arts through photography, painting, sculpting, drawing, drama and theater, dance classes, movement, voice, and music. HMI also offers an Expressive Arts Internship in which young people explore their identities using various creative mediums. These cultural celebrations help youth explore their own identity, gain mastery and competence, and build relationships.

www.IDEASDrama.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Interactive Drama for Education and Awareness in the Schools (I.D.E.A.S.) was established to provide drama activities to youth with disabilities and disadvantages, using drama as a teaching and learning tool. Our mission is: (1) to introduce drama as an art form for expression, creative thinking and socialization; (2) to understand life issues and academic curricula in a creative way; and (3) to provide adults with alternatives to traditional teaching/learning methods, all while teaching – and doing – drama.

I.D.E.A.S. began as a single program for teens with disabilities, under fiscal sponsorship. The general impetus was a lack of dramatic arts exposure and education for youth with disabilities, who would sit in the audience and watch their peers, with no opportunity to join them. Since incorporation I.D.E.A.S. seeks to even the literal playing field of stage and classroom.

Arts Education Programming Description:

All of I.D.E.A.S.' programs provide drama activities that focus on stimulating individual creativity while fostering group dynamics and inter-personal skills. Our programs include Sociodrama, which approaches issues of social importance such as bullying, violence, peer pressure and many more topics, as well as Creative Drama, which focuses on the process of dramatic creation from character to story. Our programs are rooted in improvisation and are planned directly with teachers and staff, adapted accordingly to maximize student strengths. All programs make use of simple props and costumes to aid in the creativity, add an element of enhancement and teach the purpose of these peripherals. I.D.E.A.S. has worked with youth who are deaf, blind, learning disabled, on the autism spectrum, have behavioral and emotional disorders, and socioeconomically disadvantaged.

(between Clove Road and Fairway Lane)

Staten Island, NY 10301

T: 347-951-9650 | F: 347-750-1233

www.illuminart.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

IlluminArt Productions employs theater as a catalyst for change.

Our mission is to enable individuals to use the power of theater to portray and develop solutions for the complex challenges that confront them such as bullying, violence, childhood obesity, breast cancer, loss, and aging.

We do this through engaging schools, and community groups in workshops that address these social issues. Peer education and theater training are integrated into the workshops, which culminate in performances.

IlluminArt has been conducting programs in schools on Staten Island since 2010.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Our programs are collectively empowered by professional actors, directors, composers, filmmakers, school administrators, teaching artists, and families. Program participants gain experience with theater arts in addition to developing leadership skills that extend beyond the time they spend with IlluminArt.

We work with classroom and after-school groups of children and youth in grades 3-12. We guide them through the process of identifying topics of importance to them (ie bullying, drug/alcohol abuse, peer pressure), theater games and improvisation, play-writing, and performing their original work for their peers.

Infinity Dance Theater

220 West 93rd Street, No. 6C
 (at West 93rd Street and Broadway)
 New York, NY 10025
 T: 212-877-3490 | F:
 E: info@infinitydance.com
www.infinitydance.com

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Infinity Dance Theater is a non-traditional dance company committed to expanding the boundaries of dance by featuring dancers with and without disabilities. Founded by Artistic Director, Kitty Lunn, in 1995, Infinity achieves parity in the world of dance while maintaining high standards of artistic quality. Infinity aims to inspire people with and without disabilities, encourage their artistic and other professional aspirations, and empower them through the organization's model educational and performance programs. Infinity's ensemble performs throughout the New York City metropolitan area and New York State, across the country, and around the world.

Arts Education Programming Description:

School Groups

Infinity teaches that disabled and non-disabled individuals are far more similar than dissimilar and that disability does not signal incapacity or diminish talent. The company presents programs customized to each school and grade level. These include lecture-demonstrations or master classes for any number of students. Artistic Director Kitty Lunn, a professional ballet and modern dancer who became a paraplegic after a fall, shares her own inspiring personal experiences as part of the session.

Programs for Teachers

Dance educators learn how to transpose the ballet, modern or jazz techniques they are already teaching into forms for disabled dancers, thus encouraging the inclusion of students using wheelchairs into regular classes and performances. Through first-hand use of wheelchairs designed for dance, teachers learn basic wheeling, partnering and choreographic techniques.

630 Ninth Avenue, 802

New York, NY 10036

T: 212-245-0710

www.insidebroadway.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Inside Broadway is a professional children's theater company committed to producing Broadway's classic musicals in a contemporary form for young audiences. In this way, the company seeks to pass down to future generations the rich legacy of one of America's original art forms. Inside Broadway's musical adaptations are presented in public schools throughout New York City and during its Weekend Family Series at the Lucille Lortel Theater.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Guest Artist Residency program brings actors, directors and choreographers into the classroom and allows students to get on their feet and participate in hands-on activities. The Shakespeare Program involves students in the study of the master's text and character through a variety of theater exercises. The Storytelling and Folktale Program, by contrast, invites students to present favorite stories, poems or dramatic texts. The Song and Dance program teaches students the music and choreography of one of the company's productions. Build-a-Musical gets students writing their own theatrical monologues and scenes. Inside Broadway offers two shows per year that include three workshops with a teaching artist, lesson plans and study guides.

International Studio & Curatorial Program

(ISCP)

1040 Metropolitan Ave

(between Morgan and Vandervoort Streets)

Brooklyn, NY 11211

T: 718-387-2900

www.iscp-nyc.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

ISCP is a leading nonprofit, residency-based contemporary art institution for emerging to mid-career artists and curators from around the world. Founded in 1994, ISCP has hosted over 1,300 artists and curators from more than 55 countries, including the United States. In 2008, ISCP moved from Manhattan to East Williamsburg, to the former factory of the Sackett & Wilhelms Lithography Company. This move expanded ISCP's facilities to 35 studios, a gallery and a project space. To advance its core mission of supporting artists in producing and exhibiting a wide range of contemporary, often experimental, artistic approaches, ISCP annually presents a series of innovative exhibitions and public programs both on- and off-site. ISCP's programming engages audiences in meaningful ways while fostering the institution's relationship to its community. Each year, over 100 artists and curators are in residence at ISCP and approximately 10,000 individuals attend ISCP's public programs.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Mission:

- to offer professional development for emerging to mid-career artists and curators from around the world by providing studio space and offering opportunities through its comprehensive programs.
- to introduce New York audiences to exceptional international artistic practices.
- to engage communities in Brooklyn and Greater New York City through public programs.

ISCP strives to establish a global network of exemplary artists and curators and to provide them with support for producing new work. Tailored for professional growth, the program serves as an active mediator, creating visibility and immersion for its residents in New York City. ISCP's programming hybrid is conceived to facilitate dialogue and collaboration. Three integrated activity areas: the Residency Program, Exhibition Program and Participatory Projects, make ISCP an unparalleled platform for producing, presenting and contextualizing contemporary art through a diverse range of international perspectives.

E: info@irondale.org
www.irondale.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Through the power of the ensemble process, Irondale creates and presents theater, performance, and education programs that challenge traditional assumptions about art, and help us to better understand today's world. The Irondale Center (our theater, laboratory, and classroom) is a home for ensemble artists of all disciplines and cultures, and a resource for our community.

The Irondale Ensemble Project was founded in 1983, by Jim Niesen, Terry Greiss and Barbara Mackenzie-Wood as an experimental/research theater to further investigate the performance and education techniques that they had developed at the Long Wharf Theatre in the late 1970s. It is a home for our work, a destination for ensemble artists of all disciplines, a venue for the performing arts, a resource for the community, and a rental facility for performances and events.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Irondale School Residencies

Each year, Irondale company members bring the power of ensemble theater to local classrooms by partnering with schools across New York City. Twice each week, our professional artists visit classrooms to conduct workshops that infuse theater and improvisation into the daily curriculum. We work closely with teachers, administrators, and students at our partner sites to customize the residencies to meet each school's needs. Our residencies vary in length from 7 days to an entire school year.

The Irondale Approach

The basic language our professional actors use to rehearse our theatrical productions is improvisation, the same language we teach in the schools; and the artists who appear on stage are the same teaching artists who work in the classroom. Using improvisation, we take an inquiry-driven approach to helping students learn how to solve problems, work together as a group, or focus on material, skills which benefit students regardless of the career or life path they may ultimately choose. Our approach helps them to "learn by doing"—to find their own solutions by working together and to learn intuitively as well as cognitively.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The mission of The Joyce Theater Foundation is to serve and support the art of dance and choreography, promote the richness and variety of the art form in its fullest expression, and enhance the public interest in, and appreciation of, dance and the allied arts of music, design, and theater. Our programs embrace the entire spectrum of movement styles and traditions, from the time-honored to the untried, and are designed to encourage, sustain, and educate a diverse audience.

Founded in 1982, The Joyce Theater was created by dancers for dance. It is considered one of the premiere performance venues for dance and attracts an annual audience of more than 140,000. Since its inception, The Joyce has welcomed over 270 New York City-based, national and international dance companies to its stage.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Joyce Theater becomes an extension of your classroom with a unique collaboration among your school, the theater, and dance companies from around the world! Our school-time programming is open to PreK-12th grade students and is designed as a key tool for arts integration in the classroom. The Joyce Education Program fosters an understanding of dance, dance aesthetics and encourages the imagination. The New York State Learning Standards for the Arts and the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts serve as guidelines throughout the work conducted in the classroom.

Key Elements include: Performances For Study – choose performances by companies from around the world; Teaching Artists – collaborate with skilled and qualified professionals to create engaging study units; and Professional Development Workshops for Teachers and Administrators.

www.hebrewhome.org/derfnerjudaicamuseum.asp

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Judaica Museum was founded in 1982 when Riverdale residents Ralph and Leuba Baum donated their collection of Jewish ceremonial art to the Hebrew Home. A refugee from Nazi persecution, Ralph and his wife, Leuba, had an intense desire to preserve and pass on to future generations the memory embodied in the objects they collected, the majority of which were used by European Jews before the Holocaust. In 2008, The Judaica Museum was named in honor of the late Helen and Harold Derfner. The Museum also features a rotating gallery space for modern art relating to Jewish life and culture.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Derfner provides hands-on workshops and tours centering around the exhibitions on view in the gallery. The Museum also specializes in programs for persons with special needs.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Juilliard School is an accredited college with curricula in dance, drama and music. Evening classes are available for individuals not enrolled in the college. Through the Office of Educational Outreach, Juilliard offers several music and dance programs to school-age children and schools. The Pre-College Division offers music instruction for young advanced students.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Juilliard's Educational Outreach programs benefit various audiences throughout New York City, sharing the joy of the performing arts and the artistry of Juilliard students.

The broad range of teaching and interactive performance programs include individual and group instruction; introductory classroom enrichment sessions; interactive dance and music performances for grades K through 12 and health-care facilities; and a Saturday music program at Juilliard providing underserved 8 to 14 year olds with weekly instruction and mentoring.

Teaching programs require a partnership between the school and Juilliard to successfully facilitate programming. Most partner schools participate for a minimum of 3 years. Beyond their valuable service to the community, the Educational Outreach Programs additionally provide Juilliard students with fellowships to teach and/or perform in these programs.

 (at 36th St.)
 New York, NY 10018
 T: 212-216-0963 | F: 212-216-9629
www.keencompany.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Keen Company produces sincere plays. We believe that theater is at its most powerful when texts and productions are generous in spirit and provoke identification. Inspired by the works of early 20th Century American playwrights, Keen Company demonstrates that an earnest intent can still be sophisticated. We are unafraid of emotional candor, vulnerability, and optimism. Keen Company seeks to create a culture of artists, technicians, administrators and audiences who share a desire to invigorate the theater with productions that connect us through humor, heart and hope.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Keen Teens is a unique educational theatre program which seeks to improve the quality of plays written for high school students by commissioning scripts from highly regarded professional writers. Playwrights write plays 30 minutes in length that involve a large cast and reflect Keen Company’s mission of producing plays that are generous in spirit and provoke identification. The plays are performed by high school students from across the tri-state area, as part of a free program which allows students an immersive experience in new play production. The plays are all designed and directed by theatre professionals, allowing the students a unique opportunity to work alongside some of the most talented emerging artists working in New York today. Playscripts, Inc. then publishes the plays, which have already garnered over 176 performances around the globe.

 New York, NY 10004
 T: 646-485-5123 | F: 347-487-3914
www.kidscreative.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Kids Creative is a nonprofit organization that offers arts-based, peace education programs for PreK to High School age students through after school programs, summer camps and workshops. Our mission: To foster confidence, creativity, conflict resolution skills and a strong sense of community in children through arts education. History: Since its inception in 1998 by brothers Stephen and Adam Jacobs of the Dirty Sock Funtime Band, Kids Creative has worked with thousands of students in grades PreK to 12 and produced over 100 original musicals.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Kids Creative brings incredibly unique after school classes, summer camps and workshops right to your school. During each of the classes we offer, kids use their imaginations to create original art, music, theater, dance and more, all the while learning essential skills in conflict resolution and peace building. We work with the school administration or parent association to help find the classes that fit your school needs. Kids Creative uses the arts and peace education to explore, educate and create. Our programs build confidence and community by engaging youth and adults in the collaborative creative process and offer tools, strategies and techniques for a range of topics from Conflict Resolution to Story-Telling. Kids Creative Workshops are rooted in our peace education philosophy where “all ideas are good” and culminate with a performance, sharing or take away.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Kupferberg Center for the Arts hosts a wide variety of cultural performances and events throughout the academic year, including music, jazz, play readings, dance, popular entertainment and family theater, literary readings, films and visual art exhibitions, all open to the public. World class performing arts events take place in Colden Auditorium, Goldstein Theatre and the LeFrak Concert Hall. The Godwin-Ternbach Museum and the Queens College Art Center present free exhibitions, films and gallery talks on works drawn from the GTM's extensive collection and by contemporary artists. The Aaron Copland School of Music and the Department of Drama, Theatre and Dance host annual events including, opera, musical theatre, drama, chamber music and dance recitals. Evening Readings presents monthly readings by major literary figures and award-winning authors. The Louis Armstrong House Museum, located in Corona, Queens, is a landmark historic house museum that offers tours and jazz programming.

Arts Education Programming Description:

REVELATIONS: ARTS EDUCATION FOR YOUNG PEOPLE (Grades K-8) is an arts exposure series designed to reflect the diverse ethnic backgrounds of audience members, stimulate their interest in the arts, educate them about various art disciplines, provide connections to the curriculum, and involve them through hands-on activities and audience participation. The hour-long concerts range from world music, dance, storytelling and puppetry, to musical theater, science shows and acrobatics. Curriculum-based Student and Teacher Guides meet New York City and State Learning Standards and benchmarks. Post-concert workshops on stage give children the opportunity to work with the performers. Title I schools may apply for free seats; call Box Office for details.

THE JAZZ PROJECT is an 8-week, in-school residency for jazz bands and choruses (Grades 6-12) designed to strengthen performance skills and increase knowledge and appreciation of jazz. Working in small ensembles, Teaching Artists lead clinics that are tailored to the needs and abilities of students, through our specially developed curriculum that meets DOE benchmarks. Clinic topics include Jazz and Blues History, Latin Music, Rhythm, Improvisation, and Jazz and Blues History. The residency concludes with a sharing concert at Colden Auditorium, Queens College, with renowned faculty from the College's Aaron Copland School of Music, performing for, critiquing, and jamming with the students in a relaxed, non-competitive setting. A free outreach concert for the entire school is included. Fee for 8 weeks is $1,500.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

LaMicro Theater's mission is to produce high quality Spanish, Latin American and American Latino Theater in English and Bilingual productions. We want to expose our audiences to emerging playwrights whose work explore new ideas which we will in turn use to generate dialogue concerning the realities faced by our diverse communities.

