A note from our Borough Arts Director

June greetings! Another successful school year is coming to an end!

Reflecting on the past school year makes us realize how fortunate we are here at the NYC DOE. We are thankful for you, our arts educators and school leaders, for your dedication and commitment to providing our district's students the opportunity to uncover their hidden talents and grow as artists and individuals. This school year would not be the success that it has been without your involvement and support.

Congratulations to the arts educators who are retiring. Teachers are the torch bearers of humanity, they show the way forward to the leaders and innovators of tomorrow. Your teachings will be forever treasured, your contribution in our students' lives can never be measured. Happy retirement!

I will keep you informed throughout the summer of any new arts opportunities. I hope you and your loved ones have a glorious summer.

Best Wishes,
Jessica

J. Englehart, Borough Arts Director, jenglehart@schools.nyc.gov