LaMicro is committed to presenting the work of under-produced playwrights and experiment with new media technology, as well as, work with contemporary artists to attract non-traditional audiences, including spectators who might never have been to the theater. LaMicro Theater was founded in the spring of 2003 by three Chilean born artists and a Mexican American college professor who met while doing "Hechos Consumados" (Finished from the Start), by Chilean playwright Juan Radriagan.

Arts Education Programming Description:

LaMicro has launched its Educational Program. In this program, LaMicro offers Dance and Theater classes to children from first to twelfth grade. The Educational Program began in 2009 at the Sunnyside Public Library offering free Dance and Theater classes to children from the ages of six to ten. In these workshops children not only learn artistic skills, but develop and strengthen social skills. These workshops usually finish with a public presentation in which the community is invited to participate.

LaMicro Theater's Educational Program offers a flexible interdisciplinary curriculum in Dance and Drama taught by professional bilingual (English/Spanish) teaching artists. These services provide a unique artistic experience with a life long impact in which students develop creativity, imagination and an authentic voice that helps them improve in the areas of self-esteem, critical thinking, team work, cultural awareness, positive communication skills and academic performance.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Laugh It Out was created by the Comedy Hall of Fame Foundation, as a way to harness the power of comedy to engage students in the classroom. Laugh It Out programs bring professional actors to a variety of school settings where they use improv techniques to teach real world communication skills, increase confidence and build a more cohesive community within the school.

Arts Education Programming Description:

For Students:

Improv Classes: Professional, specially trained actors use writing exercises, improv drills and scene work to teach communication skills in middle and high school classrooms. Students work in teams to build listening, public speaking, and collaboration skills in a judgment-free zone; gaining confidence and building connections to the school community. Classes culminate in performance.

Assembly and workshops: Professional actors perform an interactive show at your school. Students choose the themes, characters and locations to create a unique performance. After the show, students break into groups to participate in Improv games that build trust and community.

For Teachers:

Professional actors lead your faculty and staff in team building Improv exercises designed to build connections, provide problem solving strategies and provide classroom management techniques to reinforce community within the class.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The mission of Literally Alive is to ignite children's imagination while instilling a love of reading by bringing literature to life. Our approach combines art forms including theatre, dance, music, art, and puppetry to explore a work of literature. Literally Alive encourages children to become expressive, open-minded, creative and to see the arts as a central part of life.

Arts Education Programming Description:

We are committed to engaging children in the arts, which develops their imagination and instills the mental flexibility necessary to utilize creative, problem solving in their adult life. High-quality theatrical productions which offer engaging costumes and sets, as well as performances by talented professional actors, reach across the footlights and welcome the child in.

New York, NY 10023

T: 212-239-9190 | F: 212-239-9160

E: julia@lyricny.org

www.lyricny.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Since its debut in 1998, the Lyric Chamber Music Society of New York (the Lyric) performs chamber music and unusual repertoire in an intimate salon setting — as it was intended to be heard.

With eight public concerts each season, we service 1500 highly educated music lovers in the tri-state area.

The unique Lyric experience offers our audience up-close and intimate access to Concert Masters and Principal Players from the leading international orchestras interpreting masterpieces of chamber music. The Lyric's programming combines classic chamber works and rarely performed compositions mixed with contemporary pieces. "CHAMZZ: Classics for the 21st Century" is a recent Lyric innovation with programs combining classical music and jazz. The Lyric gives young talent the opportunity to perform with eminent musicians in front of a New York audience, to be reviewed by the national press and to be broadcast on National Public Radio.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Rather than viewing students as passive consumers of the arts, The Lyric encourages students to become active collaborators, inquisitive and capable of self-expression. They learn to listen and learn from each other, to work and create together, using the process of creative inquiry as a spring board for the development of higher level thinking as well as interpersonal skills.

Our artists teach as well as perform for students, providing historical and stylistic context to the artwork the students are making themselves. Students are invited to respond to what they hear and see performed and to build upon these experiences when they explore their own creative processes.

The Lyric Chamber Music Society of New York's arts education programs are specifically designed to link to New York State Learning Standards and to advance the strands of the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts. Our teaching artists, who are all professional musicians and/or actors, talk about their experiences in their field, serve as role models, and encourage students to engage in the making and appreciation of the arts.

Media. Arts. Education.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 2004 by documentary filmmaker and Executive Director Nelle Stokes, Magic Box Productions is an award-winning nonprofit that provides exemplary media arts workshops that help students bridge the digital divide. We provide rich experiences for all ages, especially younger and beginning language learners, and are well known for our dedication to customizing each residency for the needs of participating schools. Magic Box teaching artists come into the classroom to help students create photography, video, animation, audio, and web-based projects while building critical 21st century skills.

The heart of our vision is to develop visual and digital literacy from a crucial early age. Through our residencies, students gain skills in technology, problem solving and teamwork. Magic Box workshops also foster creativity and enhance academic success, harnessing the power of media arts and technology to heighten students' engagement, ultimately making them more active learners.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Partnering with schools in the New York City area, we have provided more than 10,000 students, teachers, and parents with opportunities for creative expression, community and cultural connections, and access to new technologies. In a variety of hands-on media arts workshops, student participants have explored their lives and community, chronicled school and community events, and told their own original stories.

All our residencies are designed to accommodate a particular school's needs. Students have created multi-media presentations combining animation, dance, and poetry; videos documenting their science experiments; photo exhibitions reflecting their families and surroundings; and much more.

(between First and Second Avenues)
New York, NY 10017
T: 212-573-8791 | F: 212-818-1926
www.makingbookssing.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Making Books Sing promotes children's literacy, creativity and social development through arts-in-education programs and professional theatre productions. Originally the family theatre and education program of the Tony Award-winning Vineyard Theatre, Making Books Sing is now an independent nonprofit that inspires children to grow as literate, creative and socially aware individuals. Since 2001, Making Books Sing's education programs have taken place in more than 250 elementary and middle schools across the New York tri-state area, serving nearly 50,000 students.

Making Books Sing uses theatre, playwriting and songwriting to foster literacy development in children. In our residencies, teaching artists take students through the process of writing original plays and musicals, all based on books! Our curriculum meets the NYCDOE Theatre Blueprint Benchmarks as well as the English Language Arts standards.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Making Book Sing's programs promote literacy and social development through theatre and songwriting. During our residencies, students work with expert teaching artists in adapting class-chosen books into original plays or musicals.

Alice's Story and Sticks and Stones, two interactive theatre performances, explore the serious issue of bullying, while our Musical Improv Troupe features professional actors who use improvisation and comedy to create original musicals that explore literary themes/genres.

Our programs meet the Common Core Learning Standards for ELA & Literacy and the Theatre Blueprint Benchmarks. Programs can be tailored to serve students with special needs and English Language Learners.

www.manhattangraphicscenter.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Manhattan Graphics Center (MGC), founded in 1986 by 20 printmakers, provides an accessible environment for the learning and practice of fine art printmaking. Today, MGC serves 200 members and MGC's cooperative workshop is still managed by volunteer artist members who staff and maintain the facility 7 days a week, year-round. MGC offers professional facilities at a reasonable cost, and an environment where artists can work and learn together. Classes in the basic disciplines, along with shorter workshops in adjunct techniques, are an integral part of the mission. In addition, MGC reaches out to the broader community through its collaborative high school printmaking classes, offered both at the MGC studio and on-site in high school art classrooms.

Arts Education Programming Description:

MGC has received grant funding to provide—at no cost to the schools—classes to introduce high school students to basic printmaking techniques. One class is offered after-school hours in MGC's studio and introduces students to etching. Other classes are now brought to collaborating high school art classes, and have introduced such techniques as dry point, paper lithography, and silk screen. MGC has a portable press that we bring to the school for these classes. In addition, MGC schedules field trips to art venues, including the NY Public Library print collection and MGC's own gallery space. For art teachers and other artists interested in developing or renewing printmaking skills, MGC offers long and short classes in many techniques (financial assistance is available).

 T: 212-977-1070 | F: 212-977-1069
 E: contact@mnmp.org
<http://mnmp.org>

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Manhattan New Music Project (MNMP) seeks to cross traditional musical boundaries and catalyze imaginative projects involving the creation of new work through performances, collaborations and educational activities. Our arts-in-education programs emphasize skills-based, hands-on learning and are custom designed to engage students and educators in the creative process.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Foster Original, Student-Created Work

Students who participate in our residencies compose their own music, choreograph dances, and write theatrical scenes. They improvise, build instruments, and invent dramatic characters. Many residencies culminate with performances and multimedia presentations of student work for peers, family, and community.

Curriculum Integration

MNMP designs arts programs to link with academic curricula in such areas as English Language Arts, Social Studies, Math, and Science. Our arts programs can support conflict resolution, anti-bullying, and peer mediation initiatives. Additionally, MNMP works extensively with English Language Learners, and has adapted programs to serve this population.

Students with Special Needs

Through five multi-year grants from the U.S. Department of Education (three in partnership with District 75), MNMP has created educational models for students with learning disabilities, emotional and behavioral disabilities, mental retardation, multiple disabilities, and autism spectrum disorders. We recognize that the arts provide a unique entry point for learning; this can be particularly effective for students with special needs, who many struggle with more conventional academic strategies.

Professional Development

MNMP offers short-term and long-term professional development workshops that feature hands-on arts activities for both classroom teachers and arts specialists. Aligned with New York State Learning Standards as well as the New York City Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts, our most successful model provides teacher workshops followed by in-class mentoring in a collaborative co-teaching environment.

Parents and Community Involvement

MNMP values community-building through the arts. Through workshops and performances, MNMP's educational programs offer parents opportunities to engage in the arts alongside their children. Working with school administrators and parent coordinators, we can design programs that meet the needs of the school and the local community.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

(MSP) Manhattan Shakespeare Project – Manhattan’s All-Female Shakespeare Company’s dual mission is to: 1. Facilitate the Growth of the Female Artist; and 2. Make Shakespeare Financially and Physically Accessible to All Communities

MSP’s overarching goal is to use the female voice to create cultural empathy through the offering of theatrical encounters that highlight personal and social issues. Through the integration of performance and education MSP uses Shakespeare as an educational tool to reach diverse communities, especially those marginalized due to socio-economic status or geographic location. We believe theatre can change the world by changing individuals, creating an “empathetic civilization.”

Arts Education Programming Description:

Thanks to LMCC Creative Curricula currently working with Manhattan School for Career Development, Problem Solving with the Bard: Shakespeare in the Special Education Classroom, MSP has produced 4 summers of FREE Shakespeare in the Parks & a FREE Shakespeare Educational Tour to NYC public schools. Using all-female casts means nuances in the text are brought to light that have never been seen or heard before creating a unique platform for community involvement and discussion. MSP has also produced an Emerging Female Voices Playwrights’ Fest & a New Works Project featuring a new NYC female playwright. We use Shakespeare to engage communities worldwide. Our international outreach projects are focused on building bridges between culturally diverse communities and empowering artists and non-artists to create non-violent means of imagining a world beyond fear. In October 2013 Shakespeare For A New World: The Palestinian Voice worked with artists in Palestine and Jerusalem.

E: jkaiser1@mfta.nyc.gov

www.mfta.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Materials for the Arts (MFTA), a program of NYC Department of Cultural Affairs, provides New York City's public schools with free art and office supplies. Materials are gathered from companies and individuals that no longer need them and redistributed from a warehouse in Long Island City, Queens. Not only do MFTA materials save schools money, they help the environment. Every year the program removes hundreds of tons from New York City's waste stream, keeping useful materials out of landfills and promoting the arts in education.

Arts Education Programming Description:

MFTA's array of educational programming for both students and teachers focuses on environmental sustainability and integrating art-making into teaching the common core standards. Teachers consult with MFTA educators to develop field trips related to classroom topics. Each trip includes a facility tour and studio time when students work with a teaching artist to create an art project to take home. Professional development offerings, both one-time workshops and multi-session courses for "P" In-Service credit, teach educators ways to integrate materials from MFTA into their classroom practice. MFTA's residency program sends teaching artists into schools to lead art-making assemblies and to push-in to classrooms for art-based lessons developed in collaboration with teachers and school administrators. For more information on educational programming or to arrange a visit to obtain supplies, please contact our Education Director.

Students come from around the world to study at the Graham School, the only school primarily focused upon teaching the Martha Graham Technique and repertory.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Arts Education Program of the Martha Graham School of Contemporary Dance uses the legacy of Martha Graham to support creative exploration and intellectual growth for all ages. Martha Graham, widely regarded as the leading seminal figure in modern dance, had one of the longest and most productive lifetimes in the theatre. The admirable qualities that made Graham one of America's most venerated artists are particularly appealing to today's youth. The Martha Graham legacy gives us the resources to create innovative programs that integrate her philosophy and technique into the academic world. Martha Graham's ballets were inspired by a wide variety of sources, including modern painting, literature, the American frontier, religious ceremonies of Native Americans, and Greek mythology. While dance is at the heart of each program, students learn much more than its physical skills. They also learn respect for the body, appreciation of art, the importance of collaboration, use movement to advance their academic studies, and acquire discipline that will naturally spill into other areas of life.

All programs are grade specific and incorporate the New York State Learning Standards as well as the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in Dance.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Guided by the vision of founding Artistic Directors, Robert LuPone and Bernard Telsey, and Co-Artistic Director William Cantler, MCC Theater brings together exceptional theater artists to produce works that force us to reexamine the world we live in through the unique perspectives of extraordinary writers. MCC Theater is dedicated to discovering and developing challenging, engrossing theater to present on our main stage, while simultaneously nurturing the development of emerging young voices through our literary and education programs. MCC Theater draws from among the finest actors and actresses in the world, casting them in roles that challenge performers and audiences alike. By providing a safe environment to explore compelling stories, MCC encourages artists to take risks – continually stretching their boundaries and working beyond expectations.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Classroom Partnership Program pairs professional teaching artists with high school teachers to develop effective methods of reaching curriculum objectives by way of theater-based lessons. The MCC Theater Youth Company—a free after-school program for students interested in writing and acting—helps young people to find and express their unique voices through the creation and performance of original theater pieces. All students also attend mainstage productions at MCC Theater. Before these performances, students, teachers and teaching artists, through specially designed lessons, discuss the dramatic devices students will encounter. A question-and-answer session follows.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Action Center to End World Hunger is an interactive, multi-media, educational space in downtown New York City. Our space provides rich educational experiences for students of all ages to learn about the root causes of hunger and poverty around the world and what they can do to take action. The center offers workshops, service learning partnerships, and after school programs for K-12 students on topics including: hunger, poverty, climate change, conflict, government, human rights and more. Our mission is to empower youth to take action on global and local issues of hunger and poverty.

The Action Center is part of Mercy Corps and International Non Governmental Organization that works in nearly forty countries to alleviate poverty and oppression by helping people build, secure and just communities. Mercy Corps focuses on sustainable development, innovations and global engagement. The Action Center, which opened in 2008, is the newest initiative of the global engagement division.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

After 20 years of welding experience and 6 years owning a business providing custom metal work, I wanted to pass on my vast knowledge of working with metal. A little over a year ago, Metal Shop Fantasy Camp was thus born, and we have since taught over 300 people how to weld. These classes are designed to fulfill the innate desire we all have to make things by hand, from scratch. Exploring the fun of working with new tools, and to experience the unique satisfaction that I have enjoyed over the years fabricating metal into functional objects and astounding works of art.

Arts Education Programming Description:

In first learning how to build a 6' x 6' steel cube, students learn all the basics of welding such as cutting, preparing, welding, grinding and finishing their cube. In the process of making their cube, students gain lifelong skills, not only in metalworking, but build confidence as well.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Metropolitan Opera and the Metropolitan Opera Guild are committed to providing high-quality, accessible opera and advancing its role in arts education. Through vital programs in schools and communities, we enrich the lives of children and educators both inside and outside the classroom.

We support each school's effort to develop its own capacity to deliver arts instruction. Teachers receive professional development, tools and resources for supporting student learning, and one-on-one coaching from Guild Artists. Inquiry-based teaching strategies, documentation, and explicit connections to curriculum standards are emphasized.

All of our programs are customized to individual needs and instructional goals. We can involve all students in a whole-school initiative, or target particular grade levels or subjects.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Students Compose Opera

- Using the elements of opera - libretto writing, music composition, theatrical staging - students compose and present music dramas based on source material drawn from classroom curriculum.

Urban Voices: A Choral Music Initiative

- Students develop music literacy, text comprehension, performance, and listening skills by singing choral repertoire from different cultures, genres and time periods.

Access Opera

- Engage students with the unforgettable experience of watching a live performance on the Met stage, and enhance their learning with our tools and resources for drawing connections to classroom curriculum.

Opera Learning Network

- This year-long professional development program helps teachers build the knowledge and skills to incorporate opera-based learning (text analysis, libretto writing, music composition, theatrical staging) into on-going instruction.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Michael Mao Dance is a critically acclaimed New York based modern dance company with an international corps of accomplished dancers. Passionate, yet meticulously crafted, Mao's work is infused with a visceral, elemental power. His dances fill the stage with compelling images and enthrall audiences with their emotional immediacy. Rooted in the traditions of American modern dance, Mao's works are graced with the formal considerations of classical ballet and reveal the choreographer's Asian heritage in their spare yet expansive choreographic means.

Dances by Michael Mao have been performed worldwide. Commissions include original works for the Hong Kong Ballet, Café de la Danse, Paris, Festival Internacional Cervantín, Mexico, and the Tennessee Children's Dance Ensemble. He has created over 50 works for his company that have been presented in New York City at the Joyce, Dance Theater Workshop, Kaye Playhouse, City Center Danspace, Symphony Space, Riverside Theatre, Madison Square Garden and at Purchase College. Michael Mao Dance has toured in Europe, throughout the continental US and Mexico, and to the major cities of China.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Michael Mao Dance arts learning and outreach programs include the 45-minute interactive performance Multicultural Fusion, the ESLdance: Learning English Through Dance project that enhances the English speaking skills of immigrants and ESL students through the study of modern dance, and the Multicultural Dancemaking residency which emphasizes the multicultural roots of American Modern Dance and the art of making dances.

www.moreart.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

More Art is a federal 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization dedicated to producing meaningful and engaging works of public art in New York City. More Art garners the power of public art to encourage social change and bridge the gaps existing between underserved communities and the general public in New York City. We make art accessible to all by fostering artistic collaborations between contemporary artists and local community members and locating all our projects in freely accessible public spaces. We support artists in their creative endeavors and provide a public platform of expression for underserved communities to express themselves through art.

Arts Education Programming Description:

In the age of modern communication and social media, what does it mean to produce socially engaged art? What does it take to turn a drive and passion for change into work that is both prestigious and relatable to a wide audience? Guided by a team of highly regarded New York contemporary artists and arts professionals, More Art's 'Arts Ambassadors' will explore these themes through the lens of public art. Through the conceptualization and artistic production to curation and exhibition of their own public art project proposals, Arts Ambassadors will themselves become actively engaged between the public art sector and the larger community of creative youth.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

In 1924 J. P. Morgan, Jr. gave his father’s extraordinary library to the public. The most influential financier in this country’s history, Pierpont Morgan was also a voracious collector. He bought on an astonishing scale, collecting art objects in virtually every medium, including the rare books, manuscripts, drawings, prints, and ancient artifacts that are the core of The Morgan Library & Museum’s holdings.

The mission of The Morgan Library & Museum is to preserve, build, study, present, and interpret a collection of extraordinary quality, in order to stimulate enjoyment, excite the imagination, advance learning, and nurture creativity.

The Morgan houses one of the world’s foremost collections of manuscripts, rare books, music, drawings, and ancient and other works of art. These holdings comprise a unique and dynamic record of civilization, as well as an incomparable repository of ideas and of the creative process.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Morgan’s architectural complex and world-renowned literary and art collections have much to contribute to K–12 social studies, visual arts, language arts, and a number of scientific disciplines. Exploring with the Morgan, the Morgan’s school program in the arts and humanities, complements the school curriculum by engaging students in the direct observation of primary sources. It also offers a unique hands-on experience of rare objects from the collection and unusual art material. The program’s focus on multiculturalism complies with New York State Standards—mandated Dimensions of Learning in the Social Studies and The Common Core State Standards, and makes the Morgan learning experience culturally relevant to a vast number of students of non-Western backgrounds.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Guests are able to take guided tours of the magnificent, newly restored Eldridge Street Synagogue. Through the story of the 1887 National Historic Landmark, visitors can explore architecture and historic preservation, immerse themselves in the history and culture of the Jewish immigrant community of the Lower East Side, and draw parallels between the diverse cultural communities that have settled in America. Our tours, exhibits, public and educational programs share the experience of the generations that carried religious and communal customs to a new country and celebrate America's broad cultural traditions.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Eldridge Street Synagogue provides an unparalleled setting for students of all backgrounds to learn about immigration, architecture and historic preservation and Jewish life. The Museum's location, where Chinatown meets the old Jewish Lower East Side, encourages students to explore how New York City's diverse newcomers have creatively adapted their traditions and culture in America. All programs comply with the New York State Learning Standards and are available for students in grades K-12.

museum of arts and design

The Museum of Arts & Design collects, displays, and interprets objects that document contemporary and historic innovation in craft, art, and design. In its exhibitions and educational programs, the Museum celebrates the creative process through which materials are crafted into works that enhance contemporary life. MAD's distinguished permanent collection includes objects by renowned artists and designers from around the world, representing many forms of creative expression and technical mastery.

Arts Education Programming Description:

MADlab: Based on New York State Learning Standards, our programs for K-12 students and teachers are designed to help achieve the requirements outlined in the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts. All of our programs link the arts to subjects across the curriculum and specific units of study in your classroom and deliver on the arts learning benchmarks: Arts Making, Literacy in the Visual Arts and Making Connections.

MADlab Tour and Workshop Program is a 90-minute program for students that includes a Museum tour and standards-based 3-D mixed media workshop. The workshops explore three-dimensional art-making in conjunction with current issues, creating an environment of inquiry, art-making, and critical thinking.

MADlab In-School Residency is a three-session program that includes classroom workshops prior to and following your trip to the Museum, delivered by our professional Artist Educators and tailored to the individual needs of your class.

MADlab Teacher Training Institute offers numerous professional development opportunities throughout the year, including: teacher orientations, staff development tours, and summer sessions. Our training programs are designed so that K-12 educators in all subjects can discover creative ways of interpreting and presenting fundamental curriculum concepts using art and design as a bridge for comprehension.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Museum of the City of New York celebrates and interprets the city, educating the public about its distinctive character, especially its heritage of diversity, opportunity, and perpetual transformation. Founded in 1923 as a private, nonprofit corporation, the Museum connects the past, present, and future of New York City. It serves the people of New York and visitors from around the world through exhibitions, school and public programs, publications, and collections.

Arts Education Programming Description:

School Groups:

The Frederick A.O. Schwarz Children's Center at the Museum of the City of New York offers innovative, hands-on programs that fulfill the New York State Standards for Social Studies, serving tens of thousands of students and teachers each year through School Programs; Summer, After-School, and Weekend Programs; and Professional Development. School programs are led by Museum Educators and focus on enduring themes in New York City history providing curriculum related content. Every program includes a hands-on activity. Teachers choose from the following field trips: From Wampum to Windmills; The Grid: Urban Planning in New York City; Getting Around: How Transportation Shaped the City; Mannahatta; Feeding the City: From Marketplace to Green Carts; Walking New Amsterdam; and New York City Bridges.

Professional Development:

Educators are invited to attend professional development events throughout the year to bring New York City's history to life. During content-rich lectures and workshops, participants learn about the past, present, and future of New York City while engaged in discussions with historians and other experts. The Museum also offers open houses, exhibition tours, gallery talks, and off-site walking tours.

(at 110th St)

New York, NY 10029

T: 212-444-9795 | F: 212-722-0219

www.africanart.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Museum for African Art collects, exhibits, and preserves art that is as dynamic and diverse as the continent of Africa. Since its founding almost thirty years ago, the Museum has maintained the highest commitment to presenting both traditional and contemporary African art. It has organized more than 70 exhibitions – many of which have traveled to major venues internationally, and produced engaging publications of the highest scholarly merit, illuminating varied aspects of Africa's rich artistic traditions and cultures. The Museum, a major center for learning, dialogue, and the appreciation of African, African American, Afro-Latino, and Afro-Caribbean arts and cultures, is currently expanding its agenda of exhibitions and educational offerings as it prepares to move into its new home on Fifth Avenue at 110th Street, in Manhattan.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Museum's educational programs are led by teaching artists, who are experienced art educators as well as practicing professional artists, using their own art practice to inform their teaching. Most artists are from African and African Diaspora communities. Participating students learn about African-based arts and cultural traditions while gaining basic skills in visual and/or performing arts, consistent with the NYC Blueprint for the Arts and connections to the New York State Common Core in Social Studies and English Language Arts.

The Museum for African Art provides workshops, in-school or after-school residencies, and cultural assembly programming led by teaching artists. These single or multi-session programs create an experience tailored for your students' needs and abilities. Costs range minimally from $150 per artist, per session with a minimum registration of two workshops. Fee costs for visual art workshop materials are an additional cost.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

National Dance Institute (NDI) was founded in 1976 by former New York City Ballet principal dancer Jacques d'Amboise in the belief that the arts have a unique power to engage children and to motivate them toward excellence.

Arts Education Programming Description:

National Dance Institute programs are exuberant, athletic, intellectually engaging – and unlike any other programs of their kind. NDI's unique pedagogy powerfully combines dance with music, theatre, and visual arts. Classes are held during the school day, and all children on the chosen grade participate. Each NDI class is led by a Master Teacher/Choreographer, an Assistant Teacher, and a Musician/Accompanist.

Schools and families take great pride in the extraordinary excellence their children achieve in NDI, and teaching artists develop relationships with principals and classroom teachers that deeply root NDI's programs in a school's culture and curriculum. NDI programs are designed for all children including those with physical and cognitive challenges, blind and deaf children, and English language learners.

Two & Three-Week Residencies

Children receive intensive, high-energy dance classes every day for two to three weeks culminating in a final performance for the entire school community.

Year-Long Partnerships

Year-Long Partnerships include weekly dance classes, a lecture/demonstration of student learning at mid-year, and a culminating end-of-year performance.

Professional Development

NDI offers workshops for classroom teachers in process pedagogy, arts integration, collaborative curriculum design, and arts learning for students with special needs.

Additional Programs

NDI's Center for Learning & The Arts houses ongoing professional development & teacher training workshops, workshops for schools, after-school and community education classes, and scholarship programs for NYC children.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The New Victory Theater is New York City's first and only full-time performing arts theater for kids, families, students and teachers. Opened in 1995, The New Victory presents a 10-month season of adventurous multidisciplinary works from both national and international. The New Victory Theater seeks sophisticated, thought-provoking professional productions that are as artistically rich as they are entertaining. Intrinsic to the New Victory mission is that its performance season and education programs combine to create a unique artistic and learning experience that complements student development by using the performing arts as an educational resource. New Victory stage presentations inspire students to explore their imaginations and the world around them; many of these students experience their first ever, live performance in The New Victory Theater.

Arts Education Programming Description:

As New York City's first and only full-time theater dedicated to young people, the New Victory is committed to creating ever-widening avenues of opportunity for young people, their families and teachers to grow professionally and personally through the arts. The New Victory Education Partnership Program fosters ongoing and collaborative relationships between the education community and The New Victory Theater. Through school-time and after-school performances at the theater, in-classroom workshops, New Victory SCHOOL TOOL Resource Guides, and professional development for teachers, students and educators alike are encouraged to interact with the performing arts both in the theater and in their own classrooms.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Arts Flamenco was formed in 1983 to preserve the traditions of Flamenco, while also evolving it as an art form for now and the future. Through education and performance, Arts Flamenco's mission is to foster an intelligent appreciation for the art of Flamenco. This vision aspires to promote Flamenco and its Andalusian culture. Arts Flamenco is a tax-exempt §501(c)(3) organization which relies on sponsors, individual donations, and class and performance revenue to further its mission.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Arts Flamenco promotes the Spanish art of Flamenco in all three of its forms: cante (song), baile (the dance), and guitarra (guitar playing). It also educates the public about the historical and cultural influences that shaped the form's development. An ongoing program of lectures, demonstrations, live performances and dance workshops through which participants learn aspects of flamenco technique is also offered.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

George Balanchine and Lincoln Kirstein formed New York City Ballet in 1948 with the goal of producing and performing a new ballet repertory that would reimagine the principles of classical dance.

Under the leadership of Ballet Master in Chief Peter Martins, the Company remains dedicated to their vision as it pursues two primary objectives: to preserve the ballets, dance aesthetic, and standards of excellence created and established by its founders; and to develop new work that draws on the creative talents of contemporary choreographers and composers, and speaks to the time in which it is made. This mission is accompanied by a commitment to expand the Company's audience and make ballet accessible to the widest possible public through touring, education programs, the creative use of media, and other outreach efforts.

Arts Education Programming Description:

In New York City Ballet's in-school residency programs, students and educators learn how ballet is an accessible art form relevant to their daily lives. Aligned with the Common Core Learning Standards and the New York City Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in Dance, these programs promote student-centered, experiential, and interdisciplinary approaches to learning, and each is facilitated by professional dance educators. Ballet Tales, for grades 1-2, promotes dancemaking and literacy; The Nutcracker Project, for grades 3-4, is an interdisciplinary program that allows students to foster artistic expression through the lens of The Nutcracker; Project Ballet, for grades 3-5, invites students to learn about inspiration as a vehicle for creating art. All school residency programs offer students the opportunity to see a live NYCB student matinee performance at Lincoln Center.

Mission and History/Organization Description

The mission of the New York City Center Education Department is to connect New York City students, teachers, parents and local communities with the excellence and artistry on our mainstage. We believe that dance and theater can make a strong contribution to learning in the arts.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Each year City Center reaches nearly 7,000 students from NYC public and private schools, kindergarten to grade 12, through dance and musical theater performances and in-school performance workshops. In-depth residencies engage young people in building technical and expressive skills, personal voice, and collaborative spirit. Residencies culminate with student showcases of works-in-progress in the schools and at City Center’s studios. Master classes and open rehearsals are offered to mature dance students. Innovative workshops are crafted for families, seniors, and other special groups that express an interest in collaborating with City Center. City Center’s education programs address the New York City Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts, the New York State Standards in the Arts, English Language Arts and Social Studies, and the Common Core Standards.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Imaginative, adventurous, and accessible, New York City Opera was founded with the purpose of making great opera available to a modern, wide-reaching audience. For more than sixty years, since Mayor Fiorello La Guardia established its reputation as "The People's Opera," the company has stayed true to its original promise: introducing generation after generation of young singers who are stars in the making, bringing the public exciting new works and compelling, fresh interpretations of classics, acting as a champion for American composers and performers, and ensuring that today's opera, and tomorrow's, can be a part of every New Yorker's life.

Arts Education Programming Description:

New York City Opera's Educational Programming delivers one of the greatest classroom experiences in New York to the city's children. As a pioneer in the field, we know firsthand both the immediate and the long-term benefits that students reap from involvement with high-quality art. Not only can students expand their cultural awareness, but they can also find a meaningful outlet for their creativity and develop a deeper understanding of their own lives and of the world around them.

Drawing upon the company's adventurous and contemporary approach to opera, NYC Opera Education provides students with a three-dimensional introduction to the art form, transporting them from the page to the stage and then taking them behind the scenes. Students meet NYC Opera Teaching Artists and other theater professionals in the classroom, then go behind the scenes to see how productions work before watching everything unfold during NYC Opera's world-class performances.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 1804, the New-York Historical Society is the oldest museum in New York and the second oldest in the nation. It includes the new and unique DiMenna Children’s History Museum dedicated to New York and American History as seen through the eyes and lives of children of the past. The New-York Historical Society is dedicated to fostering research, presenting history and art exhibitions, and public programs that reveal the dynamism of history and its influence on the world of today. Its art holdings comprise more than 1.6 million works, including a world-class collection of Hudson River School paintings; iconic genre and history paintings; a vast range of American portraits; all 435 of John James Audubon’s extant preparatory watercolors for Birds of America; and an encyclopedic collection of more than 800 works documenting the full range of representational sculpture in America from the colonial period to the present day.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The New-York Historical Society offers a full range of museum-based and school-based programs for students and teachers, grades PreK-12. All are aligned with the New York State Learning Standards for Social Studies and for the Arts as well as the Common Core State Standards for History and Literacy. Our programs are inquiry-based and interactive, building learning through examination of primary sources including historic objects, artifacts, paintings, sculpture, photographs, documents and maps. Through our American Musicals Project, teachers are given tools to connect important eras and events in American history to masterworks in American musical theater. Through our Art of History mini-residencies students engage in the study of New York and American history, art history and art making. Our schoolwide social studies enrichment programs span the school year, impacting every class, every month, deepening student learning and modeling inquiry-based instruction for teachers.

225 Broadway, Suite 2610
 (b/w Barclay and Vesey)
 New York, NY 10007
 T: 646-459-4298
www.gkids.com

Mission and History/Organization Description:

New York International Children's Film Festival, the largest and most prestigious film festival for children and teens in North America, is dedicated to inspiring, entertaining and educating through innovative film programs. Since 1997 the festival has been committed to increasing arts exposure for NYC youth, promoting cultural understanding and empathy, and expanding media literacy through engagement with the highest quality film programming that expands the traditional boundaries of style, genre, and subject matter.

NYICFF has since expanded into a four week festival with events occurring annually throughout the month of March. NYICFF is an Academy Award-qualifying festival, one of only two children's film festivals in the country, to hold that honor which speaks both to the quality of NYICFF's program and to its dedication to promoting emerging filmmakers.

Arts Education Programming Description:

One of NYICFF's core missions is to ensure that our audience reflects the diverse cultural and economic make-up of the city at large. In pursuit of that goal, NYICFF operates the Film-Ed program, which makes the full range of festival services and activities available to all of New York City's children through two distinct programs.

Film-Ed Field Trip programs offer the complete festival experience, including filmmaker Q&As and audience voting, at no cost. Pre and Post-visit discussion guides developed by NYICFF's Education Director are provided to support in-class curriculum. Film Camps take place throughout the year for students aged 6-16 and allow them to work with professional filmmakers to create a collaborative film from conception to completion that is premiered at the annual festival.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The New York Pops is the largest independent pops orchestra in the United States, and the only professional symphonic orchestra in New York City specializing in popular music. Led by Music Director Steven Reineke, the orchestra performs an annual subscription series and birthday gala at Carnegie Hall, enjoying one of the highest subscription renewal rates of any series at Carnegie Hall. The New York Pops was founded by former NBC Music Director Skitch Henderson in 1983 with a mission to create greater public awareness and appreciation of America's rich musical heritage. Along with performing at Carnegie Hall, The New York Pops tours throughout the world and gives free concerts in New York City parks through its Summermusic program. The orchestra's media projects include performing music for the Macy's 4th of July Fireworks Spectacular on NBC since 2004, nationwide radio broadcasts, and numerous recordings. The New York Pops' extensive education programs allow thousands of public schoolchildren to participate in concert and music-making experiences at Carnegie Hall and in schools throughout the five boroughs of New York City.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The New York Pops' far-reaching education programs allow public school children to participate in numerous concert and music-making experiences: Salute To Music offers free instrumental lessons to more than one hundred New York City junior-high school students each year; Kids in the Balcony provides hundreds of free tickets to children to attend all of The New York Pops concerts at Carnegie Hall; other education programs such as Create a Symphony and Rhythm, Rhyme & Rap teach skills such as composition, instrument building, percussion performance, and literacy.

E: info@nytb.org

www.nytb.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

New York Theatre Ballet provides an intimate environment for the performance, study, and appreciation of classical and contemporary dance, with a commitment to cultural enrichment and enjoyment for all.

New York Theatre Ballet was founded in 1978 by its artistic director, Diana Byer. NYTB has earned national acclaim for its restoration and revival of small masterworks by great choreographers and for its innovative hour-long ballets based on children's literature.

NYTB tours family and adult programs both nationally and abroad. Its audiences know the Company for its theatrical expressiveness, high production quality, and intimate accessibility to every audience member.

For more than 30 years, NYTB has produced, for adult and family audiences, dozens of classic masterpieces and contemporary ballets. Its roster includes dances by Frederick Ashton, Merce Cunningham, Agnes de Mille, José Limón and Antony Tudor. In April and December 2010, NYTB appeared with The New York Pops at Carnegie Hall to sold out houses. NYTB has been invited to perform at dance venues such as Jacob's Pillow, Kaatsbaan, and New York's City Center.

Arts Education Programming Description:

NYTB's Once Upon A Ballet series provides entertaining storybook ballets meticulously rendered in miniature. Our traditional Nutcracker and Cinderella classics, as well as new works such as Sleeping Beauty are only one hour in length – perfectly suited to the attention span of our youngest audience members, yet sophisticated enough for the most discerning adult.

New York Theatre Ballet productions are complemented by lecture-demonstrations, question-and-answer sessions, and participatory workshops. Ballets include “The Alice In Wonderland Follies,” “Mother Goose!,” “Cinderella,” “Carnival of the Animals” and “The Nutcracker.”

 E: dblampman@noblemaritime.org www.noblemaritime.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Noble Maritime Collection is a maritime museum and study center housed in a National Historic Landmark at Snug Harbor Cultural Center. John A. Noble (1913-1983) is a maritime artist who chronicled the last chapter in the centuries-old Age of Sail. The museum features Noble's work along with New York Harbor history, particularly the history of Sailors' Snug Harbor, the first charitable institution of its kind in the United States. The mission of the Noble Maritime Collection is to preserve and interpret Noble's art, writings, and historical maritime artifacts; to continue his legacy of celebrating the people and traditions of the working waterfront of New York Harbor; to preserve and interpret the history of Sailors' Snug Harbor in its collections, exhibitions and programs; and to operate a maritime study center inspired by John A. Noble and the mariners of Sailors' Snug Harbor.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Our educational mission is to preserve and pass on to future generations the unique maritime history of New York Harbor. Children study the history of vessels on the harbor and the people who traveled in them. We believe that it is critical to teach children their place in the history of the Harbor and the importance of being a steward of that history. When children are excited about the past, they get excited about the future, and they take greater care of their communities and their environment. Through the use of art, drama, music, and literature, the Age of Sail, the Age of Steam, the Age of Diesel and future ages of alternative power, such as solar and wind, come alive.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Learning to play a string instrument is a wonderful activity that opens up a whole new world for children. Since 1995, The Noel Pointer Foundation was established as a not-for-profit corporation to create, manage and grow string music programs throughout the New York metropolitan area. Since our inception, we have served over 10,000 New York City public school students. Our mission is to dramatically enrich our children's musical, cultural and academic experience, infusing them with a positive sense of who they are and a boundless sense of what they can become.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Noel Pointer Foundation has in-curricular and in foundation programs available year-round where we instruct students in music education using violin, viola, cello and classical guitar. Students will learn and develop proficiency in string technique, site-reading, solfege, ear-training, music history and music theory. The Noel Pointer Foundation also assists students with their audition preparation.

Notes in Motion Outreach Dance Theatre

77 Bleecker Street #318
(at Broadway)

New York, NY 10012

T: 212-995-9446 | F: 212-995-9446

www.notesinmotion.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Notes in Motion Outreach Dance Theatre offers in-school programs that teach dance technique, choreography, improvisation, yoga, and arts appreciation to students in the NYC Public Schools. United by our singular approach to arts education, The Movement Exchange Method, students take on leadership roles in their own learning, have creative input in the design of the curriculum, participate in critical discussions of the work of their peers, and develop collaborative skills. Programs foster self-discovery, risk-taking, and making connections between different topics, themes, and areas of learning. We aim to provide access to the art form of dance to inspire the next generation of dance appreciators. Since 2000, Notes in Motion has brought arts programs to over 10,000 students. We are a vendor of the NYC Dept. of Education and all programs reflect the learning standards as outlined in the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Notes in Motion Programs target age-appropriate learning objectives, and follow a five-part structure:

1. Warm-up – Students learn technical skills through progressive exercises.
2. Exploration/Improvisation – Students physically explore class theme through guided activities.
3. Choreography – Students develop original movement phrases, create group dances, or learn set choreography.
4. Performance Prep – Students prepare for culminating performance event.
5. Reflection – Students process their learning through observation, analysis, & constructive criticism.

We work collaboratively with classroom teachers at every stage from program planning, implementation, performance/community sharing, assessment, and evaluation. Our Teaching Artists guide students through a unique creative process, creating connections with other academic subjects and fostering active learning -- students are creators, improvisors, and collaborators.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

NURTUREart Non-Profit Inc. is dedicated to nurturing contemporary art by providing exhibition opportunities and resources for emerging artists, curators, and local public school students. The unique synergy between NURTUREart's programs generates a collaborative environment for artistic experimentation. This framework, along with other far-reaching programming, cultivates a supportive artistic network and enriches the local and larger cultural communities. Founded in 1997 by George Robinson to realize his vision of a non-profit dedicated to supporting artists, NURTUREart is now located in Bushwick, Brooklyn, the heart of emerging art in New York City. NURTUREart has four main areas of programming, Exhibitions, Registry of Artists and Curators, MuseFuse monthly lecture series, and Education Outreach.

Arts Education Programming Description:

NURTUREart is dedicated to nurturing and enriching the next generation with its unique arts programs that connect practicing professional artists and curators with teachers and students. NURTUREart's Education Outreach Program not only exposes students to contemporary art and possible future careers, but also teaches life skills such as responsibility, communication, teamwork, confidence, and critical thinking to underserved Brooklyn youth.

NURTUREart currently has partnerships with four public schools, working with students grade 2-12. We work with schools to design a unique program that fits the specific needs and goals of their student population. We offer everything from in-school artist residencies, to one time gallery visits.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

NY ARTISTS UNLIMITED, founded in 1982, is dedicated to taking professional theatre to under-served audiences. The company focuses on works that evoke dignity of the individual and sanctity of the human spirit. A multicultural nonprofit touring company, we travel self-contained to New York's inner city neighborhoods as well as to remote regions of the Northeast in order to create an appreciation and understanding of the arts through performances, discussions and workshops. Workshops with artist-teachers are offered in Creative Dramatics, Improvisation & Comedy, Poetry Writing & Performing, Broadway/Jazz Dance, and more.

Arts Education Programming Description:

"Black Gold - the Passion of Aleijadinho" is based on the life of Antonio Francisco Lisboa (1738-1814), Baroque sculptor of Brazil. Written & directed by Melba LaRose, it is the story of a man born a slave and freed at birth, who went on to become the Michelangelo of his country. His life parallels the development of Brazil in arts, religion and politics, reaching for independence and its own identity. The play contains music & dance (European classical mixed with African & indigenous tribal), mask work, shadow work, poetry and video projections. (Grades 6-12) "Isaiah's Dream - a Parade of Poets" -- a Harlem boy is visited by poets from around the world and throughout time (e.g., Rabindranath Tagore, Maya Angelou, Langston Hughes, Wu Men, Pablo Neruda), who help him find his own voice in a poem about Martin Luther King. (Grades 3-12) Performing Arts Workshops are also offered, taught by such company luminaries as Richard Pryor Jr. (all ages)

Opening Act, Inc

PO Box 20179
Greeley Sq Station
New York , NY 10001
T: 857-891-8739

www.openingactnewyork.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Opening Act's free, year-long, after-school theater programs provide students attending NYC's most under-served public schools the opportunity to gain confidence, pride, and the knowledge that they can succeed at anything in life.

Opening Act was founded in 2000 to address a clear need for teens attending some of the most under-served public high schools in New York City to feel a greater sense of empowerment and purpose in life. Our founders were actors and educators who knew they could offer students more opportunities – through theater – to build self-esteem, develop leadership and communication skills, and gain a sense of community.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Our flagship program is the full-year After-School Theater Program in which high school students grades 9-12 make a voluntary commitment to follow strict attendance policies to attend the 30 weekly 2-hour sessions. Each program serves approximately 25 students, led by teams of 2-3 teaching artists including one lead teacher who has had at least one full year of training and in-classroom experience with Opening Act. The culmination of the program is an original production, created and performed by the students in professional theaters for an enthusiastic audience that is always well-attended by our students' family members, friends and the extended family of Opening Act supporters.

Participants will engage in an intense physical fitness program allowing them to understand, improve and maintain their life long fitness. Step team members will learn the history of step and utilize the mechanics of a step program to participate in focused fundraisers. The instructor will encourage the team to adopt a cause and through research, team development, and performances, will raise funds to promote change.

Creative Communication is a 5-30 week intensive creative writing elective, aligned with the NYS ELA standards, which provides students with a forum to practice and understand the power of words.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Orchestra of St. Luke's presents classical music concerts and community programming to audiences in New York City and beyond, including free educational concerts and school partnerships for thousands of public school children every year.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Orchestra of St. Luke's Arts Education comprises a broad arts exposure initiative through free concerts of music and dance with access to companion study guides and recordings; in-depth classroom partnerships meeting city and state curriculum standards for the arts; community activities that involve parents and extended families of classroom partners; and custom-tailored applied music programs.

A roster of New York City's most versatile musicians performs the free educational concerts each year, as a full orchestra, large chamber ensemble with live dancers, and in small chamber groups. In-depth classroom curricula are brought to life by OSL's professional teaching artists who specialize in elementary education and the arts, and collaborate with classroom teachers and school administrators.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Since 2001, PACT has delivered arts educational and professional development programs in dance, music, theatre, visual arts and parent workshops city-wide. Services are specifically created to the values, needs and budget of the school/community. All programs address the Learning Standards and incorporate the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning In the Arts.

Arts Education Programming Description:

We first plan with the Principal: what type of program, what is the grade level, what is the curriculum, what is the budget and what needs are to be addressed. We then provide professional development on the discipline(s), then develop/implement sequential workshops which scaffold into a final presentation or exhibition. Partnering with an outside cultural organization is designed into the course work. Our greatest attempts are to harvest supplies through MFA (Materials for the Arts) and use the concept "Recycle, reuse, rethink" for cross curricular and earth friendly awareness.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Paley Center for Media, with locations in New York and Los Angeles, leads the discussion about the cultural, creative, and social significance of television, radio, and emerging platforms for the professional community and media-interested public. Drawing upon its curatorial expertise, an international collection, and close relationships with the leaders of the media community, the Paley Center examines the intersections between media and society. The Paley Center has an international collection of nearly 150,000 programs covering almost 100 years of television and radio history, including news, public affairs programs and documentaries, performing arts programs, children's programming, sports, comedy and variety shows, and commercial advertising. Previously known as The Museum of Television & Radio, the Paley Center was founded in 1975 by William S. Paley, a pioneering innovator in the industry.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Using programs from the collection as a means of illustration and investigation, Paley Center Educators lead sessions on a wide range of subjects such as advertising, the documentary form, and the civil rights movement. Discussion-based classes are ninety minutes in length. They seek to build analytical thinking, viewing, and listening skills and attempt to provide insight into the roles television and radio play in our culture. Supporting educational materials for classroom use are available for most classes.

The Paper Bag Players

185 East Broadway
 (b/w Rutgers and Jefferson Streets)
 New York, NY 10002
 T: 212-353-2332

www.thepaperbagplayers.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Paper Bag Players are a 56 year-old company of adults who perform theater for children ages 3-8. Our shows are a collection of hilarious short plays, sing-alongable songs, memorable characters, and loads of audience participation, with costumes, props, and sets made out of brown paper and cardboard. Our shows are meant to reflect the everyday lives of our young audiences, their relationships, humor, and the way they play.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Student Workshops, The Art & Fun Of The Paper Bag Players are led by PBP Teaching Artists, during the school day or in after-school programs. Children become a “Paper Bag Player for the Day”, engaging in movement, storytelling, and improvisation, as well as creating sets, props, and costumes. Teachers can witness the PBP approach, tools, and techniques to enhance their curriculum, utilizing low cost, readily available, highly malleable, expressive paper. Our 8-week program allows for in-depth exploration of each area and culminates with a fully staged performance of the play for family, friends and community. Single 90-minute workshops are process-oriented, giving children the opportunity to fully explore working with paper in art, movement and dramatic play. In these workshops, as in our performances children are empowered to participate, connect and create, developing essential creative, cognitive, and social skills that are fundamentally important to a child’s early education.

E: info@pscnyc.org

www.pscny.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Peoples' Symphony Concerts mission is to serve the citizens of the New York area who are on a limited income by presenting classical music performances of the highest caliber with affordable ticket prices. Today, we offer a set of six-concert series tickets on Saturday evenings for as little as $32, or approximately $5.33 per ticket and a Sunday afternoon series for as little as $37 or $6.33 per concert, allowing students, families and others the opportunity to hear amazing concerts for less than half the cost of a movie. It is the generosity of the performing artists who play for a fraction of their normal fees that helps Peoples' Symphony Concerts offer world-class concerts in two halls with some of the finest acoustics in New York City - Town Hall and the historic Washington Irving High School.

The Peoples' Symphony Concerts series was founded in 1900 by the conductor Franz Arens, with the purpose of bringing the best music to students and workers for minimum prices. That winter, more than 7,000 people jammed into the old hall at Cooper Union to hear Mr. Arens, the son of an immigrant farmer, conduct his series of five Peoples' Symphony Concerts. Subscriptions for the five concerts ranged from $0.25 to $1.25 and single tickets went for as little as $0.10 each. A conducting student in Europe who had been too poor to attend many concerts in his youth, Arens returned to New York determined to find a way to bring music to students, teachers, workers, and others unable to pay normal ticket prices. Since those early years, hundreds of thousands of Peoples' Symphony Concerts audience members have heard the world's foremost concert artists and ensembles at the lowest admission prices of any major series in the country.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The goal of Peoples' Symphony Concerts is to make classical music readily available to those who would normally be unable to afford concert tickets.

Pilobolus is a modern performance company, founded in 1971, that to this day wears its revolutionary stripes on its sleeves. In keeping with its fundamental collective creative process, Pilobolus Dance Theatre now curates and convenes groups of diverse artists—including the MIT Distributed Robotics Laboratory, Art Spiegelman, OK Go, Radiolab, and many others—to make inventive, athletic, witty, collaborative performance works on stage and screen using the human body as a medium for expression.

Pilobolus performs for stage, television, including Late Night with Conan O'Brien, Sesame Street, and CBS's 60 Minutes, and has performed in 64 countries and for online audiences worldwide.

Pilobolus has received several honors, including the Berlin Critic's Prize, a Primetime Emmy, and an American Dance Festival Award for lifetime achievement in choreography.

Arts Education Programming Description:

At Pilobolus we believe it is our particular way of working and playing together that has made us accessible to wide audiences, popular, globally renowned, financially sound, and culturally distinct. In a Pilobolus workshop, students explore the exact same methods of collective creativity that have formed the genetic code of our work and sustained our growth for over 40 years. We teach students to make art using their own individual ways of moving and use physical expression as a means to discover effective group creativity. Our workshops and residencies share the single goal of stimulating a group's understanding of its own creative potential. Our programs are accessible to all youth, and align with and incorporate the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in Dance and NYS Common Core Standards.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Redhawk Native American Arts Council is a not for profit organization founded and maintained by Native American artists and educators residing in the New York City area. Since 1994, the Council is dedicated to educating the general public about Native American heritage through song, dance, theater, works of art and other cultural forms of expression. The council represents artists from North, South, Central American, Caribbean and Polynesian Indigenous cultures.

Redhawk Council produces four of the largest heritage celebrations in the Northeast. The arts council also hosts festivals, workshops, theater presentations and educational programs, addressing stereotypes and fostering an awareness of Native cultures from a historical standpoint, with a focus on contemporary cultural practices.

Arts Education Programming Description:

From kindergarten to the university-level, Redhawk creates and presents educational programs in the tri-state area. Participants enjoy a unique opportunity to address prior notions they may have had about Native Peoples. As a result of our work with various educational institutions, we foster awareness about the need for an accurate curriculum, and provide economic opportunities for individual Native American artists and performers. We are also proud of our collaborative efforts with corporations and government organizations. A few companies that we work with include AT&T, Prudential Insurance, Verizon, J.P. Morgan Chase, Lucent Technologies, Viacom, the United States Postal Service, and others. We assist in providing cultural diversity programming to accurately represent contemporary Native Americans.

Reel Lives

136 Metropolitan Avenue, #4C
(between Berry Street and Wythe Avenue)

Brooklyn, NY 11249

T: 646-488-2991

www.reel-lives.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Reel Lives is a filmmaking education program for marginalized, refugee, immigrant and conflict-affected youth (14-21). Our mission is to support young people to have their own, authentic voices be heard, improve their livelihoods, recover from trauma, and to create professional grade documentaries, centered on their own stories, that can be used to educate and advocate around critical human rights issues.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Through professionally led training and workshops, Reel Lives participants develop a foundation of professional skills for employment in the media sector. All of our equipment is professional grade, so the skills that our graduates develop in cinematography, editing and audio recording, are industry standard. Additionally, we run advanced seminars with our community of program graduates to improve their skills. Through our job placement initiative, all our graduates have the opportunity to participate in paid media-making work as well as professional internships.

Each Reel Lives participant shoots and edits an individual, non-fiction narrative related to a personal human rights issue. Through the process of making these films, our youth are supported in engaging with their own lives in a unique way, and in experiencing the catharsis of an informal, but powerful, art therapy structure. It is not an overstatement to say that Reel Lives programming is uniquely transformative.

(between Lexington and Third Avenues)
New York, NY 10016
T: 212-225-9999 | F: 212-225-9085

www.repertorio.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Repertorio Español was founded in 1968 by producer emeritus Gilberto Zaldivar and Artistic Director Rene Buch to introduce the best of Latin American, Spanish and Hispanic American theatre in distinctive quality productions and to bring Spanish language theatre to a broad audience including seniors citizens, students and Hispanics of all national backgrounds. Repertorio Español received the 2011 OBIE Award for Lifetime Achievement, a 1996 Honorary Drama Desk Award for presenting quality theater, a 1996 OBIE Award for the play series VOCES NUEVAS (New Voices), The New York State Governor's Award, many citations by ACE (Association of Hispanic Theatre Critics) and HOLA (Hispanic Organization of Latin Actors), an ENCORE Award for Excellence in Arts Management and Theater Communication Group's Theater Practitioner Award for Messrs. Zaldivar and Buch's contributions to the development American theater.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Repertorio has been presenting school day matinees at 11am for school groups looking to augment their classroom teaching and learning. Works include plays by Lorca, adaptations of great Latin American literature and Hispanic American plays. We make theatre exciting, accessible and an enhancement to schools' curricula. Free downloadable study guides contain complete information on the plays and are available online. Every performance is given a live introduction and a post performance question and answer period. These brief but pertinent sections activate class discussion and writing prompts.

In-Class Residencies are given by Repertorio professional teaching artists, with previous experience working with New York City public school students. In partnership with teachers we create a series of sequential lessons designed to enhance classroom assignments and expand the creative and emotional expression of the students in accordance to the NYC Blueprints for Teaching and Learning in the Arts.

Residency Unlimited

360 Court Street, Unit #4

(at President Street)

Brooklyn, NY 11231

T: 718-541-1746

www.residencyunlimited.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Residency Unlimited (RU) is an artist-centered organization dedicated to producing customized residency formats and support the creation, presentation and dissemination of contemporary art through strategic partnerships with collaborating institutions. RU provides tailored support and services to emerging and mid-career artists and curators that includes enhanced networking opportunities, production and technical assistance, exhibition opportunities, on-line resources, art and public education programs. Operating across multiple platforms, RU is particularly committed to promoting multidisciplinary practices as well as building lasting connections between artists and the broader arts community from a local and international perspective.

Incorporated in June 2009, Residency Unlimited was approved in October 2011 as an official 501 (c)(3) nonprofit tax-exempt organization .

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Residency Unlimited (RU) arts education initiative brings artists' practices and knowledge into NYC schools and community centers through innovative programs and partnerships.

An example of this is 'Current Events in the Classroom: Responding Through Art,' a program that calls for an integration of the visual arts into the social studies curriculum of IS 187 in Brooklyn. The Spring 2012 program spanned 12 sessions taught by teaching artist-in-residency Erin Dunn to four 8th Grade classes within a Law course. It was made possible with funding from the Local Capacity Building Initiative, a regrant program of the Arts in Education Program of NYSCA, administered by BRIC Arts and the Brooklyn Arts Council. The program operated, and will continue to operate, in grey areas between school subjects, where current issues in the news become catalysts for artistic creation and contemporary art topics are simultaneously used to foster an in-depth discussion on current national and global events.

Retumba!

P.P. Box 7
Bronx, NY 10464
T: 718-885-2574 | F: 718-885-2577

www.retumba.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

iRetumba! (Resound!) brings vibrant interactive performances that are musically soulful and passionate as well as visually fascinating. iRetumba! performances bring the audience to their feet dancing. iRetumba! is a multi-ethnic all-female music and dance ensemble from New York City founded in March of 1981 in celebration of Women’s History month. Interweaving traditional rhythms, beautiful ancient melodies, with its very own unique interpretation, iRetumba! bases its work on the music and dance of Africa, Europe, and its expressions in the Americas and the Caribbean: Puerto Rico, Cuba, The Dominican Republic, Mexico and South America. iRetumba! demonstrates the similarities and links of our shared cultures. iRetumba! brings forth the drama and excitement of world culture and traditions into a feast of folkloric music that can be enjoyed by everyone.

Arts Education Programming Description:

iRetumba! was created for the purpose of educating the public through the arts, establishing a better intercultural understanding by producing and performing dance, music and theater activities for children and adults. iRetumba! serves a diverse audience and community by offering a variety of different programs, performances, lecture demonstrations and workshops for a varied age range from kindergarten to senior citizens. Committed to reaching a diverse and multi-cultural audience, iRetumba! seeks to preserve the folklore of a society, sustain links between generations, and promote pride in the history of ones culture in order to ensure that traditions will not be lost. The company places special emphasis on educating our youth through the arts toward the goal of increasing their self-esteem, artistic, scholastic and communication skills.

RIOULT DanceREACH

246 West 38th Street

New York, NY 10018

T: 212-398-5901 | F: 212-398-5902

www.prdance.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

RIOULT was founded in 1994 and fast became an established name in modern dance with a reputation for creating and presenting the sensual, articulate, and exquisitely musical works of Pascal Rioult. Born into the American modern dance tradition, RIOULT is creating its own legacy of contemporary dance that speaks to the mind as well as the heart of the global community. The company is based in New York City and presents an annual New York season and tours nationally and internationally. Education and community outreach have been integral to RIOULT since its inception. RIOULT's arts-in-education program DanceREACH offers an interactive approach to introducing students to the world of modern dance.

Arts Education Programming Description:

RIOULT DanceREACH primarily focuses on dance making, which is the first-strand of the New York City Department of Education's Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in Dance. Students attend a lecture/demonstration where the professional dancers from RIOULT introduce modern dance and perform a dance from their repertory. Students then participate in workshops, where they proficiently learn dance elements and collaboratively create and perform their own compositions, inspired by the dance they have seen. Throughout the residency, RIOULT DanceREACH incorporates the remaining strands of the Department of Education's Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in Dance. Dance literacy provides students with rich vocabulary when communicating, analyzing and identifying dance. Making connections to the historical, social and cultural significance of dance, introduces the students to applying dance concepts learned in the residency to the world in and outside the classroom. By viewing a live dance performance and learning from professional dancers, students are participating firsthand in working with community and cultural resources. Lastly, students explore careers and lifelong learning in dance, which teaches children to appreciate dance as a profession, helps them set and work towards goals, and allows students to value dance as an integral part of life and source of enjoyment.

New York, NY 10003

T: 212-674-9066 | F: 212-674-9068

www.rodrogersdance.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Rod Rodgers Dance Company came into existence in the 1960s when many artists were called upon to create works that reflected newly positive community consciousness. It began with founder Rod Rodgers' belief that dance images reflecting truths about human experience have the unique ability to touch people on a primal level of 'feeling identity'. The company's repertoire, featuring works created by the late Founding Director and Kim Grier Artistic Director, encompasses experimental works, celebrative jazz ballets, dance theater as dramatic social commentary, and an acclaimed signature series of contemporary Rhythmdances that is recognized as being unique in the modern dance field. Often featuring works inspired by the Black experience, but always with a multi-racial ensemble, we provide information and stimulate dialogues about our society and the contributions of landmark figures in American history, are central to the Rod Rodgers Dance Company mission.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Rod Rodgers Dance Company has developed over four decades of experience an Arts in Education program for K-12 students that promotes historical and cultural literacy with a variety of material from our thematic repertoire, signature series of contemporary Rhythmdances, Jazz Studies and uplifting tributes to Black Heroes of American History as well as language literacy through dance training terminology, vocabulary and descriptive words. We use dance as a mean to connect the Common Core curriculum from the NYC DOE & NYS Blueprints for Teaching and Learning in the Arts. Our program offers opportunities for students to participate in non-competitive rhythmic movement exercises inviting creativity that is extremely valuable in this digital age.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

RUBIN MUSEUM OF ART

The Rubin Museum of Art opened to the public in October 2004, and is a nonprofit cultural and educational institution dedicated to the art of the Himalayas. Its mission is to establish, present, preserve, and document a permanent collection that reflects the vitality, complexity, and historical significance of Himalayan art and to create exhibitions and programs designed to explore connections with other world cultures. The Education Department at the Rubin Museum of Art fosters a deeper experience with the art of the Himalayas through close observation, discovery, thinking, and emotion. We encourage visitors to consider the interplay between art and culture, and to make personal connections to visual art through meaningful interactions. Through our educational programs, events, and activities, visitors are encouraged to look deeply, think deeply, feel deeply, and connect globally.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Whether you schedule a guided tour for students, lead your own self-guided visit, participate in a professional development workshop for teachers, or collaborate with us on one of our extraordinary multi-session school programs, we can help you connect your students to the art and sacred traditions of China, India, Tibet, Nepal, and beyond. The museum's school programs can enhance any subject area, including visual arts, English language arts, global studies, world communities, comparative religions, mathematics, and an array of social studies topics, as well as 21st Century skills like creativity, critical thinking, and global competency.

The organization was founded in 1995 by brothers Danny, Russell and Joseph "Rev Run" Simmons.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Through Rush Gallery in the School, students have the opportunity to learn about contemporary art, interact with working artists and create work in a variety of media. Operating all aspects of their own Gallery, students learn about museum practices including how to measure and plan the use of the exhibition space; design and write an exhibition brochure; promote the exhibition within the school community; install works of art and act as museum docents, introducing their work to parents, teachers, fellow students, and friends.

Rush Kids, Teens and Toddlers is a year-round education program that immerses children and teens in the study and practice of contemporary art. This intensive art making program serves exceptionally talented visual arts students who were selected from our partnership schools and from the neighborhoods of Rush Galleries.

www.salvadori.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Using the urban landscape of buildings, tunnels, and bridges, the Salvadori Center introduces teachers to the wonder, beauty, and logic of architecture and engineering, who then share it with their students.

We provide professional development for teachers and project-based learning experiences for students to master the mathematics, science, art, language, social studies, and technology embedded in our built environment.

In 1976, Columbia University Professor Mario Salvadori (1907-1997) took up a challenge from the New York Academy of Sciences to improve the teaching of math and science in our middle schools.

He taught a course based on his book, Why Buildings Stand Up, at a Harlem middle school, engaging students in “real world” design and construction activities. His pupils were so responsive and their teachers and administrators so impressed that in 1987 he founded the Salvadori Educational Center on the Built Environment, now the Salvadori Center.

Arts Education Programming Description:

PROFESSIONAL DEVELOPMENT FOR EDUCATORS - Teacher education initiatives, from three-day Institutes to targeted workshops to focused preparation through our “Practical PD” program, helps educators develop project-based lesson plans specific to their curriculum.

THE GLOBE PROGRAM - GLOBE [Guided Learning through Our Built Environment], is an innovative 3-year residency in selected New York City public schools. It integrates Salvadori’s interdisciplinary project-based pedagogy through on-site lesson modeling, curriculum development, and teacher mentoring by Salvadori educators.

THE LEAD PROGRAM – With LEAD [Learning through Engineering, Architecture and Design], the Center offers shorter-term opportunities for public and private schools in the New York area: 8-session units on bridges, skyscrapers, my community, green design, and many other topics.

THE B.R.I.D.G.E.S. PROGRAM - [Build Research Invent Design Grow & Explore through Science] Real-world Projects give 8-12 year olds enrolled in New York City Housing Authority after-school programs fun and engaging experiences with science, engineering, mathematics, design, and technology. Funded by the National Science Foundation.

CHARRETTE - In June, as a culminating activity for Salvadori schools, 100 students participate in an all-day design challenge. Working with architects and engineers from leading firms, students conceive, design, build, and present models to their peers. Challenges range from creating an eco-village of tree houses to redesigning Times Square.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Scenarios USA is a national non-profit organization that uses writing and film to foster youth leadership, advocacy and self-expression in middle-school and high-school students. Scenarios USA films are written by teens, for teens and directed by some of Hollywood's finest filmmakers. Students love our workshops because they are centered around films and activities that reflect the issues shaping their lives. Teachers love our curricula because they encourage a high-level of student engagement and participation, while enhancing learning in the arts.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Scenarios USA offers nine rigorous arts education and media literacy workshops, taught by experienced teaching artists to students in grades 6-12. Each workshop is aligned with the NYC DOE's Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Moving Image and, like all of our REAL DEAL curricula, engages youth in critical analysis of their social context.

REAL DEAL Curriculum Training and Professional Development

Scenarios USA provides a wide range of customizable professional development workshops for teachers, such as training in our REAL DEAL curricula, which are proven to improve the educational and health outcomes of students from under-resourced communities. We also present workshops and webinars to educators about the sexual health and social justice issues in our films. Additionally, educators can purchase curricula and individual DVDs of our films.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded by opera singers with a desire to lift their voices for social change, Sing for Hope is a non-profit organization that mobilizes 1,000+ professional artists – from singers, to painters, to dancers – in volunteer service programs that bring the power of the arts to those who need it most. Sing for Hope's Art U! Youth Outreach program connects under-resourced youth with their potential to effect positive change through artistic expression. With a team of resident Teaching Artists and visiting Volunteer Artists, Art U! engages students in dynamic arts curricula, empowering young people to transform their lives and world through a broad range of artistic disciplines.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Art U! partners with schools and community-based organizations that focus on underserved constituencies, providing both in-school and out-of-school programming throughout the school year. Sing for Hope has developed a flexible curricular format in order to best meet the needs of the youth, schools, and partner organizations we serve with classes in dance, drama, creative writing, movement, and music. Each Art U! residency culminates in the students' creation of their own arts activist projects, which range from environmentalist beat poetry, to originally composed choral pieces on the theme of human freedom, to teleplays promoting recycling.

Art U! fosters a safe space for young people, equipping them with key tools for community-building and individual success. In the process of exploring and addressing important issues through the arts, students also learn valuable life skills including responsibility, teamwork, and accountability.

www.alitatheshow.com

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Our wish is to transmit what we experienced during the process of creation. That is: the happiness of sharing, the learning of valuing what is around us, the respect for our differences and our enrichment while fostering and seeing our mates grow. After all that is what makes us all shine and be unique.

These feelings of personal fulfilment acquired while walking this path, make us feel very happy. They have actually become our motor and objective.

With Alita the show, the intention of Freia Canals and Denise Kornitz (Solo2 Company) is to go back to their origins, honor the ingenuousness and somehow maintain the proximity to the audience. Therefore, counting on just a few basic essentials, her intention is to let the audience's imagination fly. With this particular story they go back to their childhood. They create a world of fantasy full of the innocence. Freia and Denise collect what they love the most from their experiences abroad and they make them coexist in harmony with the present ones. The fundamentals used in their first show are hand made by them: the adaptation of the script, scenography, costume design, musical direction and even the puppets. Being faithful to the ideals above mentioned, they did not want to use great technological resources. They decided to completely believe in their creative capability as well as the audience's imagination.

New York, NY 10003
T: 212-842-8170
E: glenton@soulpopu.org
www.soulpopu.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

It is Soul Pop U's mission to empower young people to affect global change beginning in their local communities, by utilizing holistic development and pre-professional programs in creative entrepreneurship. We bring this mission to life by connecting emerging artists in the entertainment business with middle and high school students in local communities, sponsoring them, and sending them into local middle and high schools where they introduce young people not only to the entertainment industry, but also to what it means to "go for the gold". Our artists present school assemblies and community presentations which combine performance, fireside style Q&A, arts education, and motivational speaking to inspire students to reach their full potential. What makes Soul Pop U so unique and successful to date is that we maintain mission-based relationships with artists. It is their back-stories, often their non-musical histories and accomplishments, that we find interesting, and the fresh musical perspectives they bring are the hook for both educators and students. We look to them to be role models first.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Our "Empower Your Soul to Pop!" program is a four-part series centered on cultivating passion and creative entrepreneurship amongst students. It is a dynamic fireside chat which not only engages and empowers students, but also uses fresh perspectives on the music industry to teach them three concepts crucial to their development as young leaders: (1) cultivating passion to achieve success with others; (2) cultivating passion to achieve one's "best self;" and (3) cultivating passion to fully take ownership of life. The series culminates with a live performance by one of our sponsored emerging artists that incorporates these teachings in a truly fun and inspiring manner.

Seaport Museum New York is an unconventional history museum that celebrates the extraordinary intersection of land and water that caused New York City to take root in lower Manhattan. The Museum's exhibit galleries, housed in restored landmark buildings, a 19th-century printshop and a fleet of historic ships, tell the ongoing story of New York City and its role as a social, economic, political and cultural leader.

Arts Education Programming Description:

School programs are designed to provide a unique perspective on New York City history and the importance of New York's seaport. School programs are offered dockside, in the Museum's galleries, in the seaport neighborhood and aboard the 1885 Schooner Pioneer. In each program, activities are designed to be age-appropriate and to align with curriculum standards. The Museum's programs are adaptable to all grade levels and learning styles.

www.henrychapin.com

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Culminations Group is an arts-in-education service provider based in Manhattan which provides services to schools, Parent-Teacher Organizations, and community organizations based around traditional American social dancing. We have called dances and provided live music to numbers of public and independent schools throughout the New York City area since 1989.

Arts Education Programming Description:

A Dance residency provides schools with traditional American social dance, culminating in a Family Dance for the entire school community. Caller/fiddler Henry Chapin leads classes of all levels in age-appropriate big circles, singing games, reels, and square dances. If there is an instrumental program, Henry will compliment that program by introducing repertoire and musical skills to play for dancing. Henry will also introduce the dances, and explain their social, historical and educational significance to the faculty and staff at a Professional Development session. A typical residency culminates in student dancers and instrumentalists, teachers and parents coming together for a Family Country Dance, augmented by members of Henry's Carnegie Hill Band.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Statement Arts is a not-for-profit organization dedicated to bringing the creative visual & performing arts to underserved and/or low-income individuals. We channel creativity to educate, to enhance intellectual performance, to empower and guide, and to build self-esteem. Statement Arts is committed to giving our students an intercultural and interdisciplinary arts experience to which they do not have access. Statement Arts believes in the power of art to inspire social, cultural, and environmental education to further a legacy of responsible global citizenship.

Arts Education Programming Description:

For two weeks in July, in partnership with The United Palace of Cultural Arts, Statement Arts will be running two free summer art programs. Our first program will provide children in grades 3-6 and 7-10 introductory classes in acting, singing and dance. In our second program, The College Prep Intensive, three teaching artists will lead rigorous classes in auditioning and performance techniques. These students will take part in master classes, private voice lessons, and interpretive coaching, culminating in a showcase performance. There will also be an essay-writing workshop that will focus on their college essays and applications. Both programs are community based and are free* of charge to the children.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Stella Adler Outreach Division provides free actor-training to inner-city youth. Outreach aims to empower young people through craft. This is achieved through three major initiatives: 1) Adler Youth, 2) Summer Shakespeare and 3) School Partnerships. Since 2004, over 2000 NYC youths have been served.

The Outreach Division helps fulfill the Studio's mission to create an environment that nurtures theater artists who value humanity as their first priority by diversifying the student body and creating an environment for all students to become actors like Stella Adler and those in the Group Theater – actors who are socially and consciously aware and whose awareness contributes to their ability to act passionately.

Arts Education Programming Description:

For High School Students:

Adler Youth: A one-year, after-school acting program with an optional second year. Classes meet twice a week from 4:30pm to 6:30pm. Each semester of training ends with a public performance. Two groups of 16 students selected every year in January and September.

Summer Shakespeare: A five-week summer training program that culminates with a public performance. Students will observe advanced classes and study Adler Technique, Voice & Speech and Movement for Actors; they will apply the skills learned to act in an abbreviated Shakespeare play. Two groups of 11 (twenty-two students total) will be selected to participate.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Since 1977, STUDIO IN A SCHOOL has enriched hundreds of thousands of children's lives with the creativity of the visual arts. STUDIO brings professional artists into public schools, daycare centers, and community-based organization in New York City to lead classes in drawing, printmaking, painting, collage, and sculpting. Our mission is to foster the creative and intellectual development of New York City youth through high-quality visual arts programs.

Arts Education Programming Description:

STUDIO programs are organized into four primary areas: Long Term, Early Childhood, Residency (formerly 'Special Programs'), and Special Initiatives. These programs reach a broad age range of children in diverse settings. All programs are based on deeply collaborative partnerships with teachers, administrators, parents, and students. STUDIO's programs are structured to meet city and state standards, as outlined in the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Visual Arts. The Blueprint sets performance standards for arts experiences and benchmarks for achievement at elementary and secondary levels.

The Residency Program is a 14-week program which serves all grades. Workshops introduce students to new art media and techniques, while promoting expressive and imaginative skills. STUDIO's artists plan collaboratively with each school to support the creative, intellectual, and emotional growth of its students. This program is also designed to develop teachers, as well as serve students, through professional development. Each residency culminates with a school-wide exhibition and celebration where parents and the school community join in to celebrate children's creativity and connect classroom learning to an experience that families can share together.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Studio Museum in Harlem is the nexus for artists of African descent locally, nationally and internationally and for work that has been inspired and influenced by black culture. It is a site for the dynamic exchange of ideas about art and society.

Since opening in a rented loft at Fifth Avenue and 125th Street in 1968, The Studio Museum in Harlem has earned recognition for its catalytic role in promoting the works of artists of African descent. The Museum's Artist-in-Residence program has supported nearly 100 graduates who have gone on to establish highly-regarded careers, including Chakaia Booker, David Hammons, Kerry James Marshall, Julie Mehretu, Wangechi Mutu, Mickalene Thomas and Kehinde Wiley.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Target Free Sundays

Target Free Sundays at the Studio Museum ensures that the Museum is accessible to all. Thanks to the generous support of Target, Museum admission is free every Sunday. Target Free Sundays reflects a shared commitment to engage the community and offer a vital cultural experience to all.

School Partnerships

We partner with a number of Harlem and New York City Schools to offer learning experiences that reaches beyond a one-time visit. School Programs and resources include Pre-visit and Post-visit Materials for Schools, Multi-session Collaborations with Schools, Interactive Tours and Hands-on Art-making Workshops for Classes, In-classroom Visits, and Museum Passes (for students and educators).

Group Tours

Guided tours are available for all exhibitions to ensure that individuals with a range of abilities can experience the Museum. Tours tailored to visitors with physical or developmental challenges can also be arranged.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Symphony Space is a nationally recognized, two-theater performing arts center presenting an array of music, literature in performance, film, dance, theater, family, and education programs. Its mission is to foster artistically and culturally diverse arts programs that bring artists and audiences together in an atmosphere of exploration and intimacy. For more than 30 years, Symphony Space has brought cultures from around the world to children and adults through arts programs and performances in schools and in our theater.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Symphony Space's Global Arts: cultural literacy and heritage programs integrate the arts and humanities into the school curriculum. The programs offer the arts as primary sources rich in information about the people that created them. African, Asian, Native American, Latin American and Early American cultures are explored through a variety of artistic disciplines and presentation formats. Each program, whether a series or a single event, demonstrates through music, visual arts, dance, storytelling and drama that traditional, as well as contemporary, society is inextricably related to culture. In-class workshops, lecture-demonstrations, field trips, interactive performances, and teacher resources bring the social studies curriculum to life for your students and augment document-based inquiry. Global Arts field trips to Symphony Space, as well as after school enrichment programs, are available.

www.thetaignroup.com

Mission and History/Organization Description:

For more than 31 years, The TAI Group has been at the forefront of developing customized programs for businesses and individuals that:

- Foster meaningful collaboration
- Communicate more effectively with internal and external audiences
- Promote an environment in which creativity and innovation thrive
- Cultivate inspired leaders and high performing organizations

The TAI Group has a long history of serving the theatre community locally, regionally, and internationally. Here in New York, The TAI Group has offered acting technique classes, with such famous alumni as Ted Danson and Sigourney Weaver. The TAI Group has also provided all types of classes on the business of acting for film actors as well as actors on Broadway, Off-Broadway and Off-Off-Broadway. The TAI Group was the original producer of Acts & Actors, a one-act play festival which ran for six summers, from 1989 – 1994. The TAI Group showcases have won several OOB awards, and launched several long-running downtown shows, including Susan Bachner's Circles. The TAI Group still houses one of New York's longest running acting classes, Allen Schoer's Master Class, as well as The Creative Dynamic workshop, which supports and promotes actors in all phases of their careers.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The TAI Group has been an integral part of the Professional Performing Arts School (PPAS) since helping to found it in 1997. The TAI Group developed and delivers the core curricula for the theatre program. We hire and manage top-caliber teaching professionals to provide the best possible instruction to students. The TAI Group has a solid history in educational consulting. Since 1977, we have worked with students and educators in public and private schools from kindergarten to college level. The TAI Group delivers programs to schools and universities nationally and internationally.

Talking Drum Theatre Arts Program

233 West 135 Street

Suite 4A

New York, NY 10030

T: 646-281-2004

www.talkingdrumtheatre.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Talking Drum Theatre Arts Program is a social change, conflict resolution creative arts medium serving youth of all ages throughout NYC. The Talking Drum offers year-round educational arts enrichment addressing pervasive issues common to urban youth.

The vision for the Talking Drum arose as the founder began working with learning disabled and emotionally fragile children in the New York City Public Schools in 1996. After assessing areas of difficulty for urban youth, the program began to pursue collaborations with organizations that serve inner-city youth.

Since 2003, the Talking Drum has established relationships with countless schools, where customized arts programs called Individualized Program Plans (IPP) are developed with the support of program directors and guidance counselors, to allow for services that will provide children with the tools of empowerment so they may achieve their full potential.

Arts Education Programming Description:

The Talking Drum Theatre Arts Program provides an educational and enriching platform for young individuals to express themselves through the creative arts, which includes dance, drama, art, music, and spoken word. Whether incorporating one, two, or all expressive forms, students participate in weekly activities to explore conflict resolution strategies based on an identified theme (e.g. bullying/cyber-bullying, identity/self-esteem, cultural awareness/appreciation). Through the facilitation of highly-trained teaching artists, student-led scripts are developed and multi-sensory performances wrap each season, allowing children and youth to express their concerns, as well as desires for society.

The Talking Drum is a standards-based, rigorous program that meets the Curriculum Blueprint for the Arts, in addition to the Common Core Standards for English Language Arts.

www.twc.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Teachers & Writers Collaborative (T&W) seeks to educate the imagination by offering innovative creative writing programs for students and teachers, and by providing a variety of publications and resources to support learning through the literary arts.

Arts Education Programming Description:

T&W partners with New York City schools to provide writing programs and professional development designed to meet specific needs, including developing the writing skills and stamina of English language learners and other students with special learning needs. Most programs culminate in publication of an anthology of student writing and a celebration, such as a reading for the school community. T&W offers programs in a variety of genres, including essay, poetry, fiction, creative nonfiction, play-writing, and journalism. Professional development programs for teachers, typically in the form of two-or three hour workshops to support specific aspects of the teaching of writing or engaging a particular student population in the writing process. T&W PD programs emphasize hands-on interactive activities that engage teachers in writing while providing resources and models for use in the classroom.

Theater for a New Audience

154 Christopher Street, Suite 3D

New York, NY 10014

T: 212-229-2819

www.tfana.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 1979 by Jeffrey Horowitz, Theater for a New Audience's mission is to help develop and vitalize the performance and study of Shakespeare and classic drama. The company produces off-Broadway works and also tours nationally and internationally.

Arts Education Programming Description:

World Theater Project (grades 4-12): This program combines the experience of seeing a production of a classical play with opportunity for discussion before and after. Prior to attending the performance, students receive introductory lessons and materials that help them understand the play in its historical and social context. Post-performance activities focus on further study of the play and culminate in students re-creating and performing a scene of their choice.

New Voices (grades 9-12): This 12-week artist residency introduces students to the art of playwriting. Student-written plays come to theatrical life through readings staged by professional actors. Spanish- and English-speaking playwrights are available for residencies.

Brooklyn, NY 11218

T: 212-501-6920 | F: 718-788-6217

www.theatergarden.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Theater Garden, Ltd. produces original, curriculum-based plays and musicals that travel to schools, community centers and theaters. Theater Garden also provides in-school residencies where students develop literacy, team-building and art appreciation skills through participation in all aspects of theater production.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Theater Garden, Ltd. produces original, curriculum-based plays and musicals that travel to schools, community centers and theaters. Individual study guides are included with each production. Music is a component of all shows, and Theater Garden productions all travel with a complete sound and amplification system.

Theater Garden also provides in-school arts-in-education residencies developed to meet the needs of each school by our award-winning Education Director:

Working with professional actors and teaching artists, students participate in skill building theater games and creative writing exercises. They learn improvisation, teamwork, creative writing, communication and listening skills, poetry and playwriting, vocal projection, line memorization and performance skills. Students use these skills to work together to create and perform original plays based on their own ideas and experiences. Like Theater Garden's professional productions, student-written shows also deal with issues of history, cultural awareness and effecting social change.

Programs for Teachers

Staff development programs are also available for groups of up to 40 teachers/educators.

Topics include: "THEATER GAMES & CREATIVE WRITING EXPERIENCES FOR THE CLASSROOM", "BRINGING HISTORY TO LIFE WITH DRAMA ACTIVITIES" and "DESIGNING COMPREHENSIVE PERFORMING ARTS PROGRAMS". Participants will leave with a tool kit of theater-based games and activities which will enhance their ability to use theater in the classroom

E: TRYIncorp@AOL.com

www.TRYSITheatre.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Theatre Rehabilitation for Youth, founded in 1984, utilizes theatre arts to educate, enlighten and entertain. The company holds theater based workshops in schools and after school centers. Most workshops culminate in a performance. TRY develops touring productions to bring to schools on such topics as the prevention of bullying, drunk driving, bigotry, and on making appropriate life choices. It has produced videos on the prevention of sexual molestation to individuals with special needs and on safe driving. TRY is the recipient of many awards, including two Emmys.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Workshops conducted by theatre professionals support a host of curriculum requirements. Program content is determined in collaboration with the educator, the administration and the requirements and needs of the school or center. Workshops lead to improvements in reading, writing, speech, cooperation with others and self-confidence. TRY has much experience working with individuals with special needs.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

TheaterMoves has been providing Arts Education services to NYC schools since 1989. Their nationally recognized curriculum "The Art of Collaboration" helps students build self-discipline and teamwork, teaches them to write more effectively and establishes a collaborative spirit in the classroom. As official Theater Facilitators for the NYCDOE, their programs are congruent with the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in Theater.

Arts Education Programming Description:

How do theater activities enhance literacy? How does creating work in movement theater lead to attainment of higher level thinking skills? Nationally acclaimed movement artists Paul Rajeckas and Neil Intraub address these and other questions.

TheatreMoves provides a scaffolded curriculum based on age-appropriate acting, playmaking and directing benchmarks derived from the New York City Department of Education Blueprint for Learning. Students of all ages learn to work together physically and collaboratively as they create, write, analyze and interpret stories through ensemble stage performance. Students learn The Art of Collaboration: developing Concentration, Cooperation and Commitment.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Third Street Music School Settlement, the nation's oldest community music school, was founded in 1894 as part of the settlement movement of the mid-19th century in which young university graduates 'settled' in poor, immigrant communities to improve their quality of life. The mission of Third Street is to provide quality education in music and the arts, primarily to children of New York's Lower East Side, in an environment that nurtures achievement and creativity and offers to all who attend, regardless of artistic ability or economic circumstances, the opportunity to pursue their own personal development and enrich the quality of their lives.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Third Street provides instruction in music and dance to more than 5,000 students of all ages at its school on East 11th Street and through partnerships with 22 schools and community centers, located primarily in Lower Manhattan. Third Street partners with schools that strive to make music, dance or both an integral part of their students' lives. Mission and History/Organization Description:

Together in Dance was founded in 2000. The organization provides creative dance residencies, musical theater residencies, family dance workshops, professional development for classroom teachers and teaching artists, and after-school programming. Together in Dance serves thousands of students each year in New York City.

Through dance and musical theater, we empower individuals to use their creativity and work collaboratively to connect to the world around them. Together in Dance builds community among students, families, educators, and other professionals, who learn together so that the arts continue to be an integral part of their lives.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Together in Dance provides creative dance and musical theater residencies for grades PreK through 12. The residencies are tailored to meet the needs of each school TID works with. They can last from 10 weeks to year-long. The work integrates core subjects from the curriculum to heighten learning. Professional Development workshops are offered in conjunction with residencies and separately for classroom teachers, physical educators, or teaching artists. Together in Dance also provides family dance workshops in schools where the organization is working. These workshops are for children and their families and replicate dance experiences similar to what the students learn during the school day. Mission and History/Organization Description:

Built in 1921 by a group of suffragists, Town Hall began as a lecture hall and public forum for debates. Landmarked in 1979, it has become widely known for its music programs. Over the decades the stage has been graced by Eleanor Roosevelt, Billie Holiday, Sergei Rachmaninoff, Richard Strauss, Marian Anderson, Bob Dylan, Miles Davis, and Bruce Springsteen. Today the hall features performers in rock, pop, folk, cabaret, world music, comedy, and dance. Since the early 1990s it has also hosted live broadcasts of Garrison Keillor's Prairie Home Companion.

Arts Education Programming Description:

We support the social and academic development of students by providing high-quality Arts-in-Education programming in New York City public schools through our Educational Outreach Program. Town Hall teaching artists usher students through a myriad of exciting arts and stagecraft classes that capture their attention and incite their interest. Our standards-based programs utilizing the Blueprints for Teaching and Learning the Arts enhance the K-12 arts curriculum and strengthen core subjects (English, history, math, etc.) and can be utilized in interdisciplinary teaching.

We customize each curriculum to suit each school's needs. Students participate in hands-on, interactive arts activities that foster creative expression, self awareness, and discipline. We also offer many courses and paid summer internships for deserving adolescents that help students acquire marketable, vocational skills in the arts and other fields.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Trees New York, a 501(c)(3) nonprofit organization, was founded in 1976 as a volunteer response to city cutbacks in tree-related community services. Our mission is to plant, preserve and protect New York City's urban forest through education, active citizen participation and advocacy. For over three decades, TreesNY has been at the forefront of environmental advocacy in New York City.

Arts Education Programming Description:

TREES? WHO CARES?

School assemblies and visits with Mrs. Crabapple, the cantankerous puppet who hates trees. It takes some convincing, but with the help of the students, Mrs. Crabapple comes to understand how important trees are to us and our environment. Presented by our resident artist, Cheryl Blaylock, whose extensive credits include puppeteering on Sesame Street, Eureka's Castle and Blue's Room.

THE ART OF SCIENCE

A creative approach to lessons on the environment for elementary, middle and high school students. Students create original works of art such as writing and performing songs, dances or plays, drawing cartoons or creating art and sculpture to demonstrate their knowledge of trees and environmental issues.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Ukrainian Museum was founded in 1976 to preserve, display and interpret the cultural heritage of Ukrainians who have immigrated to and settled in the United States. The museum's history and art exhibits are supplemented by a wide range of public programs, including tours, lectures, concerts, and workshops.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Students can discover the forms and meanings of Ukrainian folk art by looking at and discussing a range of objects from the museum's permanent collection. Students will engage in hands-on activities inspired by these objects that explore time-honored techniques and utilize traditional motifs and symbols. Student can weave a textile, sculpt a decorative animal out of clay, design a plate using traditional floral and geometric motifs, and embroider a design onto fabric.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

UTA is a dynamic arts, educational and cultural organization with a rich history. Founded in 1967 by artist/teacher/philosopher Maurice Phillips, and a group of young artists, UTA pioneered as one of the first organizations of its kind to serve as a resource and platform for artists of color and the community from a multicultural perspective. Founding members include UTA's current Artistic/Executive Director, Sajda Musawwir Ladner; Sheila Rohan, a dancer, choreographer and original member of The Dance Theater of Harlem; and Andrea Phillips, a prominent visual artist. UTA has been providing an array of life enrichment programs to under-served Staten Islanders for over 45 years - our mission is to "quicken the creative spirit in the individual and community and foster brotherly love".

Arts Education Programming Description:

UTA works with professional artists to deliver an eclectic blend of fine and performing arts, cultural and educational programs. Our signature programs include sewing, drama, visual arts, instrumental music, vocal and dance instruction. UTA conducts one-time offerings, such as our music assemblies, as well as extended residencies. Our program model is anchored in collaboration with school administration and faculty, to effectively plan, execute and ensure the highest quality of service delivery, and meet the unique needs of each school's community. All residencies are skillfully designed to incorporate academic components, such as language arts, science and global studies, to enhance students' interest and performance in these core scholastic areas. UTA's programs provide hands-on, experiential and creative artistic outlets that uplift, enlighten, inspire and facilitate unique expanded learning and enrichment opportunities.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 1977 UrbanGlass promotes the use of glass as a medium for creative endeavor in art, craft and design; we are a leading resource for artists and the public to learn about glass as a creative medium. UrbanGlass offers studio rentals to artists; classes and workshops, to appeal to those interested in glass at every level; exhibitions, which showcase new art and design from around the world; and open houses, which bring the public into our studio to learn about the many facets of art made from glass.

Arts Education Programming Description:

UrbanGlass offers live glassmaking demonstrations in glassblowing, flameworking, fusing and other glass techniques for students to witness how this unique material is used for creative enterprise. Students will be surrounded by an active open studio setting in our 17,000 square foot studios in downtown Brooklyn, where they can observe and ask questions as a team of professional artists create a work in glass before their eyes. Each glassmaking demonstration is accompanied by a guide who will describe processes and field student questions. Students are also invited to ask questions directly of the artists at work. Students can also visit and discuss the work currently on view in UrbanGlass' gallery, devoted to the exhibition of work by emerging artists and the experimental ways that artists are utilizing glass.

www.VisualThinkingStrategies.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Visual Thinking Strategies (VTS) is a research-based educational curriculum and teaching method which enables students to develop aesthetic and language literacy and critical thinking skills, while giving teachers a powerful new technique they can utilize throughout their career. By using VTS, students learn to make meaning from the world around them, to gain confidence in their own ideas while respecting those of others, and to contribute to a thoughtful debate amongst a group of peers. VTS encourages participation and self-confidence, especially among students who struggle. VTS is easy to learn and offers a proven strategy for educators to meet current learning objectives.

Our mission is to foster cognitive growth through interaction with art, and to boost academic achievement in every school where VTS is implemented, facilitating systemic change in how students learn and how teachers teach.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Visual Understanding in Education offers a student-centered curriculum—the Visual Thinking Strategies (VTS)—to help develop aesthetic and critical thinking skills. Its multi-year curriculum consists of lesson plans, sequenced images and a Web site with training materials and exercises. VUE provides training programs for school teachers, some of which are designed to enable them to teach their peers. It publishes materials to support these trainings, including theoretical and practical guides.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

VITAL THEATRE COMPANY is a community of artists who believe that a shared theatrical experience profoundly affects people's lives. We create stories that challenge our audience to ask questions, make discoveries and engage in dialogue. If one adult is inspired, if one child's imagination is awakened, if one student is empowered, then we believe that our theatre is important and VITAL.

Founded in 1999, Vital Theatre Company is a non-profit theatre company. Vital Family Programming produces 3-5 new family musicals per year and Vital Voices; Arts in Education implements theatre arts integration models in schools throughout New York City. Recent shows include STINKYKIDS (Winner of Off Broadway Alliance Award for Best Family Programming 2012) and UNCLE PIRATE, as well as PINKALICIOUS, and ANGELINA BALLERINA, which have moved onto long The 2012-2013 Season will introduce family audiences to FANCY NANCY, SHOW WAY and THE TOOTH FAIRY TALE.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Vital Voices: Arts in Education is in its 14th year of bringing quality theatre programming into the public schools. Vital's programming fosters self-confidence, creative independence, and artistic growth by encouraging students to unearth their authentic voices. We teach practical, hands-on skills in the theatrical arts such as playwriting, producing, acting, design (set lighting, costume and sound), choreography, musical theatre and commedia. Our in-school and daytimel workshops are led by professional teaching artists and culminate in a final presentation. In FY 12, Our 1662 students at nine partner schools wrote 46 plays and performed, directed, designed or worked as crew for 32 productions. We served 80 teaching artists, 159 teachers and 3738 in combined audience. Long time partners include: PS 6, PS 166, PS 199, PS 452 and Fordham Arts High School for the Arts.

Vital Voices also offers 10 week-long performance camps for aspiring performers ages 4-6.

Waterfront Museum

290 Conover Street, Pier 45
 (at Beard & Conover Streets)
 Brooklyn, NY 11231
 T:/F: 718-624-4719

www.waterfrontmuseum.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

- Provide public access to Brooklyn's water highway for use and enjoyment by all.
- Provide free and low-cost opportunities for the arts & education.
- Showcase Red Hook and various waterfront other ports-of-call as cultural destinations.
- Provide a curriculum and maritime/environmental education program.
- Collaborate to discuss & identify creative solutions to community issues.

The Waterfront Museum, aboard Barge #79, has called Red Hook, Brooklyn its homeport since 1994. Barge #79 was rescued in 1985, where she had been made obsolete by major shifts in the shipping industry in the 1950's. Railroad companies maintained large fleets of barges to bring goods between terminals, across and along the Hudson River for consumer use, and for shipment overseas. A twenty-five year restoration project has returned this wooden covered treasure to her original condition. Hundreds of thousands have come aboard to participate in programs and events. Barge #79 will celebrate her 100th anniversary in 2014. Taking the show on the road, the Waterfront Museum & Showboat Barge tour the NY Harbor & the Hudson River regularly visiting town docks at Brooklyn Bridge Park, Manhattan's Hudson River Park, Piermont, Poughkeepsie, Cold Spring, Kingston, Hudson, and Waterford.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Vessels have proven to be a unique and powerful medium to inspire the teaching of a wide array of subjects including geography, history and science. Area schools and universities use the Museum's floating classroom and resources for study topics including oyster gardening, water quality studies, discussion of waterfront use and development issues, transportation and commerce history, and journalism/media projects. A PS 10 student i-movie now appears online at <http://www.waterfrontmuseum.org/publications.html>.

Free Boat Tours: Families and tourists visit year-round Saturdays 1–5 pm, Thursdays 4-8 pm and by appointment. Coming aboard, visitors step into another era and hear first-hand the rescue story of Barge #79. Exhibitions, artifacts and media documentaries can be viewed. Youth love the ever-popular audio-kinetic ball machine sculpture by George Rhoads.

Waterwell

145 West 45th Street, 7th Floor
 New York, NY 10036
 T: 516-302-7197

www.waterwell.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 2002 by Arian Moayed and Tom Ridgely, Waterwell has been nominated for three IT Awards, a Drama Desk, a New York Magazine Culture Award and a Village Voice Best of NYC. Waterwell strives to create new theatre that entertains and enlightens. The company seeks to prove itself a vital presence in the lives of its audience by remaining always responsive: responsive to the events affecting the world at large, responsive to changing modes of expression and responsive to the individuals attending the performance. Waterwell endeavors to cultivate the inherent danger in live performance to create an exciting and unpredictable event – an event pruned down to its irreducible elements: human being sharing a space and a story. Through that story ... through the humor, sadness and hope it evokes ... Waterwell hopes to empower its audience to change their lives and the world in which they live.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Since 2003, Waterwell has also offered structured classes in collaborative playmaking, or 'devising', the process by which the ensemble develops its material. By 2010 those educational activities had grown and coalesced into the Waterwell Drama Program, which now delivers – in partnership with the Professional Performing Arts School (PPAS) – top-quality, year-round, in-school theater training to over 500 NYC public school students. The program addresses the student-artist holistically and demands they develop both as an interpreter and as a creator. Voice and movement work connect with scene study and devising; classroom learning supports rehearsal and performance projects; and everything is designed to be in dialog with what's going on outside the classroom – in their homes, communities and the world at large.

 (between Independence and Sycamore Avenue)
 Bronx, NY 10471
 T: 718-549-3200 | F: 718-884-0096
www.wavehill.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Wave Hill is a 28-acre public garden and cultural center in the Bronx overlooking the Hudson River and Palisades. Its mission is to celebrate the artistry and legacy of its gardens and landscapes, to preserve its magnificent views, and to explore human connections to the natural world through programs in horticulture, education and the arts. Wave Hill House was built as a country home in 1843 by jurist William Lewis Morris. Theodore Roosevelt's family rented Wave Hill during the summers of 1870 and '71, when the future president was a youth of 12 and 13. Teddy's time here significantly deepened his love of nature and love of the outdoors that would later prompt him to secure the preservation of millions of acres of American parkland. Other famous residents of Wave Hill House have included Mark Twain (1901-1903), Arturo Toscanini (1942-1945) and chief members of the British Delegation to the United Nations (1950-1956). Today, as one of 34 New York City-owned cultural institutions, Wave Hill's mission is to celebrate the artistry and legacy of its gardens and landscapes, to preserve its magnificent views, and to explore human connections to the natural world through programs in horticulture, education and the arts.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Young children, teenagers and teachers experience nature first-hand through Wave Hill's education programs. Outdoor, inquiry-based learning is the hallmark of these innovative programs, which use Wave Hill's grounds and local open spaces as living laboratories for natural science exploration.

Wave Hill's education programs give teachers tools for integrating art and science. Hands-on experiences outdoors enrich and fulfill learning standards, enabling students to make connections between ecology, community and the world around them.

Bring your students to Wave Hill and experience its unique offerings which encompass three distinct, yet interwoven aspects of learning: Nature Studies, Creative Arts and Historical Studies. Our programs for grades PreK through 6 engage your students in active, participatory learning that span both outdoor and indoor education with gorgeous gardens, spectacular views, nature-inspired contemporary art, and tranquil woodlands. For those of you that can't make it to Wave Hill, we'll come to you with our lively Interactive Plays.

www.weeksvillesociety.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Weeksville Heritage Center's (WHC) Hunterfly Road Houses, located on an old Native American trail and later a colonial road, are examples of the homes of 19th century free African Americans in the urban North. These historic houses were continuously inhabited from their construction until their acquisition by the museum in 1968. Named for James Weeks, who purchased the land in 1838, Weeksville was originally settled by African Americans from all over the east coast following slavery's end in New York State in 1827. It was to become an economic, political, and cultural center during the 19th and early 20th centuries.

The mission of Weeksville Heritage Center is to document, preserve and interpret the history of free African American communities in Weeksville, Brooklyn, and beyond to create and inspire innovative, contemporary uses of African American history through education, the arts, and civic engagement.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Tours and workshops

Museum educators work closely with teachers to ensure that the tours meet the curricular and creative needs of their classrooms. Teachers are first provided with pre-visit materials. Museum educators then guide school groups through the houses and facilitate substantive experiences through inquiry based and hands on learning. Resources such as photographs, census records and oral histories are used to help audiences make connections to a forgotten past and develop a well-rounded knowledge of the contributions of historical Weeksville. To enhance their understanding and to further ground students in the Weeksville experience they can also participate in a post tour visual arts workshop. Weeksville's tours and workshops integrate the Common Core Standards and the Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Williamsburg School of Music

The Williamsburg School of Music is a new music education facility offering private and group musical instrument, voice and musical-theater lessons. We feature large practice rooms full of top gear, as well as a meeting room for recitals, lectures and group events. WSM has a world-class staff of teachers, experienced and accomplished musicians in their own right who also have a passion for passing on their skills to you.

Our experience in teaching music leads us to believe that learning to play an instrument should be fun and inspirational. This is reflected in our teaching methods. Understanding the importance of music education to enhance the overall growth of children, our mission is expose the student to music, while having a great time learning, creating, building and progressing together.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Programs at WSM: Private, one-on-one instruction in our facility allows students to progress at their own pace and gain the best understanding of musical techniques. Our band program offers the student the chance to develop musical skills and put them to use in a real rock band environment. Group rate programs are available for participating schools. Programs at the Participating School: Basic music class activities, no prior musical experience required, can be custom made for one or weekly class activities. Intro to musical instruments, using flutophones provided by WSM, can be an added activity as part of a basic music class. Musical theater programs are also offered on-site to assist with a school theater production or to work on a new one.

New York, NY 10036
T: (212) 586-2330 | F: (212) 582-0781
www.wingspanarts.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Our mission is to reach out and expose diverse groups, especially young audiences, to all forms of the performing, visual, media and literary arts. We accomplish this by engaging professional artist-educators who are inspired by the work they do and have a unique gift for sharing that inspiration with students. Since our founding in 2001, thousands of children across the New York Metro Region have benefited from Wingspan Arts customized programs, which utilize a wide spectrum of arts disciplines to address a variety of developmental areas.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Wingspan Arts offers arts education programs both afterschool and during the school day. Multidisciplinary classes include theatre, dance, music, multimedia and visual arts. Programs are custom designed to fit the individual schools needs for arts programming. In addition to school year programs, Wingspan Arts also operates a summer program.

The Wingspan Arts Summer Conservatory is a tuition free program for middle and high school students who wish to spend their summers immersed in the world of theatre. The Wingspan model combines theory, practice and experience to develop our students' abilities to work in ensembles, incorporate direction and use their bodies, voices and minds expressively. At the end of the 6 week summer session, all theatre students perform in a full length play or musical. This program is very competitive and audition/interview based.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Women's Project (WP) produces and promotes theater created by women, providing a stage for women's perspectives on a wide variety of political, social, religious, and cultural topics. Women's Project was founded in 1978 by Julia Miles to address the conspicuous under-representation of women playwrights and directors in the American theater; who even today, receive fewer than 13% of the professional opportunities in New York City. Now entering its fourth decade, under the leadership of Julie Crosby, countless artists have achieved significant recognition through WP productions, including Anne Bogart, Eve Ensler, Lynn Nottage, Maria Irene Fornes, Rinne Groff, Suzan-Lori Parks, Naomi Wallace, and Anna Deavere Smith, among the many.

During its 31 years, WP has staged over 600 mainstage productions and developmental projects, and published ten anthologies of plays by women. Women's Project mentors talented artists through its free, intensive Directors, Playwrights, and Producers Labs, and reaches over 2,000 students annually through Ten Centuries of Women Playwrights, an award-winning arts education program.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Ten Centuries of Women Playwrights serves New York City students in grades 6-12. This intensive program for male and female students addresses New York State standards for theater arts education with a specific focus on literacy, playwriting and theatre-making. Tailor-made to the needs of your community, WP Teaching Artists will collaborate with classroom teachers to design a residency that is built around a play written by a woman (ranging from tenth century to present day). Students read and explore the play and then generate their own written material through an analysis of the play's content, structure and context. A culminating project features the work written and performed by the participants either at the school or at WP's Julia Miles Theater. The program also offers admission to selected student matinees of WP's mainstage productions.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded in 1952, Young Audiences New York is one of the city's leading multi-disciplinary arts education providers. Our mission is to engage, educate and empower young people through the arts.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Young Audiences New York designs and implements arts programming intended to promote systemic change in the way children learn and achieve both in and out of the classroom. Our programs are crafted in response to the needs and interests of our partnering schools or institutions and are aligned with the NYC Department of Education's Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts. The primary components of YANY's programming include in-class residencies, artist performances, family programming, special education programming, early childhood programs, afterschool programming and professional development.

Residency programs provide students with in-depth learning experiences through the arts. Within skills-based programs, students gain meaningful understanding of concepts in the arts, academic subjects and life skills. Each program meets classroom learning and content requirements as outlined in the Teaching and Learning Standards, Blueprint for Teaching and Learning in the Arts. All residencies begin with a planning meeting between the artist and participating teachers, facilitated by a Young Audiences Program Manager, to allow for the development of shared learning outcomes for the residency. Residencies take place over a minimum of ten workshops with each workshop lasting 45 minutes. All residencies end with a culminating presentation or exhibition celebrating the students' work.

YANY features over 100 performing artists and ensembles, professionally skilled in their individual field. Early childhood performances for PreK to 2nd grade are designed to engage students in participatory experiences. Older students attend in-school educational performance programs exploring a diversity of cultural music, dance and theater styles. Individual performances can service up to 250 students.

YANY family programs provide opportunities for families to discover and appreciate the performing arts together, to develop awareness of cultural history and diversity in a school setting and to promote learning and exploration outside of the classroom. Pre- or post-program workshops may be added to or held in conjunction with family performances or off-site trips.

Professional development workshops for teachers are offered in all art forms as well as in specific topics such as Literacy and the Arts and Arts and the Internet. Nearly all of Young Audiences NY's programs can be implemented in afterschool or special education settings. Please contact YANY at 212-319-9269 or info@yany.org to discuss pricing, scheduling and more details on all our artists and programs.

Mission and History/Organization Description:

The Young People's Chorus of New York City (YPC) provides children of diverse backgrounds with a unique program of music education and choral performance that seeks to fulfill each child's musical potential, while creating a model of artistic excellence and harmony that enriches our community.

Founded in 1988 by Artistic Director Francisco J. Núñez, a 2011 MacArthur Fellow, YPC is nationally recognized for artistic excellence.

YPC was honored to receive a National Arts & Humanities Youth Program Award presented by First Lady Michelle Obama. Our choral music and education program serves more than 1,400 children annually, ages 7-18 from all five boroughs of New York City in our core After-School Chorus, Satellite Schools Program and a community-based chorus in Washington Heights.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Focusing on children's love and desire to sing, the Satellite Schools Program of the YPC creates and runs school choruses within individual New York City public schools to offer high-quality music education based on city, state and national standards. The YPC Satellite Schools Program has been cited by the NYC Department of Youth and Community Development as "one of the best and most instructive" music programs provided by a non-profit arts organization in the NYC public schools. Based on their acclaimed after-school model, YPC works closely with each school to customize the program to maximize learning and opportunity for that setting. As part of this partnership YPC provides a highly-trained conductor using the award-winning YPC curriculum, a professional accompanist, materials and performance opportunities.

www.youngplaywrights.org

Mission and History/Organization Description:

Founded by composer and lyricist Stephen Sondheim in 1981, Young Playwrights Inc.'s mission is to develop and support emerging playwrights aged 18 or younger on both a pre-professional and professional level. Educational programs aimed at students and teachers take a standards-based, literacy approach to teaching playwriting and are designed to improve literacy by empowering self-expression, producing original new works written by students for theater, and to foster the next generation of dramatists.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Students

The WRITE A PLAY! Curriculum is an ideal addition to classrooms and after-school programs, addressing a variety of learning styles and a broad range of abilities. Young Playwrights Inc. reaches “non-writers” by employing music, photography, improvisation and visual art to inspire writing. Playwriting is accessible to students because it begins with the spoken word. This accessibility affords a unique opportunity to explore individual creativity in the classroom — and by empowering self-expression, WRITE A PLAY! improves literacy. Students write monologues, develop dialogue, explore character, setting, and conflict, then draft and rewrite a new play. They master the basic concepts of playwriting and obtain the skills needed to continue working on their plays. Throughout, Young Playwrights Inc. encourages self-assessment, peer review, collaboration, and reinforces the importance of revision.

Teachers

Young Playwrights Inc.'s Write A Play! Teacher Training Institute provides educators in grades 3 – 12 a blueprint for integrating playwriting into English Language Arts and Theatre Arts curriculum as well as library and after-school programs. Each full-weekend participant receives a copy of Young Playwrights Inc.'s Write A Play! Curriculum Guide.

Zshuk Art Initiative

1685 Ocean Avenue, Apt 5A
 Brooklyn, NY 11230
 T: 646-335-3864
www.zshuk.com

Mission and History/Organization Description:

To foster creative and intellectual development of children through quality multimedia arts programs, directed by arts professionals. Zshuk Art Initiative offers art classes in Russian & English, taught by professional teaching artists. All programs are aligned with New York State Teaching Standards and the Blueprints for Teaching and Learning through the Arts.

Zshuk integrates traditional academic skills into visual arts, theater and music. Hands-on experiences enrich and fulfill learning standards, enabling students to make connections between history, community and the world around them. All classes are taught by artists with an extensive knowledge of history and culture of art, as well as strong technical skills. The teachers model artist's way of thinking and working, and convey to their students enthusiasm in the art making process. Children learn that art is more than a skill – it is a process of exploration and discovery. Our approach is inquiry-based and interdisciplinary.

Arts Education Programming Description:

Guest Artist Series: The Language and Art after-school program is designed to support language learning. Guest artist visits offer a unique opportunity to learn through three different art forms - visual art, music and drama.

Artist Workshops: Guest Artist visits or short residencies, focusing on a specific goal, allow students to construct personal approach to ideas and concepts in the world. Specially designed and led by experienced art educator staff trainings and professional development sessions, offer opportunities to acquire creative approaches and promote teaching and learning through art lens.

Museum Series: Artist & Me at the Metropolitan Museum of Art Museum Education Series designed to introduce children to the world of art. Children study from the original works of art and create their own work right in the gallery of world's most famous museum!

Art Journey Project: Artist led tours designed to introduce children to cultural establishments.
